

EVELYN GORDON

bombing

11.0-mini come

2• 8 8 8.

ABED Belbaysi, who obtained an injunction from the High Court of Justice against the use of physical force by his General. Security Service interrogators, was the man who planned the Beit Lid bus bombing, the state told the High Court yesterday. Belbaysi, wbo confessed this to the GSS last week, also said a third bomb was originally supposed to have been used in the attack, but since the third suicide bomber never showed up, this bomb was bide for future use. The GSS retrieved this bomb on Saturday. The GSS has been questioning Belbaysi since December 6. About two weeks ago, he petitioned the High Court against the use of physical force, including shaking, by his interrogators. The court, unconvinced by the state's generalized response that Belbaysi was a danger to state security, issued an interim injunction and a show-cause order against any use of physical force against him. Belbaysi has since charged that the GSS is violating the injunction, which the GSS denies. Over the weekend, bowever, Belbaysi's attorney, Andre Rosenthal, filed another petition, against the fact that the GSS refused to allow him to meet with his client last week. Rosenthal argued that this was illegal, hecause he was not informed as soon as the order banning a meeting was issued. Instead, he found out only when he tried to visit Belbaysi last Thursday. In response to this second petition, however, state attorney Shai Nitzan told the conrt yesterday that Belbaysi had confessed last week to being the planner and organizer of last January's Beit Lid attack, which killed 21 people. According to Nitzan, Belbaysi said he was recruited by Islamic Jihad toward the end of 1994, whereupon he promptly planned and organized the Beit Lid attack. In his house, he prepared three bombs. He then transported both the bombs and the bombers to the site of the attack, and dressed the bombers in army uniforms.

A young supporter tries to scale a feace to get a closer look at Palestinian Authority Chairman Yasser Arafat yesterday on his visit to the village of Dura, south of Hebron. (AP)

Anafat: Israel responsible for Yinye Ayyash's liquidation

squeeze by cabinet

musual fluctuations in the shekel exchange rate.

The fiscal tightening proposed by Shohat was praised by the Bank of Israel and the Manufacturers Association, but met with opposition from ministers, particularly Labor and Social Affairs Minister Ora Namir, Industry and Trade Minister Micha Harish, and Agriculture Minister Ya'acov Tzur.

After a beated debate, the cabinet considered a compromise proposed by Education Minister Amnon Rubinstein, who suggested that the government accept in principle the new fiscal frame-and on the Bank of Israel to further reduce interest rates by 1.5%. Considering that the proposed cutbacks are relatively minor - roughly 0.75% of the national budget - analysts believe chances for an interest-rate cut are low. Within the cabinet, the most brazen attack on the plan came from Trade and Industry Minister Micha Harish. Referring to last week's Knesset approval of the 1996 budget, he called the package "a hysterical improvisation," and added be wouldn't invest his moncy in a business that changes its policy statements within a week.

The economy is being exposed to rapid Treasury policy shifts, which hamper the various ministries' work, he said. Harish said the cuts should have come in the form of a four-year plan for gradual cutbacks.

Namir said that following three budget cuts in her ministry last year, she no longer has "where to cut from" and that any cuts imposed on her would harm the country's weakest populations. Tzur attacked the measures on the same grounds.

Absorption Minister Yair Tzaban added that the package also harms the stature of the Knesset, whose budget deliberations last week now stand to be bypassed.

Energy Minister Gonen Segev, apparently insulted at not having been consulted about the gasoline tax, also attacked Shohat, saying his plan "sanctifies" a deficit figure regardless of economic reality. The opposition also attacked the measures, saying they would boost inflation and perpetuate Israel's reputation as the country with the world's highest indirect taxes. Opposition representatives called on Shohat to resign.

Michal Yudelman adds: The Histadrut leadership was outraged by the new measures, which Chairman Amir Peretz said constitute "a mockery of the Knesset.'

However, the Histadrut will not declare war against the plan until it is clear exactly what cuts and additional taxes are being planned, sources close to Peretz said.

GSS seeks to deport US citizen for plotting to blow up Al-Aksa Mosque

THE General Security Service BILL HUTMAN ten a book about it, that I want Alhas requested that an American Aksa removed and the temple recitizen residing in Jerusalem dewho remain at large allegedly built," Ben-Ariel said. "But I have ported on grounds he was inplanned to blow np Al-Aksa to no plans to remove it myself. pave the way for the building of volved in a plot to blow up Al-That's the government's job.' Aksa Mosque. the third temple, security sources Ben-Ariel, a member of the Temple Mount Faithful which The American, David Ben-Arsaid. Ben-Ariel strongly denied the that also calls for the removal of allegations, and said he was being Al-Aksa, said he came bere by the GSS and taken to the Rusunfairly treated by the GSS and abont nine months ago, and resian Compound for interrogapolice. cently applied for citizenship. The sources said they wanted tion. He was released after sever-He said he works at an Old Ben-Ariel deported, and not al hours of questioning, but his City youth hostel, where GSS passport was confiscated and he brought to trial, because they agents found him on Thursday, was ordered to report daily to were concerned they lacked hard and that he has been to the counpolice, which he did yesterday. try on many occasions in recent. evidence to convict him. "It is no secret, and I have writyears, often for extended stays. Ben-Ariel and several cohorts

h

STRAIGHT from the Greek Or- ... thodox Christmas Mass in Bethlehem, Palestinian Authority Chairman Yasser Arafat arrived in Dura, near, Hebron, yesterday, and delivered a eulogy for slam terrorist Yihye Ayyash that was full of Koranic allusions. But he also affirmed his faith in the peace process.

Arafat began his speech by quoting the opening sura of the Koran, often read at the funerals. of those who die as martyrs. He then raised his hands and moved his lips in silent prayer before the crowd of several thousand, which in this highly conservative, religious town, consisted largely of Hamas supporters and devout. Moslems.

Arafat praised all Palestinian martyrs, from Mohammed Ashraf, the first Fatah casualty, who died in 1965, "to the last among them, the sanctified Yibye Ayyash." He then blamed Israel for Ayyash's death, saying Israel had violated the Oslo agreement.

"We have made the peace of the brave. We are committed to it," Arafat said. "We ask the other side not to violate this peace, to enter Palestinian territory in Gaza and kill and assassinate the strug-gler, the martyr, Yihye Ayyash."

JON IMMANUEL

Arafat praised Yitzhak Rabin, however, describing him as "my peace partner."

It's 1996 and

YOU STILL CAN'T USE WIN '95?

Israel's National Word Processor

the only one to work in Hebrew under

WINDOWS '95!

and the Gulf War, "we had no choice" but to make peace, he said. He also called for "iron-clad national unity between Fatah and Hamas. We might differ on certain things, but even the companions of the Prophet had differences, yet all would fight for him."

You CAN if you use

Faced with the prospect of Hamas and its more extreme armed groups taking action against Israel and upsetting the momentum of eace partner." the peace process, Arafat had After the fall of the Soviet Union been expected to make a play for unity and invoke the Koran more than in previous speeches.

As usual, Arafat expressed confidence that "in a few months, we will pray together at the Ibrahimi Mosque [in Hebron] and at Al-Aksa [in Jerusalem]," adding (Continued on Page 9)

iel, 35, of Ohio, was detained in Jerosalem's Old City Thursday

Israel's real estate market is blossoming Talk to us to enjoy the fruits.

Tourists and foreign residents (including Israelis permanently residing abroad) enjoy special privileges when purchasing real estate in Israel. To benefit from a fully informed nacture and a fully informed picture and professional services specifically tailored to your needs, talk to Israal Discount Bank first.

الا المراجعة المراجعة المراجعة المراجعة المراجعة مستند المستوطنية (1997-1997). المراجعة مستند

We offer you a special program of highly competitive financing opportunities: in Israel, 29 offices abroad, a strong equity base and sixty years of unnvaled expertise, we Real estate loans or mortoades are your natural starting point for a real estate investment in Israel. denominated in local or foreign

For further details: international , Division Business Promotion

With a network of 220 branches and Marketing Department 16 Mapu St. (Corner 71 Ban-Yehuda St.) Tal-Aviv Tei: (03) 520-3198, 524-7279 Fax: (03) 524-2343 or visit any Israel branch or

· ••• ·

10000 tounst center

currencies. Loan repayment period up to fifteen vears. No guarantors required.

NEWS

Monday, January 8, 1996

The Jerusalem Post

Likud trying to delay vote on Oslo 2 endorsement bill

THE coalition is mobilizing voting in east Jerusalem post ofagainst a parliamentary maneuver by the opposition which would postpone the vote on the bill endorsing the interim agree ment with the Palestinians.

The bill must pass to allow east Jerusalem Arabs 10 participate in the January 20 elections.

fices, as agreed upon in the Oslo accords

The Likud last Monday deelared the vote on the bill's first reading a no-confidence motion, automatically postponing it by a week.

Yesterday, it tried to postpone One of the clauses in the bill is it by another week, arguing that a legislative amendment to allow the discussion has not yet finished because Justice Minister David Liba'i did not reply to it last week.

The Likud elaimed only at the end of the discussion can the noconfidence motioo be declared and the week's delay take place. Coalition chairmao Ra'anao

Cobeo, bowever, decided after consultations with Prime Minister Shimon Peres and legal advisers,

LIAT COLLINS

that the coalition would declare. the vote a motion of confidence io the government. This means the bill will have to be voted on today. Assuming the bill passes first reading, the government will still be forced to sweat over it a little longer.

Betweeo the first and the second and third readings, the hill has to return to committee for discussion.

The Likud hopes it will be forwarded to the Interior Committee, chaired by Yeboshua Matza (Likud), who would see to it that the bill is further delayed.

The governmeot, however, wants the hill to be passed on to the Law Committee, chaired by Dedi Zucker (Meretz). The oppositioo has not ruled out the possibility of a filibuster or declaring both the second and third readiogs no-confidence motions Tzahi Hanegbi has filed hundreds of reservations on the bill.

Other Likud MKs are apparently filing similar reservations. all of which would have to be heard in a marathon discussion similar to the recent mega-debate on the national budget.

Io a meeting yesterday with Speaker Shevah Weiss, Likud faction chairmao Moshe Katsav demanded Weiss call for a special deliberations committee to determine that the hill should come to vote only next Monday.

.

Policemen patrol Jerusalem's Central Bus Station yesterday. Security was tightened there and at bus terminals throughout the country to prevent terror attacks avenging the death of Yihye Ayyash. (Brian Hendler)

Ayyash's death leads public to avoid buses

RAMI, a 23-year-old yeshiva student, said he wasn't scared, as he waited to get ooto a hus yesterday in Jerusalem. Neither was Tziona, a 51-year-old grandmother waiting for another hus at the city's central bus station.

But the number of bus riders was down yesterday in Jerusalem and around the country, according to Egged officials, as the death of "The Engineer." Yihye Avvash, rekindled the public's concerns about suicide hus. bomhings.

"On the one hand, we feel a sense of relief [over Ayyash's death]," said Yigal Nuri, Egged's Jerusalem ceotral bus station diBILL HUTMAN cerned, because we know that huses may be a target of a revenge attack,"

The number of riders seemed light for a Sunday. Egged officials said it was too early to accurately estimate the drop in riders, and company spokesman Roo Ratner described the drop-off as "slight."

Last summer, immediately after the suicide hus bomhlng in Jerusalem's Ramat Eshkol, thousaods of regular passengers avoided huses for weeks, costing Egged an estimated NIS 15 miltion, Ratner said, has put us on alert," Nuri said, "But our drivers are well-trained on how to handle such situations. There was no need for any special measures hy Egged." Ratner, meanwhile, said that while the government has done much to beef up security on buses, there is still more that needs to be done.

"More resources are still needed to prevent possible attacks on Egged huses," Ratner said,

Additional policemen have been assigned to the central hus station. Additional private security guards hired hy the Transport ### will likely remain there in the coming days.

"f dido't feel particolarly scared before 'The Engineer' was killed, and I doo't feel particularly seared oow," said Rami-"Look, Hamas is always trying to carry out attacks. It doesn't make that much difference whether "The Engineer" is dead or alive," be said. Tziona was more pragmatic. "I don't have any choice but to use the bus. I don't have a car and can't afford taxis," she said, as she. purchased a drink hefore boarding.

"But I feel good today - that's what the death of 'The Engineer'

83% of settlers reject taking up arms against evacuation

HERB KEINON

EIGHTY-THREE perceot of settlers would not . Thirty percent of the respondents said they would consider using lethal weapons to fight a government- be willing to consider leaving their homes in exordered evacuation of settlements, according to a change for "reasonable compeosation" from the recent survey.

The survey, sponsored by Bar-Ilan University's Begin-Sadat Center for Strategic Studies and the Nablas-hased Center for Palestice Research aod Studies, found that 8% of the settlers answered positively when asked, "Would you consider resisting with force (i.e. use of firearms or other lethal weapons) to a government-ordered evacuation of the settlements in Judea and Samaria."

Another 9% said they did not know.

According to the poll, carried out by Modi'm Ezrahi, 2% of the settlers said they would "justify active confrontation," such as "hitting, use of lethal weapons, etc.," against soldiers who came to evacuate settlements, while 14% would justify passive physical confrontation.

The poll of 511 Jews in 79 settlements was conducted by phone from December 29-31.

The margin of error is 4.5%.

Among the poll's other findings:

Intelligence

ple, as they strive to secure their legitimate rights on their legitimate national soil.

"Jordan will never infringe upoo Palestinian affairs beyond government, while 58% said they would refuse to consider this option. • Twenty-two percent of the settlers believe that within five to 10 years most settlements will be dismantled, while 20% believe most of the settlements will be annexed to Israel. • Thirty-nine perceot of the respondents believe a Palestinian state will be established in Judea and Samaria within five to 10 years, while 26% believe the peace process will fail, and the IDF will return to exert control over Judea and Samaria. Sixteen percent of the settlers believe that if a Palestioian state emerges, they would "consider staying oo the settlement as a citizen of Israel under Palestinian sovereignty," while 71% said they would not consider this option.

 Seventy-two percent said they would not consider "fair business offer' from a Palestinian to buy their home or business, while 15% said they would.

Jordan denies concern about Palestinian state HERB KEINON

Palestinian elections was never JORDAN yesterday denied a Jerusalem Post report last week in raised in the presence of his majwhich a high-raokiog foreigo esty the king. ministry official said the Jordani-"However, his majesty is fully ans told Foreign Minister Ehod supportive of these elections be-Barak - during his one-day visit ing held according to plan. Jordan emharked on its peace with that they are concerned about the creation of a Palestinian state, In a statement anthorized by King Hussein, the royal palace Israel at the same time as Syria, Lebanon, and the Palestinians at the Madrid Peace Conference. responded that "Jordan is fully supportive of the Palestinian peo-Jordan has always called for and sought an Arah-Israeli compre-heusive peace." The Foreign Ministry official also said Jordaoians are concerned that if there is progress in the Israeli talks with Syria, Jordan will be pushed out of the limelight and have to share both

"Jordan is not in the least concerned that its role in the cause of achieving a comprehensive peace in the region will be marginalized hy any and all parties as they move towards the attainment of

"Nor has lordan ever been or will be as small as to begrudge any and all parties their rights to 14 a - 1

· · · .

÷.

÷.,

<

Alert civil

.

chief: Assad wants peace - on his terms

LIAT COLLINS SYRIAN President Hafez Assad

has made a strategic decision to schieve a peace agreement with Israel, according to OC Military Intelligence Maj.-Gen. Moshe Ya'aloo.

Ya'alon and other senior Intelligence Branch officials briefed the cabinet vesterday.

Ya'alon reportedly told the rector. "But we are also con-

"The death of 'The Engineer'

NEWS IN BRIEF

Woman, 83, killed by sanitation vehicle Malka Migdal, 83, of Ramat Gan was killed yesterday afternoon when she was hit by a sanitation vehicle while crossing the street.

Migdal, who was oot crossing at a crosswalk, was taken in critical condition to Sheba Hospital at Tel Hashomer, and died two hours later. The driver was detained for questioning, but later released.

Ra'i Pilanti, 31, of Nablus, was killed yesterday and three other people injured in an accideot on the Trans-Samaria highway oear Ofarim when ber car was hit by a car and crashed into another car.

Itim

Small bomb explodes in Old City

THE worst kept secret in the cabinet is opposition to Prime Minister Shimon Peres's demand that ministers sign an oath not to leak

the contents of meetings or make public statements on issues oot directly related to their own

So far, two-thirds of the cabioet have reportedly signed the document, whose elauses ioclude

a maximum three-year prison sentence for violations. One of those refusing to sign is Environment Minister Yossi Sarid (Meretz), who criticized the oath as presenting the ministers as potential leakers. Sarid was careful not portfolios.

• · · · · ---- ·

. . .

A small pipe bomb exploded in Jerusalem's Old City yesterday, causing no damage or injury, as police beefed up security in eastern Jerusalem out of concern for a possible revenge attack for the killing of Yihye Ayyash, "The Engineer."

The bomh exploded at the entrance to a compound of homes occupied by Jewisb settlers, in the Moslem Quarter just inside Herod's Gate.

Police said that hundreds of additional policemen were stationed in eastern Jerusalem and in other parts of the city following Ayyash's death. They are to remain on the job for Bill Hutman at least the next several days, police sources said.

Ministry are also on dury, and has done for me," she said

Human rights activist raps use of election observers

STEVE RODAN

A LEADING buman rights activist has criticized the use of international observers to monitor the Palestinian elections, saying their failure to understand Arabic and Arab customs would end up merely bestowing legitimacy on balloting that might bave heen rigged. Karel Vasak, a professor at Brest University in France and former legal adviser to UNES-

CO, criticized what be called "the growing practice over the past years of sending international observers to elections throughout the world, where there is a risk elections will not be free or fair."

Speaking at a receot cooference on democracy at Tel Aviv University, Vasak added, "Observers should not be seot where conditions for free and fair elections don't exist."

signatures. The vote was 10-3;

Several ministers also strongly criticized the manner io which they learned about the proposed budget cuts. Some of those whose ministries will be directly affected apparently learned about the cuts

by fax an hour before the official announcement late Saturday night; others heard from the Housing Mioister Binyamin

Ben-Eliezer told Israel Radio h is "laughable that I, as a minister, heard about the cuts from the television and received a fax about the clauses."

the others abstained.

media.

TAU Presideot Yoram Dinstein agreed. He recalled that he had refused to serve as an observer during the recently-beld parliamentary elections in Russia. "I don't speak Russian," he said. "What could I know? I would see a line of people who are ordered to put an envelope in a yellow box. As an observer, I would report that everything is fine."

Dinstein said the oumber of observers doeso't ensure free elections. "If the observers don't speak Arabic and doo't know the milieu, if they lack local contacts and can't meet with people to hear complaints, they won't be able to see what is happening under their noses. We will probably get only English-speaking observers, and they will report that everything was perfect," he said.

"And it's already not perfect."

Histadrut comptroller finds irregularities

MICHAL YUDELMAN

SEVERE irregularities io the Hapoel sports association and the Histadrut's scholarship fund appear in the annual report of the Histadrut comptroller, presented yesterday.

weeks.

s mar me piocess gaining momentum, including in the Gulf states and North Africa. However, he also noted that some of these states are arming themselves, particularly Iran, which is trying to obtain nuclear weapons and will likely be able to prodoce oon-conventional weapous within five years.

Ya'alon's bead of research; Brig.-Gen. Ya'acov Amidror. agreed that Irao is the maio threat to Israel, but said there is oo immediate risk of war.

There are signs Syria is growing increasingly more willing to sign a peace treaty with Israel, but Assad is adamant that ao agreement be on his terms, they said

The officers recalled that Syriao-Iranian treaties remain in force, but mainly because of the countries' perception of Iraq as a common enemy.

Regarding the Palestinians, Ya'aloo said the agreed timetable for implementiog the Oslo 2 agreement is being adhered to and most clauses have been abided by.

> Rape still goes unreported

SOME 88 perceot of Arah women and 35% of Jewish women who were raped during 1995 did not report the attack to police, according to a survey by the Center for Aid to Victims of Rape and Sexual Attacks in Haifa.

The center last year dealt with 537 women of all ages who had been sexually attacked. Only 10 percept of them had contacted the center within 24 hours of the attack. One bundred and nineteen of the women were victims of incest - 22% of of the total. Thirty of the women had reported being gang-raped. Itim fied hanning the meeting with Rosenthal.

Belbaysi's interrogation is continuing. However, the State Attorney's Office said it had not yet. decided whether to use his confession to try to get the interim injunction forbidding the GSS to use force against him revoked. Belbaysi's petition on that issue is still pending before the court.

supporting the Palestinian people and their leadership."

The Foreign Ministry official Israeli and American attentioo told the Post that Barak assured with Syria and the Palestinians. Hussein that the Jordanians will This was also denied by the palhave a vital role to play in any ace, which said "the mood in Jordan is one of optimism regarding permanent settlemeot between Israel and the Palestinians. the current Syrian-Israeli negotiations and welcomes their early suc-Barak reportedly said this after the Jordanians voiced concern that a Palestinian entity, which could have wide-ranging, oegative ramifications for the kingdom, is being established "right in froot of their eyes."

In response to the reported story, the palace said that "the said quote is all its contents and context was totally erroneous."

According to the statement, 'The subject of the impending up, judicial sources said.

"Laitb Shuhailat refused to start the court proceedings without the presence of the defense counsel who were not notified of Sunday's session," one judicial source told Reuters. "So the ### Trial of Jordanian peace critic postponed

AMMAN (Reuter) - The trial of court decided to postpone the tria leading Jordanian critic of King al to Wednesday." Hussein's links with Israel, set to Shubailat is charged with viostart yesterday, was postponed because bis lawyers did oot show the full benefits of peace."

cessful conclusion.

that worthy goal.

lating the dignity of King Hussein and Queeo Noor, distributing leaflets that violate their dignity, inflaming religious and ethnic divisions, and undermining the state's moral authority and confidence in the national currency.

Each of the charges carry a maximum three-year sectence.

FOR FURTHER DETAILS. CALL ANY OF THE TRAVEL AGENTS.

PRICE PER PERSON SK DOUBLE ROOM" DEPARTURES ONLY IN JANUARY NOT INCLUDE REGISTRATION FEBS, TAX, TIP5, VISA (JOB HOT INCLUDE HOLDAYS)

vey a warning to his friends, who (Continued from Page 1) Belhaysi told the GSS that while origioally three hombs were to be used, only two suicide bombers showed up, so Belbaysi hid the third bomb, containing 15 meet with a lawyer. kilograms of explosives.

.. ...

Nitzan explained that the GSS was afraid that if Belbaysi were allowed to meet with his lawyer, he might use this meeting to con-

...

LIAT COLLINS

to specifically criticize Peres, but said the right of expression is a matter of personal conscience.

Ministers refuse to sign secrecy pledge

Absorption Minister Yair Tzahan (Meretz) also opposed the document, while lodustry and Trade Minister Mieha Harish (Labor) eriticized some of its wording.

Peres reportedly said the vow of silence will not he applied to statements on foreign policy.

Although Peres had hoped the ministers would sign when asked. he was forced to pass a special government decision ordering the might then retrieve the bomh before the GSS got there. The GSS therefore asked a military court early last week for a temporary order forbidding Belbaysi to Belbaysi, meanwhile, ended up telling his interrogators where he had hidden the bomb, and it was retrieved oo Saturday morning.

· • • - ·

BEIT LID

There are therefore no further obstacles to a meeting between Belhaysi and Roseothal, Nitzan said.

Belhaysi, 27, from Jahalya, was captured by the GSS when he attempted to enter Israel using a magnetic card, Nitzan added. He presented by Nitzan clearly justi-operating on the basis of orderly regulations, ooting that no independent public committee has checked whether comptroller reports have been checked or implemented. is married with three children, and owns a clothing factory that employs 60-70 people. In light of Nitzan's announcement, Rosentbal withdrew the petition. In an unusual move, however, Justices Gavriel Bach, Eliezer Goldberg, and Yitzhak

Zamir offered their opinioo anyway, stating that the information and the second s

The report will be debated hy the Histadrut leadership in two Comptroller Adi Kandel said that the Histadrut has not been ### recent muga-debate - ige TS yesterday with Vat Wern Likes Tat. Monte Kalsa in all tot a special committee in deter. mil includ crome lo Munday.

NEWS

iking ition

where S

15 24

1.11

p spond

Jours and EGYPT 219

,319

125

 $\mathcal{L}^{*} \neq$

Jerusalem won't lay naration discussion says union

leader BILL HUTMAN

off 500,

The Jerusalem Post

THE plan to fire 500 Jerusalem municipal workers "is all bullshit," and will likely never be realized; workers' union leader Danny Bonfil charged yesterday. "For two years now, [Jerusalem Mayor Ehud] Olmert has been talking about layoffs, and look what has happened," Bonfil said. There have been no largescale layoffs among city workers during Olmert's administration.

Bonfil was speaking in a telephooe interview following the adoption by the city council of the 1996 budget, which calls for 500 city workers to be let go as part of large-scale cutbacks.

'What's really being talked aboot is 200 workers," Bonfil

"Before any layoffs begin, we are demanding that all the unnecessary advisers and political appointees be sacked first," he said. Eveo if the city persists in trying to lay off workers; "There will be no firings, only early retirements for those who choose it," Bonfil said.

Sources at the council meeting said Olmert rejected the charge that the offices of the city's political leadership were over-staffed and included overpaid officials.

Olmert added that his record on political appointces was particular stroog in comparison to that of former mayor Teddy Kollek, the sonrces said. He declined, however, to elaborate.

Outside City Hall, a small demonstration was held by Jerasalem old-age home workers and elderly residents against cuts that would affect the elderly, as inside, Ohmert defended the budget as essential for the city's fiscal health.

Olmert said that none of the some 60 recreation centers for the elderly would be closed by the cuts, although senior city officials had told council members otherwise only last week, sources at

in the state of the state

Monday, January 8, 1996

Cellcom president Ya'acov Perry - former head of the General Security Service - ponders a cake in the form of the company's product yesterday at an anniversary party at Kfar Hammacabiah.

'Ha'aretz' petitions High Court against 'discrimination' by IDF

EVELYN GORDON

THE Ha aretz newspaper yester-day petitioned the High Court of porters wore invited to visit one Justice against alleged discrimination against its reporters by the of the Golani postsi there; "talk with the soldiers and attend a Ha aretz and the army have a press conference. However, the petition said, reporter Eitan Ra-from Yediot Ahronot, Ma'ariv,

Davar, Israel Radio and hoth television stations were given such interviews. According to Rabin, his request was met with the response: "We'll spit oo

Ha'aretz just as Ha'aretz spits on my hopes in setting up the Foundation was to give young men and women an opportunity to explore and define their Jewish identity.

This program can be a breakthrough, impacting Jewish teen-

The Righteous Persons Foundation is capitalized by Spielberg'a profits from Schindler's

List. The Academy Award-winning film, expected to lose money, has earned some $350 million worldwide, with Spielberg'a share agers for years to come."

interview battalioo commander Haggai Mordechai, then in Rambam Hospital in Haifa. However, Rabin was denied pennission; the petition said. Another Ha'aretz reporter,

Air fares go up in April

Service network to speed up reservations

HAIM SHAPIRO

AIR fare bargains are likely to end in late April, when fares are to increase by at least five percent over last year, according to El Al deputy director-general for commerce Dov Koniak.

The good news is that passeners soon will be able to obtain information and make reservations faster, not just on El Al, but on over 100 other airlines and other facilities, including hotels, car rental agencies, cruises and tours.

The improved service is to come as a result of the linkage of El Al's Cannel reservation system to the worldwide Sabre network, owoed by American Airlines

Speaking at a press conference, Koniak and Sabre vice-president Eric Speck yesterday described the system as one in which travel agents and their clients can compare fares and schedules and make reservations within seconds

Agents connected to the Carmel system are to be hooked up to Spectre by the end of the month, Koniak said.

iak noted that there had been an iocrease by 15 percent io the number of passengers at Ben-Gurion Airport, with a rise of 17.6% in the number carried hy El Al. He noted a 21% jump in the number of Israelis carried by the airline, which he attributed to the fact that local people are flying more often for shorter periods nf time. In a related development, representatives of the panel of foreign airlines in Israel warned that the increased numbers at the airport are already creating a crisis and that the situation would only worsen if the government goes ahead with plans to develop the Nevatim anticld in the Negev.

Rami Hilewicz, director of the SAS largel office, noted that Ben-Gurion already has the runway capacity to provide for the expected increase in air traffic for the next 15 years, although there are already bottlenecks at the terminal which keep the airlines from increasing their flights. With the expanded Ben-Gurion Airport, there could actually be an improvement in the quality of life for those living in the area Surveying the past year, Konbecause it would be possible to schedule all flights during the closed from midnight to 5 a.m., he said. British Airways Israel manager Nira Dror warned that if airlines could not receive convenient slots at Ben-Gurion, they would simply not expand operations to Israwaking hours. Many airports are

The airlines would not expend large sums to set up parallel offices at Nevatim, she warned.

Meanwhile, Nader Gababi, president of Royal Jordanian Airlines, told a press conference in Tel Aviv that the Jordanian carrier had no desire to compete for existing markets. Rather, he said, Royal Jordanian and El Al hope in create "another piece of the pie".

The two airlines are already advertising in the US a six-day package, incloding 3 nights in lordan and 3 nights in Israel, with each airline taking the passengers in one direction.

Gahabi said that Royal Jordanian is ready to fly between Amman and Ben-Gurion airport as soon as the aviation agreement between Israel and Jordan is signed. He could not say what the fare for the 14-minute flight would be.

Artificial corneas now in use here

ARTIFICIAL corneas implanted during eight-hour operations at Sheba Hospital have restored the sight of two completely hlind women. They were the first two Israeli patieots to receive the polymer plastic implants, which were developed abroad.

Dr. Yitzhak Avni, head of the them after being sure that their patients' bodies did oot reject the implant. A third operation is to be performed at Sheba today.

Avni said yesterday that the artificial comea is a "last resort" for totally blind patients who cannot benefit from natural comeas taken from a cadaver. It is not very esthetic - the piece of plastic is attached over the eye and the eyelids are permanently sewo closed to hold it in and reduce the risk of rejection, with a "window'' cut in the lid to allow the patient to see. Patients then wear sunglasses so people are not put off, Avni explained.

Uotil now, most patients needing an artificial cornea were sent abroad. The first two operations at Sheba were fully covered by the Clalit and Leumit bealth funds. Avni estimates that several dozen Israelis need such an implant.

Bar-llan appoints new president Prof. Moshe Kaveh will be the next president of Bar-Ilan University, effective February 1. Kaveh, a physicist who earned all three of his degrees at Bar-Ilan, has been rector for the past- or an three years. He will succeed Prof. Shlomo Eckstein, who will in a sort return to teach in the economics department-1117 1115 14 A Batsheva-Tsur

Tel Hashomer hospital's cornea unit, and his colleague Dr. Igor Brickman, performed the two opcrations several months ago, and waited until now to publicize

ACRI slams failure to fund Arab youth groups

JUDY SIEGEL

the meeting said.

About a third of the centers would be closed under the 1996 budget, the officials had told the city's finance committee, which approved the budget last week, the sources said.

Israel Museum director resigns MEIR RONNEN

DR. Martin Weyl, first overall director of the Israel Museum and the man who turned it into the country's largest and most prestigious cultural institution, has announced his resignation.

Weyl, 55, a Holocaust survivor, bas been with the museum for more than 26 years, first as curator, then chief curator, and, for the last 15 years, director. His command of languages, international cootacts, and extraordinary success as a fundraiser, have. led to his being offered posts by major musenms abroad, bnt Weyl intends to remain here in a newly announced post as director emeritus at the museum.

Weyl's resignation has caused consternation among friends-ofthe-museum groops in America and Europe, which see him as irreplaceable. Several museum supporters have flown here in an attempt to get him to change his mind. But Weyl has remained adamant, although he has agreed to stay on until July 1.

long-standing dispute over the paper's refusal to withhold reports on casualties until the families have been notified - a policy to which the Editors' Committee has agreed, but which Ha'aretz nevertheless ignores. Because of this, the petition charged, for the past few months the army has systematically denied interviews to its reporters and refused to invite them to tours and press conferences. The petition listed several instances in which the paper was allegedly discriminated against. On October 19, for instance, following a week in which nine soldiers were killed in Lebanon, re-

FILMMAKER Steven Spiel-

berg's Righteous Persons Foundation has made a $1.6 million grant to Brandeis University to create a program for teenagers linking their secolar interests to atudies in Jewish valoea aod

The grant will lannch "The Genesis Program," a four-week summer session, to start with 48

stridents in 1997 at Brandeis Uni-

In announcing the $1.6 million grant, Spielberg said that "one of estimated at $30-$40m.

tradition.

Finally, after an incident in Lebanon on December 6 in which acveral soldiers were wounded and one killed, reporters from all the other papers were invited to Spielberg foundation gives $1.6m.

to Brandeis for Jewish studies

TOM TUGEND

LOS ANGELES

ns."

Aluf Ben, was told explicitly that bin was not allowed to go along. no interviews would be granted to Ha'aretz uoless the paper Similarly, his request for an interview with a senior anny offichanged its policy on reporting cial oo the state of affairs in Lebacasualties, the petition said. non was denied, though reporters

The paper argued that this policy is illegal, because the army has no authority to discriminate amoog various media ootlets. Ha'aretz readers have sons in the army just like everybody else, the petitioo said, and the paper's readers have the same right to information from the army as other citizens.

The army therefore has an obligation to supply information equally to all papers, the petition argued.

34% of homes have a computer JUDY SIEGEL

THIRTY-FOUR percent of Israeli homes have a personal computer; of these, 5.6% have two compinters and 1.4% have three. These statistics were provided by International Data Corporation-Israel, which conducted a survey of computer users and fonod home nae the largest-growing sales factor.

Abnut ooe-quarter of the 440,000 PCs were purchased in 1994 and 1995, according to the survey, which used a representative sample of more than 600 people and was carried out by Dr. Arve Rotem. IDC-Israel is a subsidiary of Koteret and the computer weekly Anashim U'machshevim

Fully 96% of the PCs were IBM or IBM-compatible, 2.4% Apple Macintosh, and the rest of other types. Home users receive most advice and assistance from friends and colleagnes at work, with little provided by exhibitions, direct-mail marketing, or thè mass media.

Nearly 90% of users have at least one computer game. A third of those with home computers said they are turned on over 15 hours a week. Nearly half said their children monopolize the computer 91%-100% of the time.

THE Education Ministry's refusal to fund Arab youth groups is discriminatory and illegal, the Association for Civil Rights in Israel (ACRI) charged yesterday.

Neither Arab youth groups nor many joint Jewish-Arab groups are funded by the ministry, ACRI said, because they do not meet the ministry's funding criteria.

These criteria include "fall identification with the Jewish people [and] with the Zionist movement," and require youth movements to "see army service as an obligatory value."

However, ACRI noted, haredi youth groups, which also do not meet these criteria, receive funding from the Religious Affairs Ministry.

Thus, it charged, the criteria are aimed explicitly at discriminating against Arab groups.

The situation is especially ridicnlous, ACRI said, because many of the joint Jewish-Arab groups are aimed at promoting co-existeuce and democratic values, which the ministry ought to support.

In contrast, according to Education Minister Amnon Rubinstein, many of the groups that are funded do not promote democratic values.

Rubinstein himself has agreed that this policy has to change, and that only groups promoting democratic values should be funded, the organization noted.

"The Education Ministry's [funding] instructions are illegal, and strike a fundamental blow at the principle of equality, which holds that a policy which discriminates on the basis of nationality or world-view is completely forbidden," wrote ACRI attorney Hassan Jabarin in a letter to Rubinstein.

CELLULAR PHONES

Rental/Sales

only goo shekela/day daily rate

8 shekels/day monthly rate

The Interior Ministry yesterday warned bathers and surfers to avoid the beaches between Rishon Lezion and Tel Aviv, particularly the Cliff Beach, because the water is being polluted by sewage flowing from the area of the Reading power plant. Jerusalem Post Staff US Embassy to resume issuing visas

Warning issued on polluted beaches

The US Embassy announced that as of this morning its visa department is reopening, after being closed for several weeks because of the US budget dispute. It was estimated that some 3,000 Israelis were unable to enter the US during this period because they could not obtain visas except for emergencies.

Embassy spokesman Richard Scorza advised holders of expired US visas that they could have them renewed through travel agents, thus avoiding a visit to the embassy.

Jerusalem Post Staff

Sotheby's international experts are in Israel to evaluate your property for our Spring sales in London, Geneva and Amsterdam.

Russian Silver Mr. Haydn Williams - Sotheby's London January 16-17

European Silver Mr. Kobus du Plessis - Sotheby's Paris January 16-17

Russian Icons and Paintings Mr. Ivan Samarine - Sotheby's London January 17-19

Jewellery and Gemstones Mr. Jonathan Condrup - Sotheby's Amsterdam January 31 - February 1

Clocks and Watches Mr. Aurel Bacs - Sotheby's Geneva February 7-8

For a complimentary and confidential evaluation, please call for an appointment: Tel: 03-5223822, Fax: 03-5225454 38 Gordon St., Tel Aviv 63414

Peretz aims to have workers running Ouman neged on its promise to re-open MICHAL YUDELMAN

versity in Massachusetts.

HISTADRUT Chairman Amir Peretz yesterday told the trade union federation's leadership that be had set up a committee which, together with the Industry and Trade and Labor ministries, will formulate a model for operating Ofakim's Ouman Knitting Mills by its workers for three months. During that time, a private entrepreneur to purchase the plant together with its workers will be sought. So far there has been no contact with Polgat, the plant'a owner, whose agreement is required for the project. Peretz said the strange conduct of Polgat left the Histadrut no

Ouman if the Histadrut got orchoice but "to take things into our own hands.' Pereiz accused Polgat's managers of trying to foil any attempt to bring new entrepreneurs into the plant

He said he is considering legal measures against Polgat, maintaining that it had deliberately deceived the government by taking a $1.6 million loan from the Industry and Trade ministry's investment center for new eminmeot, then closing the plant

Peretz's media adviser Yossi Leibovitz said Polgat had re-

Alert civil guardsman nabs car thieves near Masada down.

AN alert Civil Guard member uncovered a gang of but his suspicions were aroused when he noticed that AN alert Civil Guard Volunteer substances were aroused when he noticed that car thieves an Saturday. Civil Guard volunteer substances ignition had been tampered with. He arcar thieves nn Saturday. Civil Guald volunteer sime wan's ignition had been tampered with He ar-Memo Barak, of Kibbutz Ein Gedi, was tonning rested them and took them to the Arad police ocar Masada when he came across three Palestinians station, where it was discovered that the van had ocar Masada when he came across three Palestinians station, where it was discovered that the van had whose van had run out of gas. He got gas for them, been stolen in Eilat.

were not economic or practical, calling them "lame excuses. The Defense Ministry ordered 75,000 sweaters without even a tender, how is that not economic? The police ordered 10,000 scatters and the Electric Corporation 17,000."

Paperback, 150pp, Only NIS 44.001 (Incl. shipping) Tel: 02-380247 Fax: 02-388423

The Jerusalem Post Monday, January 8, 1996

WORLD NEWS

David Greenburg of Washington DC skis through the Georgetown section of the city yesterday as one of the worst winter storms in recent years hit the US capital. Meteorologists expect the blizzard to dump more than two feet of snow on the area.

EU warns: Mostar to stay united

THE European Union administrator in Mostar warned yesterday he would not allow the tense Bosnian city to become a Balkans Berlin split into hostile zones like the German city after World War II. Hans Koschnick-threatened to withdraw EU aid if Croat-Moslem violence persisted.

His EU reconstruction and aid team has been trying to keep order following the killings of a Croat policeman and a Moslem youth.

Koschnick said that if the two communities refused to work together "we should pack up, take our money and leave.'

Calm returned to Mostar vesterday after Croat and Moslem troops traded super fire and rocket-propelled grenades overnight over the city's "confrontation line" dividing the communities.

, Spanish force armored cars of the Bosnian peace Implementa-tion Force (IFOR) patrolled the confrontation line during the night in a show of strength.

NATO said small-arms fire hit a French military aircraft approach-

NICHOLAS DOUGHTY

MOSTAR, Bosnia

ground for an uneasy Mosleming Sarajevo airport vesterday but there were no casualities and the roat federation to rule half Bosplane landed safely - the latest in a nia, separately from a Serb repubseries of incidents blamed on triglic, and therefore the key to the ultimate success of the Dayton ger-happy gunmen. Two people in the Bosnian capipeace agreement on Bosnia.

While the Moslems favor a unittal were accidentally wounded ed, multi-ethnic city, the Catholic when Serbs marking their Orthodox Christmas fired their weapons Croats are reluctant to agree. They have received substantial fiinto the air in celebration. Hospital sources said the victims sufnancial and political support from the Croatian capital Zagreb. fered serious head injuries.

By noon yesterday the air was On Friday, Croat mayor Mijo thick with the sound of exploding Brajkovic said the division of Mostar was the only solution to its problems and that Bosnian Croats grenades and rifles fired by Serbs, many of whom plan to flee the city rather than submit to control by a wanted the city as their capital. Bosnian government. Koschnick, a former mayor of Lieutenant Colonel Mark Rayner of (IFOR) told reporters in Sarajevo the area was "generally quiet.

But he added: "Clearly tension is building in Mostar - that has united Mostar. "As a German, I cannot conbeen well reported." duct a policy of dividing a city, or a Mostar is seen as a vital testing policy that makes the Bosnian (Moslem) part into a ghetto. Divided cities bring only unhappiness," be said.

"If Mostar is not a united city, there will he no federation," said Koschnick. "Europe should be aware that, with the collapse of the federation, there will be a completely different situation."

Koschnick said he had appealed to the Moslems in the east and the Croats in the west not to cross to . the other side for the time being. Local police agreed to block access to the main boulevard, the former confrontation line.

"This, I hope, will bring some elements of calm to the situation," he said

The EU set up an administration in 1994 with a mandate to unite Mostar in southwestern Bosnia, after the United States brokered a Moslem-Croat federation. Although the two sides, which fought a bitter war over Mostar in 1993, have cooperated on the military front, enormous tension and hostility have prevented the Moslem-Croat federation from political development.

ment signed last month in Paris, the citizens of Mostar are supposed to enjoy complete freedom

Clinton embraces Republican balanced-budget plan

PRESIDENT Clinton bowed to months of Republican demands and offered a new seven-year balanced-budget plan, a concession at White House budget talks that will let the entire government emerge from its three-week shutdown

Republicans eriticized the president's budget proposal for too much spending and elaimed it contained tax increases. But Democrats said it eliminated federal deficits with gentler reductions in important social programs than Republicans want. This plan will show that you can halance the budget in seven years and protect Medicare, Medicaid (health care for the poor and elderly), education and the environment, and provide tax relief to working families," Clintun told reporters at the Oval Office.

"This is a time of great national promise. We need to find unity and common ground," he said.

One Republican, speaking anonymously, said Republicans were so unhappy with Clinton's

LAWRENCE L KNUTSON

WASHINGTON

proposal that House Speaker Newt Gingrich told the president "if this is where you are, we're so far apart we better start thinking about how we can call this off. Republicans were particularly unhappy with the president's proposals for Medicare, Medicaid, welfare and tax cuts, as well as his failure to propose any changes in federal agriculture programs, the Republican source said.

The government bas been partially closed since Dec. 16 as Clin-ton and the Republicans, who control Congress, haggled over how to balance the budget. But Congress passed legislation Friday that will reopen the federal government at least until Jan. 26

Saturday's proposal represents retreat for Clinton, who for months had refused to endorse a balanced-bndget plan certified by the Congressional Budget Office. The president argued that CBO's economic forecasts are too conservative and that embracing them would therefore require steeper savings than he says are really needed.

Yet both sides said Saturday that the CBO had certified that the president's proposal would eliminate federal deficits by 2002. Clinton's embrace of the proposal still left the two sides searching for a deal to halance the budget in seven years by cutting Medicare, Medicaid and other social programs. More negotiations were scheduled for some officials yesterday, although a snow storm ap-proaching Washington could affect those plans. Another White House bargaining session was slated for this afternoon.

Republicans said Clinton's new plan was crucial because it would belp elarify how close to a sweeping budget deal the two sides might be.

"The good news is at least we have a document on the table' said John Kasieb, the chairman of the House of Representatives' Budget Committee. (AP)

Japan coalition picks Hashimoto for PM

TOKYO (Reuter) - Japan's rul-ing coalition agreed on a policy yesterday, clearing the way for Trade Minister Ryutaro Hashimoto to become prime minister soon, party officials said.

The talks among Hashimoto's Liberal Democratic Party, outgoing Prime Minister Tomiiehi Murayama's Socialists and Finance Minister Masayoshi Takemura's Sakigake party followed Murayama's sudden announcement last Friday be was stepping down in favor of a new govern-ment to be formed under Hashimoto. "We have agreed on the policy platform," LDP secretary-general Koichi Kato said. "We will aim to nominate Mr. Hashimoto at a meeting of the three party leaders (today)." Murayama and Takemura have already declared support for Hashimoto. The 58-year old Hashimoto was expected to be formally named prime minister at a special session of parliament on Thursday. The current left-right coalition formed in June 1994 holds a

Under the Bosnian peace agree-solid majority in both houses of parliament. Coalition officials said negotiators from the three parties agreed to adopt measures to streamline US bases in Japan, about which feelings have been inflamed by the alleged rape of an Okinawan schoolgirl by three US servicemen last September. Japan and the United States bad planned last November to renew their commitment to their bilateral security treaty and announce a new security pobcy framework.

But this was scuttled when President Bill Clinton cancelled a state visit to Japan due to his own domestic budget crisis.

Clinton has rescheduled his Tokyo visit for April 16-18, by which time the new Japanese government must settle the bases row with Okinawa.

The coalition also agreed on ways to tackle an explosive domestic issue - the country's seven ailing mortgage firms. Last month; the government announced it would earmark $6.7 billion of taxpayers' money to belp wind up the private mortgage firms, known as "Jusen." The Jusen plan immediately came under heavy fire from the media, business leaders and opposition parties. They said it was ill-explained, hastily conceived and too easy on the farm cooperatives that were major lenders to the troubled firms.

Murayama said a main reason for his sudden resignation was the Jusen affair.

The three parties agreed to clarify responsibilities in the affair, review the Finance Ministry's lax control over financial institutions and study plans to give other organisations, such as the private Deposit Insurance Corporation of Japan, a new watchdog role.

It was not clear if the coalition plan would be enough to placate the opposition Shinshinto (New Frontier Party), which promised an all-out campaign against the Jusen plan during the regular parhament session starting January 22.

Low turnout as Guatemalans pick new president

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) - Turnout was light early yesterday as Guatemalans voted in the third civilian presidential election since 1986, choosing between a conservative businessman and a candi-irresponsibility on the part of voters." Leftist guerrillas have declared a cease-fire to ensure a peaceful vote and no major problems were reported. Nails were scattered on key roads enter-

BEZEQ believes in direct communication

Tomorrow, Tuesday, January 9, 1996 4:30 - 7:30 p.m.

177-022-3443

177-022-1111

Bremen, said yesterday that Germany's experience with the East-

West division of Berlin had convinced him that the goal must be a

Open Line to the Bezeq Management

Call us:

For the Bezeg Management, call

► For the Bezeq Management for your area, call

Also at your service:

A direct video line from the Ayalon Canion, Ramat Gan, to the Bezeq Management

An Internet connection: http://www.bezeq.co.il / open-line date backed by a former dictator.

of movement, except for men of The businessman, Alvaro Arzu, was favored to military age. That final restriction win. Arzu, a former foreign minister and mayor of is due to be lifted on January 20. the capital, easily won the Nov. 12 first round that eliminated 17 candidates.

Asked whether he might consider postponing total freedom of Polls opened at 8 a.m. for 12 hours and, under movement given the tensions, cloudy skies, some stations had only one voter every Koschnick said: "We have to wait 10 minutes.

and see what happens. I have to "Everything is in order. All we lack are the voters," said Mayen Merida, a poll official. "The see if it calms down or not." voting is very bight. Maybe it's apathy or a bittle (Reuter)

ing Guatemala City and around some capital voting centers, causing dozens of flat tires. Residents swept the nails away.

If Arzn is elected, his party would control both the executive branch and the legislature after his Advanced National Party, or PAN, won 43 of the 80 scats in the one-chamber National Legislature in the first round.

He faced Alfonso Portillo, a 44-year-old lawyer and economist of the more right-wing Guatemalan Republican Front.

Camer

B.

They speak English, but do they read it???

The monthly youth magazines of The Jerusalem Post will encourage your kids to read in English and enjoy it!

The papers, which are presented in an attractive, easy-to-read format, contain lively material on topics of interest to young people: current events, music, sport, science, fashion and more. They appear once a month (10 issues per year) and are mailed. directly to your home.

A yearly subscription to each paper

Price includes VAT and postage

Special rates available for schools

ZOOM English for children for ages 9-12 YOURS

Easy English for ages 12-14

HEY THERE Intermediate Level for ages 14-16

STUDENT POST Advanced Level

for ages 16-18

YES.	Please	send	me	(Indicat	e the	e pu	iplic	atio	נה:
	AAN I

- ZOOM (children)
- U YOURS (easy)
- HEY THERE! (Intermediate)
- STUDENT POST (advanced)

Full Name 100000 Address ..... Zip Code.....

I enclose a check for NIS ..... payable to The Jerusalem Post

Fill in the coupon and mail it along with a check to: The Jerusalem Post Youth Magazines P.O.B. 81, Jerusalem 91000

ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT

isalem Post lican

ic forecasts are e and that em. iuld therefore reanys than he saw rs said Salarday and certified that Steway and detrois by Diag make of the price - harriden watch-- ne nadeer hi rutone Mediand ther social Trade State Do Mere The sector The second second second ne - a stanes Ahte Land Anterial REAL BADES

م ت شد بار in a strate - Contractor or PM

- . -

·· *3

N .

1.16

12.1

resident

100

E

vei

)51

THE POST

21 - 124 22 - 124

· • .

Representations and Alexander

*** Directed by David Pincher. Screenpisy | Andrew Kevin Walker. Hebrew title: Shit Hebrew subtiles. Children under 17 n denimations. without an schult. (ID will be checked.

The Jerusalem Post

nly a year and a half after she was hailed as its savior, choreographer Margalit

Oved is suing the Inbal Dance Theater for breach of contract and dead. Long live the Inbal Dance

Theater Ethnie Center. At the end of December, the Inhal Plenum decided to dissolve the 47-year-old dance company and create a multidisciplinary ethnie arts cen-

The inbal dancers have been fired. The position of artistic director has been abolished, thereby terminating Oved, whose cootract had been for three years. The plenum is looking for a general manager with an arts background

ter in its place.

Somerset...Morgan Freeman Mills......Brad Pitt Willion David Mills Tracy Mills ...Gwyneth Paltrow

TOHN Doe, the serial killer who provides Seven with its grisly outline - one murder for each of the Seveo Deadly Sins - is an unusually intelligent and wellread fellow. His crimes allude to the works of Shakespeare, Milton, Dante and Chaucer, and the detectives assigned to his case eventually catch up with him by tapping into his records at the public library.

Watching David Fincher's gruesome but engaging psychological thriller, one begins to wonder just what Hollywood is trying to say about people who read books. It seems a penchant for High Culture is allowed in a commercial American movie only if it's linked directly to violent crime.

In The Silence of the Lambs Hannibal Lecter caunibalized to the strains of the Goldberg Variations, while the shadowy killer at the center of Seven tortures a victim by enacting a quote from The Merchant of Venice: the lawyer he punishes for the sin of greed as forced to literally relinquish a pound of his flesh. It appears the classics made them do it.

damages. What began so hopefully, has ended as ignominiously as to run the new center, with artistic. the company she tried to resurrect. inpot provided by outside consul-The Inbal Dance Theater is tants.

Monday, January 8, 1996

It will host theater, music and dance activities and will serve, Inbal board chairman Yigal Ben-Shalom says, "to give expression to the cultural heritage of all [of] Israel's ethnic groups."

The plenum also decided on the formation of a group of dancers which would document and revive the works of Sara Levi-Tanai, Inbal's 86-year-old founder. There are about 25 major and many lesser works by Levi-Tanai, hut only ooe has been professionally filmed said Gila Toledano, who helped Levi-Tanai found lobal and was the company's general manager from 1969-77.

HELEN KAYE

"We have committed a crime against ourselves," she said sadly last week. "No one in the country works directly from the source as Sara did."

Until she was virtually forced into retirement in 1992, Inbal and Levi-Tanai were synonymous. With and through the company. Levi-Tanai created a truly singular dance language which drew its essence from her own Yemenite traditions and culture.

When she retired the company

effectively died. Levi-Tanai had always fiercely resisted relinquishing any creative control, thus creating an artistic vacuum wheo she left.

Inbal tosses its rescuer overboard

But the death throes took three years, despite a report which then recommended Inbal's dissolution. Artistic directors and general managers came and went, and the company, apart from the occasional pubhe concert, kept itself alive by working mainly with Omanut La'am. Oved was one of Inbal's founding members and its principal dancer for 15 years. Then she emigrated to carve out a successful career for herself as a choreograoher with her own company in Los Angeles. When she returned bere in the summer of 1994, Inbal was moriound and she committed herself to its complete recovery.

"My mission is a very simple one," she said at the time in a Jerusalem Post interview. "It is to inaugurate Inbal from scratch."

She created Zaffa with the new, improved Inbal to almost universal praise, but it was the beginning of the end. An uncompromising perfectionist, she demanded professionalism from an organizatioo in which oear anarchy, infighting and backstairs intrigues had become endemic.

There were confrootations betweeo Oved and the veteran Inbal dancers, between Oved and theo general manager Shmuel Rahat and especially between Oved and the board,

In a statement, Oved wrote that in September she sent a 150-page report to the plenum which "documented the board's unwarranted interference in my work and its persistent refusal to make the necessary professional change[s]. For this the board fired me." The board also fired Rahat and, at its October meeting, the plenum decided to suspend all activity for two months. The final decision to dissolve Inbal was taken at the end of December.

. . . .

5

What had tipped the scales was that during the preceding nine, months, Inbal had earned a mere NIS 80,000 and it had not done much better in the preceding years. Inbal's 1995 budget was NIS 2.8 million, of which all but NIS 500,000 was government money.

There was oo justification plenum ehairman Mieki Yerushalmi said, in spending public funds to maintain the company as it was then structured. However, Yerushalmi was unable to explain why the pleoum had failed to intervene until now. although it had long been aware of, the situation at Inbal.

Serving up sin by the numbers

FILM REVIEW ADINA HOFFMAN

SEVEN

also what generates a sharp movie plot. So, in the taut, amoral tradition of Hitchcock's perfect-mur-der-movies, Seven unfolds as per a killer's dictates.

The picture was written by Andrew Kevin Walker, who strives quite consciously for the pitch and texture of a '40s crime film. He does a good job. Despite the atrocities the murderer commits (squeamisb viewers are warned to steer clear: although Seven isn't especially violent, it does feature graphic depictions of hideous crime scenes and autopsy labs), the action focuses mostly on character and setting. These are, respectively, two mismatebed police detectives and an unspecified, always-rainy American city, well along in its decay. William Somerset (Morgan Freeman) is a tacitum old-timer, one week away from his retirement. He lives alone, plays darts, reads books and still issues reports from a nickety typewriter, which he pecks at deliberately, ooe pointer finger at a time. It's a classic Freeman role - sad, wise, crusty and utterly dignified. The actor's greatness is perhaps plainest during his silences, when he just stares out placidly from under his soft fedora at the devastation all around. But his greatness is also apparent when he opens his month and that molten voice emerges. : T-David Mills (Brad Pitt), on the other hand, is young and cocky, a -new-recruit-who -swears, struts,and happily makes snap decisions. Itchy a aving to he's hostile to Somerset for his restrained methods: at first, the older man's approach seems to David antiquated, pointless, pris-sy. While Pitr's hardly the actor that Freeman is, his callowness and bravado work well here to reinforce the gap between the characters. This world-weary-veteranteams-reluctantly-with-youngwhippersnapper set-up is certainly nothing new. Somerset and Mills dance the same tango as a thousand other movie-detectives before them, arguing at first then eventually coming around and Brad Pitt's callowness and bravado actually serve his cocky detective character well.

Queen Kambo gets new role

HELEN KAYE

ike mother, like daughter. Lori Kambos was one of Romania's leading actresses. Rosina Kambos, at last, is one of ours. It seems that so many people want her these days, that she can barely keep up with the demand. She's in three plays at Habimah and rebearsing a fourth. Happily (now that the courts have ruled that Habimah will not elose) she opens in Hanoch Levin's oewest play. Beheading, on February 13. During the day Levin and his cast rehearse. In the evening Kambos alternates between playing either Mrs Warren m The Boys Next Door, Serafina in The Rose Tattoo or Kathi in The Good Soldier energetic lady. She's thinner than she used to be. Her honey blond hair is cut in a boyish 1920s bob and she wears her stylishly comfortable clothes with flair. The critics praise her. Audiences like her.

She's relieved that Habimah's long ordeal is over. "Thank goodness. [With the uncertaioty hanging over the theater's future] we were all exhausted. I couldn't focus, felt cupty, hated arriving at the theater."

pose. I've got the right look, and the experience," she says confidently.

It nearly didn't happen. Rosina Kambos says ber mother, "didn't want a life in theater for me. She wanted me to be a doctor, like every Jewish mother, or at least study something serious." But when she turned green at her first cadaver dissection, for her. Her secood "serious"

choice was the school of language and philology but she took her file

over to the drama department instead, where she theo engaged indid two grueling weeks of andi-tions. Out of 4,000 girls competing for seven places, she came

"Mother langhed when I called to tell her that I'd been accepted," Kambos recalls, "but when she realized I wasn't joking, there was a moment of silence. 'Is that what you really want?' she said, and I answered that it was, more than anything. You need a lot of strength for this profession, otherwise there is real danger to your nerves. Acting isn't for dilettantes, or the weak."

Already well-known in Romania, Kambos immigrated to Israel in 1983. Tzippi Pinespromptly snapped her up for the Beersheva Theater where she played leading roles until she joined Habimah in 1987. She plays the aging queen in Beheading opposite Jetta Monte as the old, old King. "She's by turns bard, grotesque, funny, revolting and touching too, like old age is." Those who'd worked with Levin before told Kambos' that working on one of his plays; "was like a consecration, and truly, it's like that. There's the feeling we're engaged in some-thing holy. Concentration is total. If you're late, he punishes you. I once came late and had to wait outside for two hours,"

Beheading is "a legend for eternity, a play about lust and the ageless conflict between age and youth," she says. Levin often rein? vents themes from other plays and in this one there are echoes of Hamlet and Oscar Wilde'sSalome Kambos lives in Ramat Garf with her husband Doron Oz-Ami, an economist, and their two sons. An avid bridge player, she dreams of "having enough time to go to bridge tournaments." She also wants to spend more time of the intricate embroideries that she loves, cooking for family and Schweik.

At 44, Kambos is an attractive and

"I'm the right age now, I sup-

Of course, a sardouic quality underlies the creation of both of these erudite disembowelers. With their tongues lodged firmly in their checks, filmmakers like Jonathan Demme and Fincher have resorted to one of the last outposts of strict formalism in our culture: serial murder.

The perpetrators of these crimes are sick, all right, but their actions are almost always carried out according to some onwavering organizing principle (the signs of the zodiac, for instance, or a hatred of tall bruncttes). Oddly enough, such an organizing prin-ciple - or conceit, if you will - is forming an unlikely alliance. Indeed, the odd-couple formula is so very familiar that Walker and Fincher seem to be toying with it, placing the clash of sensibilities between Somerset and Mills at the heart of the movie, and attempting to imbue the difference between them with a higher symbolic, even prophetic meaning. This doesn't really work. It's one thing to see Somerset as a man whose time has passed and Mills as an inexperienced jerk who represents everything shal-low about the world today. But the fact that the Seven Deadly Sins are hanging over both their heads like some medieval torture device makes the movie's stakes - and pretensions - much higher.

As it lurches toward its inevitable surprise ending, the picture offers a doomsday warning of sorts, a deeply conservative reminder that the Big Seven are still with us. Since it seems fairly unlikely that the filmmakers honestly believe the judgment day awaits all those guilty of greed, gluttony, sloth, pride, envy, anger or lust, the film's seven-sin-plan comes to seem a little cynical, a little glib. In one fell swoop, a major Christian construct is reduced to nothing more than a Kambos decided medicine wasn't nifty plot propeller. As plot propellers go, though, this one is definitely nifty. The film has a hypothe pace and dream-like monochrome (the palette ranges cerily from sepia to amber to coffee brown). Darius Khondji's photography manages to look lush and bleak at the same time: wet and cold and strangely luminous. The rain pours constantly throughout the movie, warning, perhaps that the flood is on its way - or maybe that it's already here.

friends, and singing and cutting that album she's been talking about for years. But she's not working with Levin is "aston-ishing. His perceptions of the characters are always something yon haven't thought of and always exciting. It was hard for me at first. We didn't really understand each other. He was put off by the way I worked and I didn't understand what he wanted from me.

"One day I played the same scene six different ways. 'You're like a computer,' he told me. 'I put in a command, and it obeys instantly.' We both laoghed and the tension was broken."

Camerata: Looking beyond Rehovot

Biomedicine's loss gaio 20 loss years ago when Avner Biron made a painful but happy career choice.

The onetime cancer researcher at the Hadassah University Hospital in Jerusalem was offered a job as principal flutist of the Israel Chamber Orchestra. "It was a very loog and difficult week, but eventually I chose music and I don't regret it," said the 47-year-old musician. "As a scientist, you have your share of intellectual experiences, but as an artist you top that with emotional experiences. Nothing can equal that."

Biron eventually took his newfound eareer much farther. Although he still plays the flute, Biron oow beads the Jerusalem Rubin Academy for Music and Danee and is music director of the Israel Camerata Rehovot. which be founded in 1985. It consists largely of immigrants from the former Soviet Union in the string sections, and young native Israelis on winds.

"I believe that, musically speaking, we are in a very good shape," says Biroo. "We have just returned from a very successful tour of Germany, which we opened with a coocert at the Philharmonie Hall in Berlin. And the most objective way to judge our success is that after each concert we were immediately invited for a return engage-

In fact, the Camerata is slowly ment but surely gaining worldwide recognitioo. Nine tours are scheduled for the near future. This summer, the ensemble will take part in a festival in Berlio and will also perform at the Concertgebouw io Amsterdam. Then there are also festivals in Lisbon and Belgium, a major tour of Germany and a major coast-to-coast tour of the US, as well as coocerts in Japan followed by an additional American tour, according to Biron.

MICHAEL AJZENSTADT

These tours enable the orchestra to survive financially. "In contrast to other orchestras which even put money into their touring activities, we do not embark on a tour unless we can come bome with a significant amount of money." Oo tour, especially in Germany, the orchestra plays the Baroque repertoire for which it is best known at home. Sometimes the Camerata ventures into classical and romantie repertoire, and even contemporary music, including works by Israeli composers.

The Camerata is about to sign a deal with a major European record label, reports Biron. They will record our concerts, both in Israel and abroad. This deal involves a very special and new recording technique,... but at the moment I cannot add any more details."

At home, the Camerata season consists of eight subscriptioo coocerts, four devoted to the orchestral repertoire and four to baroque choral literature. The latter are far more popular.

Each choral concert is repeat ed three times in front of sold out audiences at the Tel Aviv Museum, plus performances in Rebovot and elsewhere. The orchestral programs, performed once in Tel Aviv, are never sold Biron, however, does oot like to label his orchestra a Baroque ensemble. "My style of work concentrates on the differentiation between styles .... We have special rehearsals within the various orchestra sections, we aim for a different sound and we use different bowing when we play Bach or 20th century music for example."

There is a major eloud on the ensemble's borizon. "We are searching for a municipality willing to support us. Unfortunately, Rehovot cannot afford that at the moment." There have been serious talks with representatives of the Jerusalem Municipality, as well as discussions with another city. Budget constraints mean that the Camerata works without marketing or publicity personnel. It also means that Biron cannot invite as many gnest conductors as he would like. It also makes life difficult when performing choral works which call for at least four soloists and choirs, usually from abroad. For several years, Biron has dreamed of starting a choir that would he affiliated with the Camerata. "But until the arts administration here realizes that choristers need to earn money, too, this will not happen."

At the Camerata's upcoming coocert, Biroo has decided to stick with local forces. "I bave invited the New Vocal Ensemble, recently created hy Yuval Ben-Ozer, to perform with us, and it will be an interesting experience. I hope it works."

In spite of the budgetary constraints Biron still thinks big. Next season, his orchestra will start performing operas as well. "It will be the kind of smallscale operas that the other organizations do not perform here, not only Handel or Haydn operas but also 20th century ones. They will probably be semi-staged

A concert of two cantatas by Bach and woodwind coocerti by Cimarosa and Vivaldi, featuring orebestra members Gabriella Bukowski (oboe) and Gad Lederman (bassooo) as soloists, will be held Wednesday in Rebovot and Thursday through Saturday at the Tel Aviv. Museum.

Monkey business with playwright Mogilner MARTIN Mogilner apolo-gizes. He has to go up on the roof to shoot a video segment with his actress, playing a chimpanzee. He'll come down io 15 minutes. He's 20 years old. He's passionate, the way only the young and the very gifted can be. He's a playwright whose autobiographical second play, And So We'll Go On, won first prize at the 1994 Acre Festival. The first one, Parthodox. had won an honorable mention the year before.

Now he's directing his third play with the graduating class at the Nissan Nativ acting studio. It's a multi-disciplinary, multimedia piece called Mahamudra, which is a Hindi word meaning balance.

Mahamudra looks al our internal balance via what Mogilner calls

Penderecki pending

game of chess.

and fringed by black lashes of star-

LEADING composer Krzysztof Penderecki is coming for a short visit this month to lead the Haifa Symphony Orchestra in a program featuring works hy Mendelssohn and Dvorak and his own cello concerto (a reworking of his viola concerto) with Allison Eldredge as soloist. Concerts take place January 14 in Haifa and the following night at the Noga Theater in Jaffa. Michael Ajzenstadt

> Complete Guide to Tiberias and the Sea of Galilee by Yisrael and Phyllis Shalem A most comprehensive guide in English to sites around the Kmneret for hikers and drivers. Presents historical facts and detailed touring information in an exceptionally clear manner - lightweight, perfect for your pack. Softcover, 92 pp.

JP Price NIS 20.00

To: Books, The Jarusalem Post, POB 81, Jetusalem 91000 - Tel. 02-241282. Please send me Guide to Therias and the Sea of Galilee. Enclosed is my check for NIS 20.00, payable to The Jerusalam Post. Credit card orders accepted by phone. For overseas airmail delivery add NIS 12.00.

Name
Address
City	Code
Tel (day)

HELEN KAYE

second.

three interlocking circles whose common decominator is extremes. his father, a pediatric surgeon, was teaching, he grew up here. In the first circle a man tries to He works in theater because I want to see what's running around make a chimp into a human. In the second there "are two fantastical in my head in three dimensions. tales around the split personalities After all, we're a set of chemical of the soldier/queen and king/whore." The third is a live reactions. I want to find out what makes mine tick the way they do Who I am. Where I'm going."

The actress, still in her chimp suit, comes down from the roof. In Mogilner's Mahamudra, the chimp ends ap by becoming a man trainer. Smiling, the young playwright follows his chimp back up to the cameras.

COMEDY OF ERRORS

January 9, 1996 at 8:30 p.m. A new production of the Shakespeare classic directed by Omri Nitzan, Artistic Director of the Cameri Theatre.

AGAPE

January 16, 1996 at 8:30 p.m.

A special collaboration between the playwright, Hanoch Levin, i and one of the world's most distinguished directors. Report Sturual "This show rouses amazcment - shows such as this one will decide the future of Israeli theatro." - Halaretzi

The best of Israeli Theatre every Tuesday night with simultaneous translation into English

BOX OFFICE: 03-523 3335 + FAX: 03-5230172 + SUBSCRIPTIONS: 03-5245211

In cooperation with the Ministry of Tourism, Tel Aviv and Central Regi

OPINION

Monday, January 8, 1996

The Jerusalem Post

Extent

of injury

SUSAN HATTIS ROLEF

THE comparison made last el, while confusing the issue. Following armed conflicts between nations, winners have historically often demanded compensation from losers. It was customary in hiblical times, and done after many of this century's wars (though it is now generally accepted as not necessarily being so wise. Many historians argue that the exorbitant reparations demanded from Germany in the aftermath of World War I contributed to the economic collapse that pushed so many Germans into the arms of the Nazis).

week by Freib Abu-Me-

dein, Palestinian bead of justice, between the Palestinians' demand for compensation for injuries during the intifada and the reparations paid hy Germany 10 Israel and Holocaust survivors rightly provoked anger from Isra-

DAVID BAR-ILAN. Executive Editor JEFF BARAK, Managing Editor ALEC ISRAEL, Associate Editor, Corp. OAN IZENBERG, News Editor DAVID BRINN, Night Editor SAM ORBAUM, Features Editor THOMAS O'DWYER, Foreign Editor JUDY MONTAGU, Op-Ed Editor AMOTZ ASA-EL, Business Eduor

YOSSI HORN, Vice President, Production

AVI GOLAN, Executive Vice President, Marketing & Adventig PAUL STASZEWSKI, CPA, Vice President, Finance

F. DAVID RADLER. Chairman, Board of Directors YEHUDA LEVY, President & Publisher

Founded us 1932 by GERSHON AGRON

STANLEY SCHRIGER, Circulation Manager BENZION MILLER. Tel Avn office Manager EDITORIAL OFFICES AND ADMINISTRATION The Jerusalem Post Building, PO Box 81, Romema, Jerusalem (9100)1 Telephone 02-515666, Fax 02-398527, CIRCULATION - 02-315610, Fax 02-389017, AOVERTISING - 02-315608, 02-315637-40 Fax 02-388408 TEL AVIV 5 Rehot Hamasger, PO.Box 25398 (61283) Telephone 03-6390033, Fax 03-6390277, HAJFA 20 Nordou, Hada: Hacarmel, Telephone 04-673166, Published daily, except Saturday, in Jerusalem, Israel by The Palestine Post Ltd. Printed by The Jerusalem Post Press in Jerusalem. Registered at the C P.O. O The Jerusalem Post 1996, Reproduction, or storage in a retrieval system or any offer form, to prohibited without permission. Editors 1932-1599 GERSHON AGRON, 1955-1974 TED LURIE, 1974-1975 LEA BEN DOR, 1975-1989 ARI RATH and ERWIN FRENKEL, 1990-1992 N. OAVID GROSS

Boundless hatred

T is doubtful that any Israeli, including the most enthusiastic supporter of the Oslo agreements, could watch Yihye Ayyash's baseless charge, since the agreements give Isra-el the right of hot pursuit. The real violation of the accord is the Palestinian Authority's refusal Gaza funeral with equanimity. Not only the huge number of mourners was disturbing (estimated at 250,000 or more, it was the largest Arab demonstration in this country's history). but the multitudes' sustained frenzy and boundless hatred for Israel. Only those who suffer from terminal optimism can rationalize this outpouring of hostility as no more than the death throes of frustrated fanaticism, the agony of a waning Islamist minority.

Not that the funeral was needed to remind one of the sympathy and support perpetrators of suicide bombings seem to enjoy in the Palestinian community. Nor have these sentiments been strictly those of the "man in the street."

It was only under tremendous American and Israeli pressure that Yasser Arafat finally uttered the required condemnations of terrorist acts. But be was careful to compensate for these numbled censures with speeches which lionized past and current "martyrs," called for jihad against Israel, exborted his audience for sacrifices of blood for Palestine, and repeatedly demanded that all Hamas and Islamic Jibad prisoners, particularly Hamas leader Sbeikh Ahmed Yassin, be released from Israeli prisons.

Hamas leader, Mahmoud Zahar, who welcomed Arafat's condolence call on Friday, praised him for statements calling all Palestinians "seekers of martyrdom."

Yesterday, too, Arafat referred to Ayyash as a "martyr" to the cheers of his audience, and blamed Israel oot only for his killing but for violating the Oslo accords in doing so. (A to extradite wanted terrorists.)

Nor is there an iota of doubt that the PA knew where Ayyash was hiding - the very fact that his family could visit him in Gaza makes this obvious - and that it had no intention of stopping his activities, let alone apprehending or extraditing him.

It is in this context that Israel must understand why the PA's Justice Minister Freih Abu Medein compared the right of intifada victims to compensation to that of Holocaust victims. Last April Abu Medein said "Israel is our enemy now and forever. We and Hamas complement each other in our struggle against our common enemy." Needless to say, be was oot reprimanded then, nor will be be now - for the simple reason that there is no difference between his opinions and those of other PA ministers. He is just more open in expressing them.

What Israelis must understand is that the vast majority of Palestinians really believe their own propaganda. They view Israel not as a state created by the Jewish oational movement in a country with which Jews have a millenia-long bond, but as a product of the Holocaust, an expiatory creation of the West at the Arabs' expense. And they truly believe that they are victims of Israeli oppression the way the Jews were the victims of the Nazis.

Prime Minister Shimon Peres is reportedly incensed by Abu Medein's analogies. But it is Abu Medein and Arafat who represent Palestinian sentiments, oot the polished negotiators who feed the wishful thinking of Israeli visionaries.

Russia's flight from reform

THE government of Russia appears to be presidential elections. It is the sure sign of the disintegrating around President Boris spected Eoreign Minister Andrei Kozyrev and ..... cozy, populist line which appeals to the suspithe deputy prime minister, Serger Shakhrai, was cions and xenophobia of the masses, and thus followed by an unconvincing denial of a report relieves the politician of the occessity to come that Economy Minister Yevgeny Yasin - a committed free market reformer - would be next Yasin may have survived for the momeot only because it is Russian Orthodox Christmas. The most obvious commoo factor is that the immature politician to blame "foreigners" and Yeltsin. The departure this week of re- outside interests for domestic oational ills. It is a up with real, booest policies to address the country's problems. This is the mark of politicians in love with power rather than people.

What is somewhat more disturbing is that Yeltsin - the man who gained his place in history by facing down a communist coup in and the elimination Friday of Yiyhe Ayyash has been followed by threats of dire revenge for his death.

Broader idea of security

Nevertheless, there has been a Yet the contrast between terrormarked improvement in the last half-year, and to the extent that Common crime takes on nationthis is due to the more effective alist overtones when theft from Isand determined cooperation of the raclis is rationalized as compensa-Palestinian security forces, it vindition for deprivation inflicted on cates one of the main assumptions Palestinians, and many terrorist atbehind government policy: that Istacks have stemmed from the perraeli exposure to Palestinian tersonal grievances of Palestinians

> Will the gains in anti-terrorism be matched by a better response to 'ordinary' crime?

the West Bank, Israelis living near the Greeo Line seemed more worrorism can be best contained by a ned about Palestinian thieves than functioning Palestinian Anthority prepared to act on behalf of a Pal-The reason is obvious: Preparaestinian public with a vested intertions for the IDF pullout from est in peaceful coexistence.

It is not yet clear whether the gains in anti-terrorism will be sustained or matched in the future by better performance with respect to ordinary crime against persons or taking the kind of direct action against some car thieves of which a regular court would strongly disaporove.

But this might only be a temporary respite. The potential (or mcentive) for-crime stems from the coexistence in close proximity of two communities with very different standards of living, and a political settlement alone is no guarantee against a major wave of criminal violence, as the example of South Africa clearly shows. And if crime reaches those proportions here, it will become another kind of national security problem, perhaps less deadly than terrorism, but just as intolerable.

In the US and Western Europe, governments have long since concluded that imngry neighbors export their problems, and that neither border fences nor narrow seas can really protect them against illegal workers or migrants, smuggling, drugs, and even political violence. They baven't found solutions to these problems, but they treat them as security threats, and recognize that their own security, in this sense, depends not only on military strength and law enforcement, but also on the economic well-being and political stability of their neighbors. One conclusion they have drawn is that if they wish to protect

In a situation where an armed struggle between two peoples is settled by agreement rather than on the battlefield - as is happening today with Israel and the Palestinians - the question of compensation may come up, but on a mutual basis only.

It is up to the two sides to determine whether innocent civilians on each side who suffered losses at the hands of the other side's armed forces (regular or irregular) or inflamed mobs sbould receive compensation.

It is doubtful if any Palestinian leader really grasps what happened to the Jews in World War II

In our case, common sense suggests that were the principle of compensation accepted, it would open a Pandora's box the two sides would find very difficult to close again.

Jewish claims, for example, would go back to the disturbances of the 1920s, since when there have been thousands of Jewish victims of Palestinian terrorist acts.

On the opposite side there are thousands of Palestinian victims of Israeli military operations of one sort or the other. The crushing of the intifada, in which many innocent bystanders were hurt, is just one example. Add to this compensation for Palestinian refugees who escaped or were forced out of their homes in what became Israel in 1948-49, and, on our side, compensation for Jews who escaped or were forced out of their homes in the Arab countries after 1949, and mutual claims could easily amount to billions of dollars. There was certainly no need for Abu Medein to to further complicate such a highly charged issue. Bitter and painful as the Arab-Israeli conflict has been, nothing about it even vaguely resembles what Nazi Germany did to the Jews. . . The Holocaust was not a war between two nations. It involved a deliberate decision by one nation to exterminate every member of another stateless and unarmed nation, a decision that was systematically and efficiently implemented. That the exterminating nation should offer the survivors reparationa was an elementary moral duty - though not all survivors believed they should be accepted.

· ... /

2

.....

NE of the oddities of life MARK A. HELLER here is the relief people feel when the police an-Islamic Jihad are still dangerous, nounce that someone has been attacked out of criminal motives.

departing officials are among those most roundly despised by the resurgent former Communists who scored conviocing gains in recent parliameotary elections. Yeltsin's aides assured foreign governments there would be oo change in foreign policy after Kozyrev. They said the foreign minister was paying the price "for his mistakes." Foreign ministries abroad would be hard pressed to name many "mistakes" by Kozyrev. He gained a reputation as a man reasonable, pragmatic and skilled who acted sincerely in his country's best interests.

Kozyrev's real mistake was his failure to adopt the cant of the former Soviets and ultranationalists at home who accused him of "selling out" to the West. This phrase may be meaningless in any real context, but it iodicates the way the wind is blowing for the fortbcoming

1991 - is so easily tossing his best reformers and free-market planners to the nationalistwolves. This can only suggest that Yeltsin intends to stand for re-election and, following the gains by the Communists and nationalists in the Duma, is attempting to adjust himself to the public mood. This is bad oews for Russia and its new foreign frieods - Yeltsin, the former leader of public opinion, reduced to being a mere follower of national whire.

The president is tired, plagued by ill-health and excessive drinking, and be should leave Russia to a new generation. He should be grateful that fate placed him in the right place at the right time. The time has passed, the place is different. Hanging on for too long after his destiny has been fulfilled can only damage not only himself, but more importantly, his country.

MYANMAR'S JEWISH

COMMUNITY

Press report of December 28, "Bur-ma's Jewish remnant." It mentions the fears about the removal of the Jewish cemetery in Yangon, 1 wish to inform you that we have been assured hy the office of the mayor of Yangon (not Rangoon) that they do not have any plan to move the Jewish cemetery in Yangon, as reported.

notice that the name of our country has been officially changed for

"Burma" to "Myanmar" since

June 1989, and this change has been accepted hy the nations of the world as well as hy the UN and other

RECYCLING

US from a month-long visit to Israel. We were surprised how weak the effort is to recycle paper, plastics and metals. A country with few re-

Here, original efforts seemed fu-sources should be doing more.

Sir, - We have just returned to the

KYAW ZEYA,

Myanmar Embassy

international organizations.

Tet Aviv.

Also I would like to bring to your

Sir, ~ I refer to the Associated

the Israeli police to stop this buildup of Palestinian inventories, many Israelis living near Jenin, Tulkarm and Kalkilya began to wonder if "the price of peace" now meant their Subarus.

EVEN IF these apprehensions were justified, they still represented real progress, given the very different connotation of the term "the price of peace" that prevailed just a few months earlier.

The reason, of course, is that Israelis' major insecurity stems from against Israeli employers, co-workers or business associates.

And whatever the perpetrators' motives, the victims end up just as Nevertheless, it is a measure of how "normal" the peace process has become that during the recent redeployment from Arab cities in Area A were accompanied by widespread "expropriations" of Israeli livestock, agricultural equipment, and especially vebicles.

Faced with the apparent inability about Palestinian terrorists.

hurt - or dead.

a fear of "nationalist" attacks.

ism and crime isn't that clear.

Of course, it is far too soon for Israelis to recite the hlessing for reaching safe ground. Hamas and property. Initial indica somewhat encouraging. their homes, they must unprotect When the Palestinian police first their markets.

entered Gaza and Jericho, they Until recently, Israel has not were still disorganized; by now, had the "luxury" of defining its they have gone through many of national security agenda so broadly. But reality is changing, and if the "teething" problems typical of the gains of the peace process are new institutions. The wave of thefts actually seems to have deto be consolidated and extended, clined since they moved into the our understanding of security will West Bank, and a few cars have have to change too. actually been found and returned

The writer is senior research as-There are even stories circulatsociate at the Jaffee Center for Strategic Studies, Tel Aviv ing about how the Kalkilya police accelerated this development by University.

On wheeling and dealing to their original owners.

F Israel had a hand in eliminating the Palestinian arch-terror-List known as "the Engineer," it highlights a major failure of the assumptions on which the progress to Palestinian autonomy in the ternitories was based: that the Palestinian Authority would take over responsibility for scotching anti-Israel terrorism emanating from the autonomous territories that Israel was relinquishing.

Accordingly, Yasser Arafat and his police should have taken in upon themselves to appreheud Yihye Ayyash and other known lerrorists, and hand them over to Israel.

Today one feels like laughing (or crying) at the naivete of this assumption, sold to the Israel public not very long ago. It is totally unrealistic, so we are told, to expect the Palestinian Authority to cooperate in pulling down terrorism as a quid pro quo for Israel's withdrawal. Such a demand, after all, could end the peace process.

At most, Arafat is said to have concluded a very tentative and fragile agreement with Hamas to suspend major terrorist outrages during the coming months so as not to prejudice further Israeli withdrawals. If that is so, Israel will have no choice but to return to doing the job itself, albeit under infinitely worse conditions than prevailed prior to the withdrawal.

This lesson of the Ayyash affair must be impressed upon Arafat in other connections too. For all the enormous gap between the depravity represented by the suicide bombers trained, ngged Out and despatched hy the Engineer and the more "mundane" problem of massive car thefts by Palestinians from the territories, the latter too is an outrage Israelis will not long tolerate.

A second se

YOSEF GOELL

When the intifada began to peter out, Palestinians began entering Israel and stealing vehicles, stripping them for parts in a number of undisguised car "abattons" in the areas slated for autonomy. Today, many recently stolen cars are driven with impunity throughout the territories, even by Palestinian police officers and other PA officials

These thefts have now assumed plague proportions. In 1995, over 33,000 vehicles were stolen, a rise of 27 percent over 1994. The number was 3,000 in October alone, and 3.879 and 3,562 in the last two months, in the wake of the IDF's withdrawal from the major Palestimian lowns.

The value of the vehicles stolen is estimated at close to NIS 1.3b., and the insurance companies are demanding that vehicle insurance rates be jacked up by 10 per cent, with car owners required to pay NIS 1,000 a year from their own pockets toward covering their losses.

With or without the territories, Israel is a tiny country, which should make it easier to combat such a plague. Our police, who admittedly carry a heavy burden, and their minister - now of Internal Security - often seem to perform like Hollywood's Keystone Kops. And yet they ought to be achieving better results on the vehicle theft front.

If they aren't, there is only one possible explanation: a political decision to do nothing that could upset the smooth transition of power to the Palestinians in the antonomy.

Prime Minister Peres and Minister Shahal may not have noticed, but Israelis love their cars - even more, some say, than their wives and husbands. They hate the thought of parting with thousands of shekels a year for additional insurance. They regard car thieves in much the same light as horse thieves used to be viewed in the Old West.

If nothing effective is done to stanch this plague - and quickly, this seemingly mundane issue may have a deadly impact on Peres's and Labor's electoral prospects.

The police and the insurance companies have come up with a plethora of expensive and nonetoo-effective proposals. But the key lies with Arafat, whose vastly overinfiated police force could stop the whole thing in a few days, if ordered to.

But onr leaders baven't impressed the seriousness of the situation upon Arafat.

Even so, surely a political pragmatist, as Arafat is touted to be, should be alive to his and the Palestinians' self-interest, and should take the initiative in fighting this plague.

and the second second

The writer comments on public affairs.

TAKING an entirely different case, after the 1994 massacre at the Cave of the Patriarchs, Israel felt morally obliged to offer the families of the slaughtered Palestinians compensation, even though the perpetrator of the crime was a private individual who certainly did not represent the government or its policy. This was a moral issue par excellence.

Though Abu Medein was criticized hy some of his Palestinian Authority colleagues for his comparison, and was apparently also reprimanded by Yasser Arafat, it is doubtful whether any Palestinian leader really grasps the difference between their own conflict with Israel and what happened to the Jews during World War II.

Beyond demanding an apology, Israel should consider organizing discreet and carefully planned visits by Abu Medein and some of his colleagues to Yad Vashem - not to convince them to drop any legitimate claims they might have against Israel, but simply to ensure that none of them ever again compares the plight of the Palestinians to the Holocaust.

The writer is a political scientist.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE AMERICAN ZIONIST YOUTH FOUNDATION

Sir, - Contrary to what Marilyn activities. Henry wrote in her report of Decemden nor surprising decision. Il fol-lowed an independent, in-depth ber 21, the Jewisb Agency is not closing the AZYF. It is not ours to open or close. No Jewisb Agency officials sit on its board and its policies are independent of us.

What the Jewish Agency has decided is to work with another subcontractor for the marketing of Israel programs for American Jewish youth.

We believe the new entity - currenity heing established by the Council of Jewish Federations, the United Jewish Appeal, the Jewish Agency and the Charles R. Bronfman Foundation - will be better positioned, better organized and better able to reach out to masses of US Jewish youth and bring them on

"Israel Experience" programs. This is not the AZYF's only function, however. And we certainly hope that their constituency of American Jewish supporters will continue to promote their other

Sir, - The typical drive: stop for a crosswalk and the next driver does not, nearly maining a pedestrian; drive at a legal 100 km/h in the center lane of a three-lane highway and be passed on the right at 120 (or on the right shoulder!); be in a traffic circle and get cut off by a car entering from the side. Everyone knows the story.

Let's open more eyes than there are already on the road. Well-trained and tested volunteers in Civil Guard traffic units have full authority to issue tickets when they are on duty. When they are off duty, why not let for Jewish Zionist Education in Jerusalem on November 3, in the presence of some of the same AZYF board members who expressed their 'shock" to Heary. The decision to work through a different supplier is part of the Jewish Agency's broader efforts to become more efficient, more effective and more relevant to changing world Jewisb realities. While painful, some "historic" relationships will perforce change, LISA GANN-PERKAL, Director, Foreign Press Relations,

Secondly, this was neither a sud-evaluation of the AZYF's functioning, which we commissioned. It fol-lowed more than a year of joint deliberations, years of hurgeoning indebtedness to us and a final decision adopted hy the Joint Authority

The Jewish Agency for Israel Jerusalem.

BAD DRIVERS

....

them report the license numbers of those involved in traffic infractions to a central authority? Warnings might be issued and become part of the drivers dossier so that at a minimum when the driver receives a regular ticket, a judge can get a complete picture of his bad habits.

It may not be agreeable to have many hundreds of hidden eyes. It is also not pleasing to see hundreds killed and thousands burt every year by bad drivers.

STEPHEN J. KOHN Ra'anana.

tile because little was done with the collected materials hut, at this juncture, recycling has become an important source of raw materials to the extent that stealing "waste" material has become an enforced criminal offense. Surely, the entrepreneurial spirit of socialist bureaucracy, should impel someone to turn this need into a profitable venture.

Syracuse, N.Y.

The New York Times Weekly Review

Printed and distributed in Israel in association with The Jerusalem Post

Cease-Fire The Mellowing of The American Voter

By RICHARD L. BERKE

WASHINGTON the movie "Network" were being remade in 1996, the writers would be well advised to modulate the scene where Howard Beale, the messianic anchorman, implores discontented citizens to shout from their windows. In the updated version, Mr. Beale's call-to-arms might be: "I'm mad as heck and I'm not going to take it anymore!"

As the curtain lifts on an uncommonly consequential Presidential campaign season, voters, like an unappreciative audience, son, voters, nice an unappreciative automatic, are still hissing. They are still cross. They are still cranky. But the raw, tomato-hurling fury that has characterized and transformed modern American politics, and brought a self-described revolutionary named Newt Gingrich to the center of the national political stage, has subsided a bit.

To judge from interviews with more than 1,000 voters around the country over the last year, there has been a certain mellowing, due in part to a sense among Republicans as well as Democrats that politicians have heard and heeded their angry call. The Gingrich revolution has undermined the foundation of the New Deal and the Great Society. Now, an older-style federalism is back in fashion, and the national debate about Government's role has been recast.

A rough consensus that the budget should be balanced in seven years has been achieved; benefit programs like Medicare that were sacred cows only yesterday are under scrutiny as never before; unpopular departments and programs are being dismantled, and the power of the Federal Government is being trimmed. On Friday, the Republican Congress agreed to a partial end to the shutdown that has disrupted the Governmeot for weeks, and both sides will renew crucial talks on a detailed spending plan.

That is not to say that voters are suddenly satisfied with their lives or their leaders, or that the deep economic insecurities and momentous world problems underlying the disaffection of 1992 and 1994 have even abated. They have not. Nor is there any certainty that the calmer political mood will survive the noise of the comit But it is as if the voters' bile and the bitter politics of repudiatioo have been spent. Voters had their chance to undermine their leaders, and they seized upon It with zest, seoding George Bush back to Texas and bumiliating President Clinton in the 1994 elections. Calls for change are still in the air, but revolution no longer seems quite so appealing. Now some of the nervous energy is directed at Mr. Gingrich and his band of conservatives: "Not so fast!" many voters are saying. "You're going too far!" Voters appreciate how politicians finally seem to be giving more than lip service to their rage at Washington and its spending habits. They seem pleased that politicians are ready to curb welfare benefits. They like the talk of eliminating Federal agen-cies. They like the emphasis on values. Yet, with the consequences of that agenda largely unrealized, many voters fear that this legislative zeal might lead to a world where welfare mothers and their children sit helpless and hungry on the streets. While they agree that government is no panacea, voters still recoil at the declaration by Michael Huffington, a Republican who lost the race for Senate from California in 1994, that "I want a Government that does nothing."

Consider the sectiments of Kristine Anderson, 39, an architect in Tacoma, Wash., who voted for Mr. Clinton and grouses that the Republican takeover has made politics more unsettled than ever. "Change doesn't come very fast," Ms. Anderson said, "unless you're a Republican - and it happens too fast."

Indeed, in the random interviews - from Moreno Valley, Calif., to Puyallup, Wash., to Chicago to Murfreesboro, Tenn., to Easton, Pa., to Topeka, Kan., to Orlando, Fla., to Lincoln Park, Mich., to Ames, Iowa, to Denver to Keene, N.H., to Yorba Linda, Calif, voters of all persuasions still sometimes resort to swear words when discussing politics. But the roughest edges have been smoothed, the angriest voices muted. In 1994, some voters even said they were think-ing of leaving the country; no such threats are in the air now.

The central question for 1996 is whether this mellowed electorate will be able to resolve the conflict that it created by electing Mr. Clinton in 1992 and then sending Mr. Gingrich to the Speaker's chair in 1994.

Combined with the unsettled state of the voters, that conflict gives this campaign seasoo an unusual air oot only of importance but also of unpredictability. "This Is the most abnormal election I've seeo in the 30 years I've been in this," said former Representative Tony Coelho of California, who advised the Democratic Party during the 1994 elections. "My gut says it's not going to be normal."

Perhaps voters will consolidate the changes they began in 1994 by installing a Republican in the White House and solidifying Republican control of Congress. But as much as voters profess to deplore the gridlock in Washington, many seem to regard the alternatives with even greater distaste.

Raily grasos wa nappened tom WS Fr Gorola

The Jerusalem Pue

Extent

of injury

SAN HATTIS ROLE

S. 6-

-

in the state

tabu ta tab

is couptling

a estin en leas

1100

EN P In

14.7

ورود الادر

đ. ·------

en entre de la regule

Vol. CXLV-No. 50,299

Sunday, January 7, 1996

Copyright © 1995 The New York Times

A A765 08 11520 areda 42.1. A.191. Sug-1547 14 that wanness is subliced to the problem the second of a function what integrat secondly the

As ne was teeing off for a golf game, Jeff Sweatt, 28, a shipping supervisor in Nashville who voted for Republicans in 1994, blanched at the ootion of one-party control. "Checks and balances help keep them both kind of honest," he said. "Gingrich has gone too far to the right, like Rush Limbaugh. I liked Rush Limbaugh at one time, but he's just gotten too far out."

The evidence of a tamer electorate can be seen in receot polls, showing that people credit politicians with some accomplishments. And the scattered off-year elections last fall demonstrated that voters were not eager for more revolution; in Virginia, they rejected Gov. George Allen's crusade to win Republican control of the General Assembly for the first time since Reconstruction.

And if talk radio is a gauge of voters' vitriol, consider that Mr. Limbaugh's ratings, while still titanic, have dipped. That is not to say that Republicans have fallen from their perch; indeed, they have changed the terms of the debate. Mr. Gingrich may be the most unpopular political leader in America right now, but the battle

Continued on page 3

Only in America Where food is confused with medicine.

By William 🕌 Grimes

Kolata

Bosnia. By Ian

Dry Mission No booze for the boys in Fisher

The European Citizenship gets a new look. By Craig R. Whitney

. . . . .

THE JERUSALEM POST

The Nation

Good News on Drinking; Fries With That, Please

By WILLIAM GRIMES

NE Manhattan, straight up. please. On second thought, make it a double. Uncle Sam says it's O.K.

In its latest health pronunciamento, a revision of the Dietary Guidelines for Americans, issued on Monday, the Government declared that a moderate intake of alcohol appears to be beneficial to human health.

The health commissars, who in the past have have tended to describe alcohol as though it were a cross between nitroglycerine and crack, took care to emphasize that "moderate" means a cocktail a day for women, or two for men. But for the first time they dared to say out loud that alcohol may lower the risk of heart attack.

In a startling revelation, announced through pursed lips, they also stated, "Alcoholic beverages have been used to enhance the enjoyment of meals in many societies throughout human history."

The Government's new diet guidelines may be helpful, but Americans are mainly looking for ways to justify more cheeseburgers.

If the past is any guide, Americans can be counted on to boil down this carefully presented argument into two words: Let's party.

When it comes to diet, America is not rational. Reason counsels moderation and restraint in all things. It did to the Greeks 2,500 years ago and it no doubt did to the first hominoid who managed to stand upright and touch thumb to forefinger.

But there is something about moderation that runs directly against the American grain. This is a country that doesn't like speed limits, backs the right of every citizen to shoulder a grenade launcher and firmly believes that the aging process can be either slowed down or arrested entirely. No wonder that Americans frantically pick apart every new piece of scientific research on diet, looking for a magic bullet, a license to gorge.

"There is a need here, more than in any other country in the world, to eat bad food," said Alan Richman, the food and wine writer for GQ magazine. "Where else do people eat two meals a day at cuchifrito stands? Americans eat like third-graders."

Remember the French paradox? Studies from France seemed to show that Lucky Pierre could feast on foie gras, confit de canard, and pork rillettes but somehow keep his arteries clear by drinking red wine, which apparently melted fat faster than a copper saucepan over a high flame. Now that was the kind of health news Americans like. Suddenly, liquor stores could not keep red wine on the shelves.

Less Fat, Eat More

How about fat substitutes? The promise of dessert without fat touched off an an eating binge straight out of "Satyricon." Crazed consumers actually stalked the trucks delivering the Snackwell line of fat-free cookies and cakes and followed them right into supermarket parking lots. Nutritionists found themselves counseling distraught clients who could not figure out why eating several boxes of fat-free desserts every week would cause them to gain weight.

"In this culture, food is a reward system rather than a means of subsistence, and once you get past subsistence, you're indulging in cravings and fantasies," said Sarah Schlesinger, the author of "500 Fat-Free Recipes" and "Low-Fat and Fat-Free Appetizers, Snacks and Hors d'Oeuvres."

When Americans don't have their snouts in the trough, they turn around and practice bizarre forms of self-denial. American history is rich in fad diets that promise weight loss and spiritual health in one morally satisfying, if painful, package.

Dr. John Harvey Kellogg's experiments with purgative cures in Battle Creek around the turn of the century may be taken as the model: quack science, great p.r., ritual purification of the sinful body and, in the end, one successful business.

Kellogg's legacy can be seen in dozens of miracle diets based on the premise that if a little of a good thing is good, a lot is even better. Hence the all-grapefruit diet, the all-meat diet, the all-rice diet and, of course, oat bran, nature's little sponge for soaking up cholesterol.

America's love affair with oat bran was brief but heady. It brought the world many fascinating foods, notably the oat-bran potato chip. About the only products that didn't get the oat-bran treatment, in fact, were premium gasoline and designer menswear. A quick survey of the spreading American rear end, however, suggests that oat bran may have been seen not as a way to add beneficial fiber to the diet (the reasonable view) but as a license to load up on bacon double cheeseburgers.

Ms. Schlesinger, in her fat-free capacity, has seen some grim sights. "People will eat enormous, hugely fat-filled ice-cream sundaes — totally binge out — at the same time that they are searching for something fatfree," she said.

Who knows, the quick fix may lie just over the horizon. This week, scientists announced that they had isolated a protein, called GLP-1, that tells the brain when it is time for the body to stop eating. After being injected with the protein, lab rats on a normal diet reached the same torpid, satiated state that bumans achieve only after a consuming a tub of double fudge pecan ice cream.

Prospects look rosy. Perhaps in the not-too-distant future, willpower will come in tablet form.

In the meantime, the Government is happy to pass along helpful tips. Marion Nestle, a nutrition expert, applauded the Government for its courage in suggesting, among other things, that sugar should be consumed in moderation, that vegetables are good for you, fat isn't, and it probably makes more sense to eat a halanced diet than to consume handfuls of dietary supplements. "It's a miracle," she said last week. "It's a triumph of science and reason over politics."

A miracle? A gaggle of bureaucrats sitting in a room were able to produce advice that mothers have been giving their children for the past 40 years. Eat your vegetables. Enough with the sugar, you'll rot your teeth. Turn that TV off and go outside and play.

And, no. No way are you getting a Miller Lite in your lunch box.

2 IE

French Zone, British Zone, Alcohol-Free Zone

No Beer for You. Soldier

By IAN FISHER

TUZLA, Bosnia and Herzegovina HERE is a building on the NATO military base here that has become an object of wistful longing in the hrains of many American soldiers in Bosnia. It is the Norwegian Post Exchange, a remnant of earlier peace-keeping missions, where the management stocks a full line of beer: two Norwegian brands, Heineken, Tuborg, Grolsch, Corona and — sorry, guys — Miller Genuine Draft.

"A beer," one 31-year-old American sergeant said last week, "would be good."

The Norwegian soldiers here can drink in moderation, as can the French the Danes and the Britisb.

But for Americans, the mission in Bosnia is supposed to be alcobol free. After the excesses of drugs and booze in Vietnam, the military learned that sober soldiers made better soldiers and, anecdotally at least, the policy paid off in the Persian Gulf War. Military officials say the usual run of accidents was reduced substantially there because of a hard no-drinking rule.

In Saudi Arabia, one big factor was fear of offending the strict Muslim sensibilities of the hosts, who ban alcohol as a matter of religion. The secular Muslims of Bosnia don't share such acute sensibilities, but for other reasons the policy of abstention is even more important here.

Arguably, in fact, it cuts to the heart of the

The U.S. started its no-drinking rule in the Persian Gulf war, breaking centuries of military tradition.

American strategy in Bosnia. The mission is not likely to be judged on whether it brings real peace. That may be impossible. Rather, as the deployment winds down around the Presidential election next year, an already skeptical public will be counting closely how many men and women return alive, whole and healthy.

Safety First

This "not-a-hair-on-their-heads" strategy has been evident at every turn in this young mission, even when it has made the military look plodding. Early flights of soldiers and equipment into Tuzla were turned around because of fog and snow. Maj. Gen. William L. Nash, the commander of the multi-national force in the American sector, weathered ridicule from other branches of the military and from locals for taking what appeared to be his own sweet time in building the bridge over the Sava River, the main supply route for troops into Bosnia.

Plum brandy is the military drink of choice in the area, but a Serb meeting Americans near Orasje, Bosnia, offers coffee.

Now, General Nash has made it clear he is willing to risk hurting morale by not allowing soldiers, who will be here for as long as a year, to drink or leave their posts to mingle amid the unknown dangers of local bars and restaurants. Soldiers here said they were ordered not to drink starting 48 hours before they left their bases in Germany.

"The No. 1 issue on morale is the security and force protection of the soldiers," he said at a news conference with Secretary of Defense William J. Perry here last week. "And that is paramount to all that we will do. We will have many activities for the soldiers as this theater matures. It's much too early to talk about going downtown."

Drinking has often gone hand-in-hand with soldiering in wartime as a way to fight fear and boredom: There is the mythic rum ration for British sailors and stories of beer rations increasing for infantrymen of yore under heavy fire. Until recently, the French meal rations came complete with a small bottle of cognac. With typical Nordic precision, half of the 700 Norwegian troops in Bosnia must be completely alcohol free, while the other half are permitted to drink in moderation, a loosely-defined standard that one Norwegian private said appears to mean not acting drunk.

"it means you don't get yourself deaddrunk," Coi. Brynjar Nymo, a NATO spokesman who is Norwegian, clarified. "You are allowed a beer or two, or a glass of cognac with your coffee. You don't sit and drink all night."

With a twinge of American puritanism, the United States military has been more strict. The Navy, by long tradition, absolutely forbids drinking on its ships, unless the voyage lasts over 45 consecutive days. In that case, the commander can authorize two beers per sailor (but no hard liquor).

"It's just two beers," said Lieut, Commander Denny Moynihan, a Navy spokesman at the Pentagon.

The military missions to Haiti and Somalia also carried the no-drinking rule, military spokesmen said. In Bosula, there is only one exemption: Among all three major factions in Bosnia, including Muslims, it is traditional to seal a pact or celebrate a weighty meeting with a shot of liquor (usually the native slivovitz, a plum hrandy), and a refusal to join in could be seen as an insult. So a commander on the ground can permit a soldier involved in negotiations to share a nip if the aim is to avoid giving offense.

"I'm not going to say a person can get ripsnorting drunk just to negotiate something," said Maj. Lew Boone, a spokesman for the United States European Command. But in isolated cases, he said, toasting to seal a deal is all right. "If the commander says that's fine, that will happen." Among the American soldiers themselves, the policy has prompted mixed feel-

The idea is to keep everyone healthy, if not happy, for return to the States.

4

2

ings, with much dreaming about the Norwegian PX and bow to smuggle in liquor (Listerine is apparently the same color as Jack Daniels) combined with an understanding of the sacrifice.

"They send Joe to Tuzla, Bosnia, give him live ammunition and trust him to do that," said Lieut. Bill Donovan, an otherwise loyal assistant to the press operations here. "But they can't trust him to have a beer on his time off? The message is inconsistent."

One of the young men behind the machine gun pointed at the main gate said he prefers not to have the choice, for himself or for other soldiers he might have to depend on.

"When it comes down to it, if somebody ran this gate, it's my joh to stop him," said Pfc. Trevor Macy, 21, of West Plains, Mo. "If I don't because I've been drinking, who's to blame?"

No Brawls

Down the main road, Staff Sgt. Kenton Lewis, a 30-year-old military policeman, said the policy makes his job much easier. "Being law enforcement, we don't have to break up any fights, go to any drunk driving accidents," said Sergeant Lewis, who by uncanny coincidence is also from West Plains, Mo., but did not know Private Macy. "I personally like a good beer every now and again," he said. "But there are too many people carrying weapons around here."

In the coming months, a NATO official said, it is possible that the American military will reconsider its strict rule on drinking, but not if the commanders feel the risk to safety is too high.

"Right now it's force protection," said the official.

1000 - 14

THE NEW YORK TIMES, SUNDAY, JANUARY 7, 1996

Ideas & Trends

Is a Gene Making You Read This?

By GINA KOLATA

THE JERUSALEM POST

R. LEE SILVER, a biology professor at Princeton University, says the work he is doing is so simple that, to prove his point, he is allowing undergraduates to do it.

Dr. Silver is among a growing number of scientists searching for genes that predispose people to complex behavioral traits, like aggression or a tendency toward alcoholism or drug abuse or even toward daydreamingor thrill seeking.

The work can lead to new treatments for alcohol and drug abase or even for excessively aggressive behavior, but it also has implications that are profound, even troubling. And so it leads inevitably to the question: Is some research best not done at all?

Although the quest for genetic links to behavior is old, the difference now, scientists say, is that techniques are suddenly available to find such genes. Only last week, researchers announced they had found a gene that gives people an impulsive personality.

Researchers, however, say people are not slaves to their genes and that environment plays a role. "We are not talking about genes that determine behavior," said. Dr. John Crabbe, a neuroscientist at Oregon Health Sciences University in Portland, "We are talking about genes that influence behavior."

But as they get oearer to finding these genes, scientists are beginning to wonder what they have

Although most shy away from suggesting that such research be stopped, some scientists wish that it had not begun. Earlier. in this century scientists raised questions about atomic fission and its consequences. In the 1970's scientists became skittish over genetic engineering and declared a temporary moratorium, fearful that adding foreign genes to bacteria might create an unconquerable disease. Today some scientists vehemently oppose transplanting organs from baboons to humans, worrying that an H.L.V.-like virus in the baboon could set off another AIDS epidemic.

But scientists' qualms over the study of genes and their link to behavior are different. One fear is that society might abuse the results, stigmatizing people whose genes linked them with low intelligence or drug addiction. But an even deeper fear is that science will soon be able to intervene - soothe an impulsive personality, quell a rapist's tendencies or duil an alcoholic's cravings. If every difficult behavior could be ameliorated, if every rough personality made smooth, "where is the core of the human soul?" Dr. Silver asked.

Free to Inquire

Several Princeton professors, including Dr. Silver, are passionately debating the issues surrounding genetically linked behavior, by E-mail and in discussion groups. Dr. Angela Creager, a historian of science, said she hesitates to say that some research should be banned. "Part of what makes science great is the freedom of inquiry," she said. But, she added, "I think there is research that we should really worry about."

Dr. Vinceanne Adams, a medical anthropologist at Princeton, said she worries that behavioral research is "stepping right up against, kissing with, eugenics."

Modern genetics has a tainted history in this country and Germany where early in this century scientists attempted to weed out the unfit and the feeble minded by sterilization, "When you find genetic bases for incurable conditions or behaviors that are socially not tolerated, you have to worry about what mechanisms are in place to help people," Dr. Adams said.

People with these genes might be rejected by insurance companies, Dr. Adams said, and be subjected to "restrictions on being able to reproduce."

Suggesting a different scenario, Dr. Silver said: "Let's say we could identify boys who have a tenfold higher potential to be rapists. What do you do with these children?. On the one hand, you can restrict their freedom. You can imagine people saying they don't want that person in their neighborhood. But Dr. Silver said, "There's the alternative there's what this research might lead to." If scientists find genes that increase the odds that a boy will grow up to be a rapist, they could probably find ways to block those genes, with drugs. Should the boys then be forced to take drugs although most would never rape?

WEEKLY REVIEW

Equally problematical are the implications of findng genes like the one for impulsiveness, Dr. Silver said, He said it is likely that scientists will find hundreds of such genes that together help determine personalities through subtle changes in brain chemistry.

People argued about Prozac and whether it was good or bad to alter peoples' personalities chemically. But, Dr. Silver said: "Prozac is like shooting a cannon at the brain. Now things are going to be much more specific. It will be like putting pins in." He said he did not know exactly when this would occur, but he said, "I think it's going to happen."

And so science will bring society face to face with an ancient question: What defines a human being? "If you are taking away all these things, if you are saying it is all just chemicals in the brain, then you keep chipping away at the soul," Dr. Silver said.

Despite these scenarios, scientists cannot bring themselves to say that they would voluntarily stop their work. The financial incentives - Federal grants and money pouring in from drug companies - are numerous. But scientists have to live with themselves, and they have a variety of reasons why they persevere.

Some point to the positive.

"Alcoholism kills and maims a lot of people every year," said Dr. Wade Berrettini, a researcher at Thomas Jefferson University in Philadelphia who is looking for genes linked to alcoholism. "We doo't have good treatments now. In order to provide better treatments, we have to understand how it develops." Others stress the metaphysical.

Would I not do an experiment because I thought the information might be abused down the line?" Dr. Silver asked. "The cynical answer is, 'Well, if I don't do it, someone else will.'

"I think that ultimately all knowledge is good for human beings. I don't think you can censor knowledge, he added. "I think scieotists have an obligation to help society go in the right direction. But whether society listens to us is another story."

- 3 IE

The Mellowing Of the American Voter

THE EXCLUSIVE DAVO HINGELESS ISRAEL STAMP ALBUM

There's no better way to present and protect your Israel stamp collection than in a stamp album from Davo, a leading manufacturer of stamp accessories in Europe.

This set features three nchly padded albums with spine and cover embossed with the emblem of the State of Israel. Each album comes in its own slip-case.

The three albums include spaces for all stamps issued from the beginning of the State of Israel in 1948 to the end of 1994, with a picture for most stamps. All spaces include crystal clear special mounts to protect each individual stamp. The loose leaf pages are of top quality pure white cartridge paper and are designed to lie flat when the album is open.

- Volume II 1948-1964
   Volume II 1965-1979

the line of the As of the At some out in the where provide the end of the state

 Volume III 1980-1994 Presenting your Israeli stamps, 1948 - 1994, in a Davo album will give your collection the air of distinction it deserves.

JP Special Price: NIS 1,049, for the three volume set, or in six instalments of NIS 187.00 by credit card.

Individual volumes also available separately, NIS 399.00 ea. FREE door-to-door delivery in Israel, where available.

To: To: The Jerusalem Post, POB 81, Jerusalem 91000

02-241282 Fax: 02-241212

GIFT

IDEA

Please deliver the Davo Hingeless Stamp Album. Enclosed is my check payable to The Jerusalem Post, or credit card details.

INIS 187 x 6 C	redit card paymentsVisa mes NIS 399.00 ea.	C Isracard C Diners
U Vol.I U Vo		Exp
CC Number
Name
Address		Code
City		Tel. (day)
Country	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
Signature
-

Continued from page 1

is being fought more or less on his terms. And the fervor for third party or independent candidates has dissipated. Last week, the Reform Party established by Ross Perot failed to gather enough signatures to qualify as a political organization in Maine, where Mr. Perot had his best showing in the 1992 Presidential race. Also last week, Senator Bill Bradley, a New Jersey Democrat who had flirted with an independent bid, made clear that he will oot run.

Mission Accomplished

It could be that people think their rage has paid off. Rawls Ray, 50, a computer operator in Murfreesboro who backed Mr. Perot in 1992, said, "Everyone's anger made it easy for them to accomplish what they wanted to: the Government has to be more conservative about spending money."

A more cynical explanation for the electorate's relative calm is resignation. It could be that after years of throwing the bums out, some voters have concluded that they will never get what they want. "The economic problems that affected voters two and four years ago are still around," said Robert Joffee, an independent pollster in Miami. "The sentiment is, 'We tried this, we tried that, but that doesn't mean everything's better. I'm oot going to expect any magic solutions.""

One who has lowered his expectations is Robert Farrar, 35, a firefighter and cootractor in South Laguna, Calif., who lamented: "The best people in the country aren't in politics because they're too smart."

But while voters seem to expect less of government, they still worry that they will not be able to pay for medical bills, bousing, their children's educations and their own retirements. Because of these continuing economic concerns, the Federal budget machinations threaten to revive the fullblown rancor against politics-as-usual.

After visiting his district in the Florida panhandle, Representative Joe Scarborough, a freshman Republican, allowed that he was subjected to his share of recriminations over the budget: "People aren't bashing the President. People aren't bashing Congress. They're bashing everybody."

The dilemma for politicians is that voters appear to want it all: They want the budget balanced but they do not want cuts that would unduly hurt poor people. They want universal health care, but not if it could limit their choice of doctors. They want Mr. Clinton to keep the country out of Bosnia, but they want him to prove his foreign policy bona fides. They attack a politician for pandering, yet they want to know why that politician has not helped their pet cause.

Take Dallas W. Jolley, 40, a lawyer and a Republican in Puyallup, Wash., who spoke in one breath with enthusiasm and warmess about the House Republicans' Contract With America. "I'd like to hear about real cuts," said Mr. Jolley. "But I don't want them to go too far. I don't want them to burt people." Then he added: "My parents are in their 70's and I appreciate them getting some help on their medical expenses."

Victor Myers, 75, a retired insurance agent from Orange, Calif., described himself as a staunch Republican. "We've got to get the budget balanced." he said. "But, of course, we don't waot Medicare tampered with much."

Mike Pagan, 51, a retired pollce officer in Moreno Valley, Calif., called the welfare system "stupid," saying, "I don't believe we should have girls with babies running around picking up money for free."

"We should dump it," Mr. Pagan said of the current system. "But that doesn't mean we should hurt people."

Mr. Gingrich embodies the sentiment that politicians are going too far. In the interviews, bundreds of voters - Republicans and Democrats alike - responded with tortured body language at the mention of his name: some smirked, others waved him off, saying they did oot want to talk about him. Many just rolled their eyes.

"Newt scares me, he's a little bit frighten-

Republicans lean to the Bob Dole shade of conservatism.

ing to me," said Doug Rhodes, 52, a cotton and soybean farmer near Murfreesboro who usually votes Republican. "It's all right to go a little bit conservative. But it seems like he likes power awfully well."

That may explain why after spending nearly $20 million last year, Senator Phil Gramm's campaign for the Republican nomination is stalled in single digits. More than anyone in the field, the Texan represents the spirit of the Gingrich Congress. Republican voters so far are more comfortable with the split-the-difference conservatism of Senator Bob Dole.

When asked about their dream choices for President, voters of both parties brought up one name again and again: Harry S. Truman. But he probably couldn't live up to their ideals, either. The man from Independence is a lot more popular now than he was a half century ago.

And politicians should not be fooled into thinking that the electorate suddenly regrets its contradictory impulses, or accepts the compromises needed to recoocile them. The language may have grown a tad more reasonable, but the demands can be something else again.

Listen to Roger Gross, 48, a phone company installer in Tacoma, whose advice to the President about slashing spending sounds fair enough - for a moment: "Just go in there and pick one of the Cabinet members and say, 'Your operating budget is going to be 30 percent less and I want you to reduce 70 percent of that out of manpower.' They'll figure out how to work more efficiently."

Then there was Helen Whitworth, 47, a kindergarten teacher in Murireesboro who accused Republicans of trying to destroy Medicare and ruin education programs. 'That's not the only way to cut the deficit," she said

What, then, is another way? Mrs. Whitworth just shrugged.

WEEKLY REVIEW

THE NEW YORK TIMES, SUNDAY, JANUARY 7, 1996

THE JERUSALEM POST

The World

Turkish workers in Germany, even children born there, are rarely able to obtain German citizenship.

Europeans Redefine What Makes a Citizen

By CRAIG R. WHITNEY

PARIS HILDREN born on French soil to foreign parents used to acquire French citizenship automatically, but since 1993 they have had to apply for it before their 18th birthdays. Like the rest of Western Europe, France bas tightened citizenship rules to discourage immigration. Nearly three million people in France, immigrant and native alike, are unemployed, and extreme-right political movements have persuaded 15 to 20 percent of the electorate that unemployment would vanish if the immigrants went bome.

In Germany, it can be easier for a child whose family lived in Russia for 200 years to become a German citizen than it is for an American or for the German-born child of a Turkish "guest worker," even if that child speaks no Turkisb and has been educated in German schools. Germany defines citizenship by bloodline. So Russian descendants of the ethnic Germans whom Catherine the Great brought over to farm the Volga River Valley can come back to Germany as citizens under the country's law of return. But most others wanting to acquire German citizenship might find it easier to pass through the eye of a needle.

Britain, which admitted millions of people from its former African and Asian colonies until the 1970's, long ago raised the barriers. A proposal in the late 1980's to try to settle nerves in Hong Kong, which reverts to China next year, by giving full British passports to thousands of the colony's most dynamic business leaders and investors met with howls of protest from British politicians afraid of a backlash from their constituents. A recent attempt by Chris Patten, the colony's Governor-General, to revive the proposal fell oo deaf ears.

While the creation of European Union points to a continent drawing closer together, with many countries issuing European rather than national passports, the efforts to limit immigration seem to be resulting in more rigid definitions of citizenship rather than more relaxed ones

Still Guarding the Borders

The anti-immigrant mood is widespread in Europe these days, and it's one of the reasons why the 15-nation Union has not yet made good on a promise made five years ago to do away with internal border controls and create a true common market that could eventually stimulate the economic growth needed to bring down chronic high unemployment .

Nine of the 15 nations eventually agreed to try to do away with inspection of passports and identity cards at crossing points along their borders by Jan. 1, 1993, but that was postponed by more than a year. Belgium, Germany and Spain don't guard their frontiers with France anymore but France, despite its claim to be at. the core of the new Europe, unilaterally delayed the elimination of border controls by six more months at the turn of the year.

The French are worried about drug smuggling as well as illegal immigrants, and basically they aren't yet confident that their neighbors will do the job of barring the door for them as well as they can do it themselves.

For centuries, most of Europe has defined nationbood by ethnicity, even if citizenship follows different. rules. Liberty, equality and fraternity means French citizenship today for 1.8 million people whose ancestors weren't Gauls, most of them from its former North African colonies.

But in Germany, a country where 6.9 million foreigners live, barely a trickle ever become citizens. Of the nearly 2 million Turks living there, only 19,000 acquired German citizenship in 1994. Many who might qualify (by baving lived in Germany for 15 years without a criminal record and by being self-supporting). don't apply because they would have to give up Turkish citizenship and the right to own or inherit property in Turkey, if they ever got it.

Citizenship, immigration and asylum are all connected issues. After the unification of Germany in 1990, refugees began pouring into the country, and in 1992. 438,191 people from the Balkans, central Europe and elsewhere claimed political asytum there. What most of them really wanted was a better life, but until 1993,. German asylum law entitled anybody who set foot on German soil to make a claim and to make years of appeals if the claim was denied.

The seemingly uncontrollable influx led to firebombings and anti-foreigner violence by neo-Nazi and other extremist groups and to a more general public clamor to cut back the flow of asylum-seekers.

In 1993, the German Parliament changed the asylum law to make it possible for German authorities to . repel unqualified applicants at the point of entry. Asylum applications plummeted, and last year they had dropped to about 127,000.

More than half of these people were fleeing countries where xenophobia exploded into war. With the disintegration of Yugoslavia, hundreds of thousands of people who had lived as "Yugoslavs" in a multi-ethnic state were driven out of their homes, raped and murdered simply because they happened to be Muslim,. Croat or Serb.

Can Slovaks Be Czechs?

While Bosnia may be an extreme example, the results of intolerance can be seen elsewhere. Even in the Czech Republic, widely viewed as the most tolerant and democratic of all the formerly communist states of central Europe, a Czech human rights group estimates that about 20,000 Gypsies have been denied citizenship since 1993. No citizenship means no health benefits or pension rights, and Gypsies are not the only ones who have problems because of the Czech Republic's law, which grants citizenship most easily to ethnic Czechs. Slovaks, no matter how long they had lived in the Czech part of the country, became foreigners the instant the country split up, and had to apply for Czech citizenship if they wanted it. Many did not qualify. International organizations have urged Czech officials to change the law, but so far they have made no move to do so.

Problems like these exist on a larger scale throughout much of the former Soviet Union, causing political insecurity in central and eastern Europe. Disenfranchised Russian minorities in Belarus, Ukraine and the Baltics look to Russia for protection that Russian nationalists like Vladimir Zhirinovsky would be only too happy to give them.

Chaos produces political backlash, which is why the nationalist, Communist and Agrarian opposition to President Boris N. Yelisin will have about 250 of the 450 seats in the Parliament that was elected last month.

Here in France, where double-digit unemployment may be the undoing of the welfare state, the right-wing National Front leader Jean-Marie Le Pen wins votes by saying that the 3 million unemployed French workers would find jobs if 3 million immigrants would go back where they came from.

But demographic experts say he's wrong. Low birth rates in France, and in Germany and Britain too, mean that workers from outside will be needed to pay the pensions of the baby boomers who will start retiring after the turn of the century.

Maintaining their high standard of living is definitely something that appeals to the hearts of well-off Europeans, who might eventually be driven by economlc self-interest into simplifying citizenship rules.

HER HE

ADAY RELATING

les

When Peacekeepers Turn Into Troublemakers

By BARBARA CROSSETTE

UNITED NATIONS S the United Nations was getting ready to turn over its mission in Bosnia to an American-led force under NATO command, a group of leaders of buman rights and women's organizations wrote to Madeleine K. Albright, the American representative on the Security Council, to ask some pointed questions.

Would American troops get the necessary training to avoid "Okinawa-type situations" - three American servicemen are being tried in a Japanese court in the abduction and rape of a 12-year-old Okinawan girl -and would they also be on the lookout for abusive behavior of any kind among the soldiers from about 30 other nations under American command? Would American troops abroad be living under the rules and laws they must obey at home, setting an international standard?

As armies find themselves less at war and more often on the flimsy barricades of peace, stationed among desperate and vul-nerable people stripped of privacy and dignity, the behavior of military men and women in peacekeeping missions is coming under new scrutiny around the world.

In fact, the American soldiers are under tough restrictions - no alcohol and no offbase entertainment excursions (article, page 3). And in their initial contacts with Bosnians, many have shown an effort to be understanding of the distressed population. But, as the concerns expressed in the letter reflect, in Bosnia the Americans are being thrown into a mix of peacekeepers from other lands who may have other habits - habits that have led to excesses excused over the centuries with the indulgent explanation, "Boys will be boys."

Bars and Brothels

Three years ago in Cambodia, for example, 170 people wrote a letter to Yasushi Akashi, the Secretary General's representative in charge of the nation-rebuilding effort, to complain about the behavior of peacekeepers and civilian officials on his international team. The harassment of women, the letter said, "occurs regularly in public restaurants, hotels and bars, banks, markets and shops." Cambodian and other Asian women working for the United Nations were assigned inferior roles and social standing. "Women have little access to redress," the letter said.

The bad behavior was not limited to abuse of women. There were bar fights, brawls and shootouts and a proliferation of brothels, stolen vehicles and general drunken

7

Bosnia is just meeting a new array of foreigners in helmets, replacing U.N. forces. Behind the fence in Sarajevo are U.S. marines.

boorishness. Geographical origins were no indicator of what to expect. While some Asian and African troops got out of line, it was the soldiers of a Bulgarian battalion who had the worst reputation. They went down in local legend as "the Vulgarians."

On the other hand, Bangladeshi soldiers, drawn from a poor and fractious country, are remembered for discipline and humanity. They had a commander who rewarded bad behavior with a flight home in disgrace.

"Because international forces are the dominant presence in many more countries, there is a growing recognition that they must abide strictly by international humanitarian law and the rules of war," said Kenneth Roth, Executive Director of Human Rights Watch, which has been waging a campaign to get the United Nations and the United States to enforce a 1977 protocol to the 1949 Geneva Convention that deals with treatment of civilians. "They are setting the tone for the nation that is to emerge from the peacekeeping effort."

Mr. Roth said that in maintaining personal rectitude and avoiding the indiscriminate or extralegal use of military power, international forces fell short in Cambodia and Somalia (the Americans at the time were criticized for using massive firepower on raids inside the capital). "The mess that Cambodia finds itself in today is in large part a product of the U.N.'s failure to strictly uphold the rule of law," he said, when the N. was the law.

In Somalia in 1993, a Canadian airborne. force disgraced itself by torturing and murdering a teen-aged Somali caught stealing.

In the ensuing investigations, videotapes were found that documented racist behavior and language among the soldiers, who called Somalis "nig-nogs" and joked about going hunting for some. The airborne unit was disbanded a year ago.

On the hilly streets and hidden byways of Rwanda's capital, Kigali, an encounter with the blue helmets of United Nations peacekeepers is still not always a reassuring experience, the Rwandese say. They accuse foreign troops, some but not all of them fellow Africans, of illicit trading, hit-and-run driving, sexual harassment and criminal abuse of a diplomatic immunity they have bestowed on themselves. The disruptive personal behavior of some troops has been a factor in Rwanda's demand that all peacekeepers be withdrawn from the country, said Manzi Bakuramutsa, the country's envoy at the United Nations.

When it comes to human rights, civil rights, political liberties and the rule of law, the United Nations is often on weak ground generally, even as it tries to forge a stronger role for itself in fostering democracy and political development. The problem is that however lofty its stated ideals, they are often tethered to the desires and habits of the lowest common denominator, the least enlightened of the organization's 185 members. Twice recently, for instance, films have been palled at the last minute from the screening rooms at the United Nations headquarters. One was "Vukovar," about the collapse of that Croatian city with a theme sympathetic to the Serbs who were the aggressors (Croatia stepped in to censor the event). The military rulers of Myanmar, formerly known as Burma, were next: They yanked "Beyond Rangoon," about an American tourist caught up in the Burmese military crackdown of 1988. And this in the United Nations' officially proclaimed "Year of Tolerance."

No Classrooms

Unlike civilian United Nations missions, where courses or seminars on how to be a good international citizen are part of the preparation, peacekeeping forces are cobbled together with no formal effort to universalize rules of behavior. Officials, who have trouble just finding troops, say there is no global curriculum, time or money for such instruction. Each country is responsible for disciplining and enlightening its own troops. "This is a critically important issue," said Felice D. Gaer of the Jacob Blaustein Institute for the Advancement of Human Rights in New York. Ms. Gaer, one of the signers of the letter to Ms. Albright, says the history of the Bosnia operation has repeatedly been marred by reports of abuses among the European troops who dominated the United Nations forces. Eighty percent of those peacekeepers are now part of the NATO-led operation.

"People look up to the U.N. and expect it to live up to a higher calling, to the higher standards the U.N. itself proclaims," she said in an interview. The same should now be expected of a NATO-led force, she added. "This applies to the Russians, it applies to the Jordanians, it applies to the Americans or to the Indonesians, she said. "No one, including military officers, has an exemption from a universal standard of human Tights "

THE NEW YORK TIMES, SUNDAY, JANUARY 7, 1996

Yes, He's Revived Sears. But Can He Reinvent It?

ECONOMY

By JUDITH H. DOBRZYNSKI

HOFFMANN ESTATES, III. I'S 9 A.M. on a November Friday. The auditorium at Sears, Roebuck & Company's headquarters here in suburban Chicago is filled with balloons. More than 900 employees jam the seats and spill over onto the floor.

A spotlight breaks the semidarkness, revealing a ringmaster. "Welcome to the Sears P.S.E. Circus," he says. "It's eye-popping. Death-defy-ing. Larger than life. Well, not deathdefying."

Next comes Jim La the clown, in orange hat, turquoise-and-pink jacket and plaid pants. He tells a few corny jokes. Then he breaks into a rap song, ending with "we work real hard; now it's time to play. Hey, hey, what do you say?" What has this got to do with Sears?

The next verse does work in "come see the softer side of Sears," straight from the campaign advertising the company's expanded clothing departments. The following one mentions customer service. And it helps to know that Sears sponsors the Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey circus's national tour as part of its appeal to families. Even so, questions linger. Shouldn't these people be working?

Arthur C. Martinez, chief executive of Sears, wanted town hall meetmgs, pep rallies really. The P.S.E. (for pure selling environment) circuses - which dovetailed with the sponsorship - were the results. He wanted, as one aide put it, "to create common ground, to make sure people understand what he's doing." What Mr. Martinez is trying to do at Sears is foment a cultural revolution, a re-education effort that would make Mao proud. Mr. Martinez has already made COULT monumental changes. When retailers released their holiday sales figures last Thursday, Sears was no longer a laggard. It was the star. In . the worst season since the 1990 recession, other big stores posted minimal gains or losses, but Sears registered a 9.2 percent sales increase. In domestic stores open a year or more, the gain was 6.8 percent.

THE JERUSALEM POST

- And that comes on top of an impressive earlier record. As soon as Mr. Martinez became bead of the Sears retail operations in 1992 when Sears still owned insurance and financial services businesses he started spending $4 billion to remodel shabby stores. He upgraded the merchandise and added privatebrand apparel and cosmetics at the faded American institution, which was once known affectionately as the Big Store. He revamped market -.

Sears, again just a retailer, was back Revenue climbed 5.9 percent in 1995 to about $35 billion, while net profit, $890 million in 1994, probably grew to $995 million, according to a conservative estimate by Goldman, Sachs. In 1995, the company's stock price jumped nearly 71 percent, closing at $39 on Dec. 29 - a gain second only to Merck among the 30 bluechip stocks in the Dow Jones industrial average. The Standard & Poor's index of 32 retailers including Sears, meanwhile, increased just 10.3 percent

But that was the easy part. As the just-passed holiday season showed, the retail environment is brutal. America is over-stored, and brand-

name retailers like Bradlees and Caldor are among the many who have belly-flopped into bankruptcy

Sears will survive. But unless it woos new, loyal customers, the Big Store is unlikely to thrive. Diminishing its profitability, for example, is an annual sales-per-square-foot figure that, at $365, lags behind that of Wal-Mart as well as its own goal of topping $400 by 1998. "What was good enough to get us where we are is not good enough to get us going forward," Mr. Martinez said recently, his deep blue eyes looking earnest and ambitious.

If employees can be convinced by circuses or whatever - that change is a must, they may alter their behavior willingly and accept Mr. Martinez's attempts to decentralize and restructure Sears for growth.

That's the theory. And with the help of consultants like McKinsey & Company and A. T. Kearney, he is pushing programs to change the way people think about and go about their iobs.

The effort goes far heyond pep rallies. It includes discussion groups, training sessions, new job descriptions, new operating structures and a new pay system - all intended to place decision making closer to the customer and make it customer friendly. And it involves employees, soliciting their ideas, letting them experiment and improving their skills as they reach for better performance. It is a blend of Barnum and business school basics. .

"We've tried to take it beyond the classroom and get it into an environment where people can get energized," Mr. Martinez explained. them." That's better than a 25-minute videotape of the chairman." In a service business, the best workers are happy about doing their jobs.

And so, at 9:20 A.M., Patricia A. Recktenwald vice president for store operations, takes over from Jim La and turns the circus into a serious, though still amusing, training exercise. In gold-and-silver sequined tails, Ms. Recktenwald repeats a Martinez goal - stripping some reporting requirements and administrative tasks from store managers and clerks so they have more time to actually sell.

"Store managers were only spending 29 percent of their time on the sales floor," she said. "Now they are spending 80. 19 90 percent of their time on the floor."

Friday's close 542.00 a share 52-week low, high $21_80-542.375 Marker capitalization $16.4 billion 1995 sales, pretmarary $35 billion Estimated 1995 earnings. $1.1 billion consensus -$2.50 a share Estimated 1996 earnings. $7.89 a share Debt to capital 79.6% Sears S.&P. 500 Price to estimated 16.8 16.8 1995 earnings Price to book 4.1 3.7 Drvidend yield 2,2 2.2 THINGS TO WATCH Customers are carrying larger average credit balances (SB42 per person, as of Sept 30, 1995) and are taking longer to pay (just over so months), for ong Sears to raise its provisions for bad cebts and maintain a high level of debt itself are improving," he said, sharing the results of a customer survey. "But what drives our overall score down is service."

Customer satisfaction numbers for Sears and its rivals, tallied by a consultant, indeed deliver bad news. The Sears score in 1994 was 69 out of 100, lower than Kmart's (70), J.C. Penney's (71) and Wal-Mart's (78). The complaints would be funny if they were not real:

 "There were plenty of cash registers but there's never anyone at •"We were looking for an oven.

The salesperson knew nothing. We went elsewhere." • "Twice I called and was told an item was in stock, but when I got there it wasn't." Finally, the leader unveils a chart that breaks down the resolution of customer complaints and shows how those customers feel. "The implication is, even if we resolve a complaint, many customers won't come back.'

Conversation in the room has jumped from topic to topic, but the customer is the common thread. Guiding the talk is a "learning map," a multicolored chart the size of two Monopoly boards that sits on .... the table. Every one of the company's 300,000 workers journeyed

Suddenly, participatory management was in. Store managers and associates were allowed to think for themselves, to experiment. "Our focus is to push ownership down and have people take responsibility," Ms. Lehman said

But it is dangerous to ask that of employees unless they share a common frame of reference. So the learning map exercises, the town hall meetings, Sears University and other training exercises were born.

Mr. Martinez came to Sears from the vice chairman's post at Saks Fifth Avenue. He was brought in by Edward A. Brennan, who ran the larger, diversified Sears for nine years before finally bowing to shareholder pressure and spinning off the nonretailing businesses, one by one, the last few years. Even its trophy headquarters building, the Sears Tower in Chicago's Loop, is gone. When Mr. Brennan finished the task last summer, he retired. In August, Mr. Martinez, 56, became chief executive of the slimmed-down company.

He bad never staged pep rallies at Saks. "The difference is that this is an organization that needed to start feeling good about itself and its customers," he said.

Sears had long since lost its status as an American retailing icon in the face of new competition from the likes of Wal-Mart and category killers like Circuit City and Bed, Bath and Beyond. As sales stagnated, its stores suffered from inattention. Nobody likes working at an ailing company. And customers sensed it.

Scars is not yet flying high, though it is gaining altitude. "He is now taking market share away from stores above him and from many specialty stores as well as from stores below him, the discount stores," said Kurt Barnard, president of Barnard's Retail Marketing Report.

Sometime in 1994, Sears bad gained enough sales momentum for Mr. Martinez to focus on corporate culture. "Sears' fundamental problem was arrogance from past success," Mr. Martinez said. "That blipded it to what was going on in the competitive arena and with customers."

His prescription: "We have to change how we think about ourselves and what we want to be known for," Mr. Martinez said. "That's bow we came to the three C's."

"The three C's" is internal shorthand for the overarching theme at Sears. The actual slogan, introduced. in 1994, is: "A compelling place to.

they would have been in the past. None of this is rocket science. In fact, much of what Mr. Martinez is trying to do at Sears is common sense. When one top manager sought board room approval for an initiative, a director shot back that the plan was "a blinding flash of the obvious." Indeed.

1E 5

But that does not mean that this, or any, cultural transformation is easy, Success stories do not abound, and the skeptics are plentiful.

"I see no evidence that the efforts are working," said Philip Johnson, president of Leo J. Shapiro & Associates, a Chicago retailing consultant. Then again, he added, "I have not seen Mr. Martinez make a lot of mistakes either, especially in the financial area. There have been disappointments in his fashion upgrade, but his overall judgment has been good."

Even so, many macagement experts believe it takes 10 years to change a culture.

Mr. Martinez cannot afford to take 10 years; Sears would never be more than an also-ran if he did. "The retailing environment is always challenging, but the pace of change has stepped up," he said. "Ultimately, fewer, stronger competitors will emerge."

As Sears managers design their future, though, many are fumbling their new-found responsibilities. Consider the task forces. "For the first 30 days, they didn't know how to do it," said Mr. Rucci, who joined Sears from Baxter International two years ago. Then they started to suggest simple things, like cutting management layers, to bolster their competitive position.

Things started to change after each task force did a profit-and-loss statement for their business unit that took into account the cost of capital and allocated corporate overhead. "They were shocked," Mr. Rucci said. "Their intensity level went up significantly. They started to come up with unconventional ideas."

The fruits of their labor were complete during the first few days of January. One new division, Home Services, was created, based on the fact that Sears appliance installers and maintenance people already visit the homes of 17 million customers a year. Why not turn that into a growth business?

- A new office of the president will run the mall stores, beaded - actually - by three presidents with responsibility for the stores themselves; the apparel and home furnishing departments, and the appliances, tools, electronics and other "hard-line" departments. The move is a half-solution. It consolidates management, but is really a face-saving device for three people who already had the presidential title. Ultimately, Sears executives predict, one will rise to the top.

180 LML ANSING LODING AND TRANSFERSE COOP N DO L ..F. Prepared by Goldman, Sachs & Co. Using data derived from the Financial Times/Standard & Poor's Actuaries World Indices, a measure of stock riverket performance. The FT Indices are compiled jointly by The Financial Times Limited, Goldman, Sachs & Co. and Standard & Poor's, in conjunction with the institute of Actuaries and Facuity of Actuaries.

PERFORMAN	ICE	18	U.S.	DOLLAR	s		IN LOCA	L CURR.
Country	Index	Week % Chg.	Week Rank	YTD % Chg.		Dividend Yield	Index	YTD % Chg.
Australia	194.42	23	. 15	. 2.3	15	3.85	173.66	22
Austria	183.47	5.1	7.	5.1	. 7	1.52	136.99	5.5
Belgium	213.69	22	16	- 2.2	16	3.36	155.69	2.8
Brazil	149.74	8.6	3	8.6	3	1,64	267.94	8.6
Britain	231.72	0.5	23	0.5	23	. 4.19	221.25	0,5
Canada	153.14	3.2	.9	3.2	9	2.48	. 150.53	2.7
Denmark	294.02	1.8	19	1.8	19	1.47	222.38	· 22
Finland	182.85	- 2.3	26	- 23	26.	1.91	166.74	-22
France	182.60	1.8	20	1.8	- 20	3.09	141.05	25
Germany	187.93	26	12	26	12 1		125.50	·3.0
Hong Kong	407.69	5.2	6	5.2	6	3.54	404.84	5.2
ireland	262.41	2.7	11	2.7	11	3.32	230.68	2.7
Italy	73.40	- 0.4	25	- 0.4	. 25	1.69	86.59
Japan	157.99	2.0	18	2.0	18	0.73	104.72	· 3.7
Malaysia	510.43	5.2	5	5.2	5	1.65	501.68	5.8
Mexico	1,157.94	11.8	1	11.8	1.	1.45	9,583,82	9.8
Netharlands	276.97	1.6	21	1.6	. 21	3.21	203.48	20
New Zealand	81.69	2.5	13	2.5	13	4.39	66.04	21
Norway	238.47	3.1	10	3.1	10	2.04	205.17	3.4
Singapora	426.22	4.7	8	4.7	8	1.44	279.50	5.3
South Africa	408.78	6.1	4	6.1	4	. 3.65	324.22	5.6
Spain	168.46	2.0	17	2.0	17	3.88	154.45	1.7
Sweden	319.71	2.4	14	2.4	-14	1.92	. 313.05	· 2.2
Switzerland	239.55	1.5	22	1.5	22	1.55	172.14	2.3
Thailand	182.70	8.6	2	8.8	2	2.28	178.96
United States	250.88	- 0.1	24	- 0.1	24	2.25	250.88	-0.1

COMPOSITE I	ADICES
Europe	203.53	1.3	1.3	3.04	172.55	1.6
Pacific Basin	169.20	.2.4	2.4	1.15	115.61	3.8
Europe/Pacific	183.39	1.9	1.9	2.03	137.30	2.8
World	204.65	1.2	1.2	2.14	172.86	1.6

Source Goldman, Sachs & Co. Exchange rates as of Friday's Source Goldman, Sachs & Co. Exchange rates as or Friday's London close. © 1995 The Financial Times Ltd., Goldman, Sachs & Co. and Standard & Poor's

CUR	8886183	)
	Friday	Last Friday	Week % Chg.	Year Ago
Exchange rate Japanese yen to tha U.S. dollar German marks to the U.S. dollar Canadian dollars to the U.S. dollar U.S. dollars to the British pound	105.35 1.4395 1.3585 1.5524	103.51 1.4378 1.3645 1.5496		101.37 1.5650 1.4003 1.5495

Source. Bloomberg Financial Markets; exchange rates as of Friday's New York close

"Some of our managers didn't know how to work a register," she added, a measure of bow removed they were from store operations. "They had moved up because they filled in reports well."

But if the jobs of store "associates" - company argot for managers and rank-and-file employees allke - are changing, so too are those of the support staff at headquarters, the associates at this circus. Some of them will lose their jobs

Many more will be reassigned, thanks to the work of four task forces, one studying the big mall stores; another looking at the freestanding, off-the-mall bardware and home-related stores; a third reviewing the automotive stores, and the last studying the headquarters support staff.

"Their job is to help structure the company for growth and increase the accountability and responsibility further down the organization," Mr. Martinez said. "We want them to define what has to happen to create opportunities for growth in oew areas and sustain opportunities for growth in mall stores." The ultimate goal, of course, is bigger profits.

When he tapped these management teams in October - using managers' input like this was a total departure for Sears - Mr. Martinez gave them a 90-day deadline.

The day before the P.S.E. circus is rainy, and the gray furniture in a gray conference room matches the mood of the 15 or so Sears employees sitting around a big table in a room a few steps away from their offices in the advertising department.

A discussion leader, their boss, is asking them to answer basic questions; Socrates-style, about the business: Why is Sears targeting women? How well is Sears meeting shoppers' needs?

The merchandise and the stores around copies of this particular learning map in 1995.

This is their second learning map. The first, completed by everyone between April and September, covered the general retail environment. It pointed out that today's consumers are time-strapped shoppers who have many stores to choose among for whatever they buy. To compete, Sears had to provide more service, convenience and value. After discussing these points, Mr. Martinez's plans to put more emphasis on specialized stores outside malls made more sense to employees. This mooth, Sears employees will again start sitting down to go over a third learning map, this ooe explaining where the money comes from and goes to at Sears.

"We are trying to build a level of economic literacy so they can make the right decisions," explained Barbara Lehman, director of the special communications initiative.

In the old days, Sears employees could check their economic literacy at the door. They worked in a command-and-control environment where everything was decided for them or laid out in a 29,000-page manual of rules and procedures.

Mr. Martinez tossed out the manual. In its place, he put a folder called "Freedoms and Obligations." Measuring about an eighth of an inch thick, it contains a one-page letter from him; a one-page list of "shared beliefs" flike "we recognize our obligation to shareholders: profitable growth and superior total shareholder return"); a 16-page booklet outlining leadership principles for managers ("reward people who add value to Sears"), and a 17-page code of business conduct for every employee ("we must always describe products and services accurately").

Mr. Martinez believes that, until recently, when Mr. Brennan reversed course, Sears tried to march to Wall Street's beat, diversifying for growth and basing incentive pay on return on equity. But failing to please shoppers and workers alike ended in failure with investors, too.

Make no mistake, said Anthony J. Rucci, executive vice president for human resources and administration, "a compelling place to work does not mean a nice place to work. We want people to feel some degree of anxiety, the stress of achievement-oriented people."

Like other companies in the throes of cultural change, Mr. Martinez has made it clear that the new Sears is not for everybody. "Arthur said last March to senior management, leave or change," Mr. Rucci said. Of the top 100 managers, those heavily involved in designing the Sears of the future, about 40 are new employees.

Everyone will have to stretch to meet the company's new goals. Despite pronounced improvement made since 1992, Mr. Martinez wants financial results that will put Sears among the nation's top performers in the stock market. To him, that means a return on equity consis-tently above 25 percent. "We're on the verge of meeting that imminently," he said on Friday. The trick will be to keep it there.

To get there, he figures that operating margins in the Sears mall stores should be 5 percent by 1998, compared with 2.3 percent now. Inventory turnover, now 3.67 times a year, needs to be about 4.5. Overhead expenses, now 20.7 percent of revenues, should drop to 19 percent.

As managers and workers strive toward the targets, Mr. Martinez believes he has one big thing working in his favor. "These came out of the organization; they were not delivered as the goal," he said - as

The company's auto units, freestanding furniture and hardware stores and credit organization keep their current structures.

Most important, the restructuring cements the company's top 100 managers in their jobs. Duly designated, they have until mid-February to submit structures and personnel for their units. Mr. Martinez has told them to weed out poor performers and consider bringing in new blood.

And oow the job shifts will begin. A couple hundred staffers will be laid off. Between 150 and 200 people in areas like human resources, finance and marketing will be reassigned to the operating units. About 400 to 500 will remain as headquarters staff.

Another 2,100 to 2,200, in areas like information systems, will provide "shared services" to the operating units, which will be their clients treated like customers. The people who used to call the tune are oow relegated to support roles.

So the method in Ms. Recktenwald's circus madness now becomes clear. She had explained how headquarters' staff should "better support store associates." They could, for example, answer the phones quickly, since stores calling in usually had customers waiting with them for an answer. And they could pitch in and help if a store is particularly busy when they shop.

Eventually, even more people could be affected, because Sears managers may contract out for some services now done in-house.

PRICES		Domestic sonds		AROUND THE WORLD		BONDS		OTHER INVESTMENTS	+
DOMESTIC EQUITIES	Up 0.13% 616.71	Treasuries Ryan Labs, Total Return	Down 0.35% 191.26	European stocks F.TActuaries Europe	Up 1.32% 203.53	Long bonds 30-year Traasuries	6.04% Up 10 basis pts.	Money market funds Bank fund average	5.159 Down 1 basis pl
S.& P. 500 index	Up 1.26% 5,181.43	Bond Buyer index	Down 0.36% 121.63	Aslan atocks" F.TActuaries Pacific Basin	Up 2.40% 169.20	Short bonds 2-year Treasuries	5.15% Up 3 basis pts.	Bank C.D.'s 1-year small savers	4.939 Down 3 basis pla
Small capitalization Russell 2000 index	1.001	Merrill Lynch Master inde	Down 0.34%	Gold Knew York cash price Foreign indexes are shown in dollar termi	Up 2.16% $396.50	<ul> <li>Monicipals</li> <li>Bond Buyer index</li> <li>100 basis points = 1 percentage</li> </ul>	5.51% Up 1 basis pt. point	S.& P. 500 dividend yi
90-DAY RELATIVE TREND	34		+108		+10%	90-DAY RELATIVE TREND Change in basis points.	+100	Change in besis points.	+100
A starting of the start of the	D		0 - J	0 - N D	-10 J	0. N	-100.	O N	D J <sup>-1(</sup>

- 10 晋 N Ś

WEEKLY REVIEW Æ

The New York Times

ADOLPH S. OCHS. Publisher 1896-1935 ARTHUR HAYS SULZBERGER, Publisher 1935-1961 ORVIL E. DRYFOOS, Publisher 1961-1963 ARTHUR OCHS SULZBERGER, Publisher 1963-1992

THE NEW YORK TIMES EDITORIALS/LETTERS SUNDAY, JANUARY 7, 1996

ARTHUR OCHS SULZBERGER JR., Publisher

JOSEPH LELYVELD, Executive Editor GENE ROBERTS, Managing Editor

Assistant Managing Editors SOMA COLDEN BEHR DAVED R. JONES CAROLYN LEE GERALD N. BOYD JACK ROSENTHAL VARREN HOGE ALLAN M. STEGAL

HOWELL RAINES, Éditorial Page Éditor PHILIP M BOFFEY. Deputy Editorial Page Editor

RUSSELL T LEWIS, President and General Manag JOHN M. O'BRIEN, Executive VP, Deputy Gen. Mgr. WILLIAM L. POLLAK, Executive V.P. Circulation PENELOPE MUSE ABERNATHY. Senior V.P. Planning and Human Resources RICHARD EL GILMAN. Senior V.P., Operations JANET L. BOBINSON. Senior V.P. Advertising RAYMOND E. DOUGLAS, V.P. Systems and Techno DONNA C. MIELE. V.P. Human Resources CHARLES E. SHELTON, V.P. Distribution DAVID & THURM, V.P. Production

No Way to Win a Primary

Memo tn Boh Dole: America loves a winner, hut it does not love a team that slices the tires on its competitors' buses so they cannot show up for the game.

Mr. Dole's New York supporters are gearing up for a tire-slicing foray against Steve Fnrbes and Patrick Buchanan, the only twn Republicans who have dared to try to get their names next to Mr. Dole's on the state's Presidential primary ballot.

Last week, Mr. Buchanan submitted enough signatures to qualify for the hallot in about half of the Congressional districts, mainly upstate. Mr. Forbes spent about $1 million to get the required number of signatures in each of the state's 31 districts. None of the other presidential candidates even attempted to overcome the roadblocks the state Republican Party has thrown up against unwanted interlopers. Party leaders rewarded Mr. Buchanan and Mr. Forbes for their herculean efforts by preparing to mount cnurt challenges to keep them off the ballot.

These court fights are one of the most repugnant aspects of New York political life. Lawyers for Mr. Dole's cause will not have to prove that Mr. Forbes and Mr. Buchanan forged signatures or padded their lists with Democratic ringers. They need only demonstrate that signers came from the wrong side of a Congressional district line, for example, or that the people collecting the signatures were volunteers from a different district.

New York is the only state with such rules. The Democratic Party here has an open Presidential primary that requires only a reasonable 5,000 signatures statewide to get on the ballot, far below the Republicans' requirement of 1,250 signatures in each district, or 5 percent of its registered voters. But Republican leaders, including Senator Alfonse D'Amato, Gov. George Pataki and the state party chairman, William Powers, have a peculiar idea of what makes for a good election. Their ideal is a sparse turnout of party loyalists trudging through the snow and muck to mark hallots with only one name. Their goal is a victory margin for Mr. Dole normally familiar only to political races in North Korea.

This simply will not do. Mr. Dole and his supporters should be spending their valuable time trying to improve the Senate majority leader's own standing, instead of plotting to remove his opposition. Sooner or later, even New Ynrk voters will have the option of voting for somebody else. Election law chicanery may work in March, but it will not do the job m November.

Disappointingly, just before Christmas a Federal appeals court reversed without explanation a lower-court ruling that would have eased the rules somewhat in districts with low Republican registration, where finding party members to sign petitions is hardest. The appeals panel owes the public a prompt written decision explaining its action.

In an ideal world, state Republican leaders would not need the courts to hring them to their senses. They should renounce any hallot challenges now, and promise to reform their rules for the future. Mr. Dole needs to call off his tire-slashers and let a fair election contest proceed.

NATO's Missing Partner in Bosnia

The NATO-led military force in Bosnia has met the early challenges of its peacekeeping mission reasonably well. But the parallel civilian oversight s'mission is starting so sluggishly that It risks leaving NATO forces exposed to nasty local encounters that " could disrupt the successful and timely completion of their main military task. Washington and other troop-contributing nations must demand a more focused effort from Carl Bildt, the Swedish politician chosen to lead the civil operation.

Anyone who seriously believed that all the

has been shockingly slow in taking up his duties. Though he insists that his other job as leader of Sweden's parliamentary opposition will not distract him, he did not manage to arrive in Bosnia until late last week.

Despite the evident danger to Bosnian civilians, Mr. Bildt still seems in no rush to assemble the international police monitoring force that is supposed to oversee local law enforcement. He wants NATO's heavily armed forces to establish an atmosphere of compliance with the provisions of the

America Seeks Stability Abroad, Not Empires that it lies in the heart of Central

المراجع فسرط والمعور المراوري

To the Editor: Re Jacob Heilbrunn's and Michael

Lind's analysis of post-cold-war United States foreign policy ("The Third American Empire," Op-Ed, Jan. 2): The authors describe an American drive for empire as an end in itself, without adequately considering the motivations behind American foreign policy and whether those motivations may actually be antithetical in what must people would consider an "American Empire."

The real issue is the intent of United States policy in the Middle East and other regions. The heart of the authors' thesis is that the United

Healthy Environment Aids the Economy

To the Editor:

The next time someone tells me we can't afford to protect the environment, I'm going to open my wallet and unfold your front-page article ("Federal Shutdown Hits Hard in Area Around Yellowstone," Dec. 30) on how the national park shutdown has hurt business.

Too many of us are still locked in that mindset that says the way to make money off a piece of land is to mine it, drill it or log it. That's certainly the prevailing view in Congress, though that may bave more to dn with who hankrolls campaigns.

In fact, nowadays trees in many parts of America are worth more when they're vertical than when they're horizontal and on their way to the mill. In the 20 counties near Yellowstone National Park, for example, 96 percent nf new jnbs over a recent 20-year period were created by businesses not part of the extractive industries or agriculture. In Oregon, fnrest-product executives had predicted that a reduction in national forest logging would devastate the state's economy. Yet companies lured in part by Oregon's natural qualities have helped drop unemployment to its lowest rate in a generation. In shnrt, nature sells.

States has repeatedly established "suzerainty" over the former spheres of influence of a conquered foe. Yet the authors fail to explain why the United States would choose such a course, or if it is universally applied. Their analysis turns on perceiving American involvement in Bosnia as being related to some hroader (though undefined) Middle East policy. However, this is an action that can be best understood not by looking toward the Middle East but into the middle of Europe. Mr. Heilbrunn and Mr. Lind are correct in noting that Bosnia was nnce considered part of the "Near East," but today anyone can tell you

This policy of maintaining reginnal stability to prevent a larger conflict is also evident - contrary to the authors' assertinns - in America's East Asia policy by such acts as preventing nuclear proliferation in Nnrth Korea and fostering economic cooperation among states on the Pacific rim. The United States would not have the luxury of being simply an "outside arbiter" in a major Pa-much worse situation.

ican economy. Mr. Heilbrunn and Mr. Lind treat the United States as some sort of predator that will use power where it can - simply because it can - and will ignore trouble spots where in-volvement would be problematic. This is neither an accurate descrip-tion nor a satisfying prescription.

cific dispute. A destabilized East Asia could wreak havoc on the Amer-

The United States' actions in Bosnia and East Asia show a recognition of situations that could have a farreaching impact on the United States. Simply because one or the other will be difficult to resolve does not mean that we can ignore it. Rather, these examples force the American foreign policy establishment to realize that threats can come from a variety of angles at once and that American fnreign policy in the new world order may be less like the quest to kill some Soviet Moby Dick and more like navigating between the Scylla and Charybdis of regional conflicts. And such a world, more than ever, requires one to pay close attention to motivations as well as CHRISTOPHER J. BORGEN actions. New York, Jan. 3, 1996

G.O.P. Budget Isn't Perfect, but It Works

Investors Help Push The Downsizing Trend

Tn the Editor:

Re "The Big Lie" by Anthony Lewis (column, Dec. 29): Mr. Lewis In the wake of AT&T's record laywrote that Baron Münchhausen, the offs, Labor Secretary Robert Reich great fictional liar, would be envious got it half right in calling for incenof my statement during the weekly tives to encourage corporate com-Republican radio address that this is passion for employees and communi-'a historic struggle, and perhaps our ties ("How to Avoid These Layoffs?" last great chance to stop rohhing our Op-Ed, Jan. 4). And Boh Herbert's children." If Mr. Lewis believes this Dec. 29 column correctly identified isn't truly a historic struggle to balthe growing ecosionic peril in the ance the budget, I suggest he hasn't surge of pink slips driven hy costbeen paying attention. cutting corporate machismo: "Fir-He speaks of our tax cut "costing

To the Editor:

ing Their Customers." the Treasury $240 billion." I believe But the pressure on corporate the reverse: that taxes we pay to the chieftains to outdo each other in ruth-Treasury cost Americans money. lessly pruning employees, wages and Most conservatives believe that benefits - even, or especially, when enjoying record profits - is driven only partly by worldwide competition. Equally significant is the mania by investors that each successive tiscal quarter be financially better than the one before. Increasingly, these investors are all of us: millions of Americans who have quadrupled the resources of mutual funds and giant employee pension funds. In fact, employee pension funds have taken the lead in demanding better bottom-line performance by managers of corporatinns in which they invest. And we as investors and future retirees certainly reap the dividends from better financial performance. But are we also reaping a whirlwind of castoff employees, declining consumer confidence and hollow communities as corporations spin off, re-engineer, downsize, merge and disappear? In the Editor: Along with Secretary Reich's prescription for greater responsibility through incorporation and tax laws. we as individual investors ought to demand that our money managers reward good corporate citizenship. as well as good financial performance. ERIK PETER AXELSON Brooklyn, Jan. 4, 1996 job creation through a slightly modified research and experimentation tax credit.

Mr. Lewis says this credit will go to "exactly three" computer companies. But data from the nonpartisan Jnint Committee on Taxation say the modification to the credit will apply to at least 100 companies, if not тоге, BILL ARCHER Chairman, House Committee on Ways and Means Washington, Jan. 4, 1996

Politics and Principles To the Editor:

It is unfortunate that you have chosed to write ou the current o

As Congressional efforts in give away the public's lands and reduce protection of water, air and wildlife turned into a donnybrook late last year, Speaker Newt Gingrich said that in January he would come up with a new approach on the environment. Let's hope this new approach reflects the reality that a healthy economy and a healthy environment en hand in hand. JON ROUSH President, the Wilderness Society Washington, Jan. 4, 1996

THE JERUSALEM POST

فقيقامين المنبون الرومين والمعام والمنافع

Europe. Bosnia is a small country, hut it is the focus of many fears, including those of large refugee flows, the threat of a spreading European war and Russian military intervention, as well as genocide. American involvement in the Balkans has less to do with some historical tendency to extend hegemony for hege-mony's sake than with a concern that if the United States does not act now,

It may be forced to react later to a promises made by the Bosnian factions when they reached a peace agreement in Dayton would be put into effect smoothly now knows otherwise. In quick succession, Bosnian Serbs first tried to rewrite the timetable for transferring territory around Sarajevo to Government control, then abducted 16 Muslim civilians from a road that NATO peacekeepers had optimistically pronounced safe.

After initially wavering, NATO commanders firmly rebuffed the Bosnian Serh bid to rewrite the Dayton timetable. After accurately insisting that NATO had no formal responsibility to protect civilians, NATO commanders took the only responsible step to end the hostage crisis - they strongly demanded that the Serbs release their hostages, and the Serhs complied. These were important psychological tests and yesterday there were new reports of civilians detained. If the Serbs see they can push around the NATO force as easily as they pushed around the United Nations force that preceded it. the Dayton agreement will quickly crumhle.

The main mission of the peacekeeping troops is to supervise the separatinn of Bosnia's rival armies and their redeployment to the new lines accepted at Dayton. Under the plans agreed to by troop-contributing nations, the peacekeeping forces are to deal only with armies and military matters. If the forces are to achieve their objective and get out on schedule, they will need to leave diplomacy to the diplomats and keep their involvement in civilian issues, like the taking of civilian hostages, to a minimum.

Overseeing the security of Bosnian civilians and their right to travel freely is the responsibility of the parallel civil mission and its international police force. But the head of that mission, Mr. Bildt, Dayton agreement before his lightly armed and unarmed civilians go into operation.

That would make life easier for Mr. Bildt and those working under him but could undermine the whole mission in Bosnia. Civil police supervisors are certainly capable of monitoring the treatment nf civilians and raising any infractions to diplomatic visibility so that the Western powers can bring pressure to bear. To leave the task much longer to military commanders would create unacceptable risks for the NATO force on which peace ultimately depends.

Indeed, NATO and Pentagon planners deliberately designed the Bosnian peacekeeping operation to avoid repeating the disastrous mistakes made by the international peacekeeping force in Somalia. There, a vague definition of the military role allowed objectives to slide carelessly from protecting famine relief workers to pacifying warlords to waging war against one warlord along with thousands of his followers.

If that pattern is repeated in Bosnia, NATO forces could become embroiled in scores of local showdowns over civil issues instead of assuring that the rival armed forces pull back from the old front lines and that the newly agreed boundaries come into effect. At the end of a year, when NATO forces are supposed to pull out, their hasic nhjective might remain unmet and the whole idea of international peacekeeping might be further discredited.

There is no need to take such risks. The countries that have entrusted Mr. Bildt with the civilian mission must insist that he perform his job more energetically and consistently - or they should find someone else who will.

A Flawed Plan for Foster Children

المحكيكين فالأحاد المتحد المحالية المحالية المحالية المحالية المحالية والمحالية المحالية المحالية المحالية المحالية

Robert Ward, a Federal judge, has rightly blocked a Giuliani administration plan to change the way New York City finances the care of abused and neglected children. The plan, designed to save money and help children, might have done more harm than good.

The City's Child Welfare Administration relies heavily on nearly 70 private voluntary agencies to help abused and neglected children. These agencies have three hasic strategies. They belp troubled families so that children can stay at home without further risk. If that is not possible, they recruit and then monitor foster families, where children find a temporary home. When appropriate, they help children find a permanent home with adoptive parents.

There are 43,000 children in foster care, where they spend on average about four years. The cost has risen to $650 million annually, including administrative expenses. One reason is the system of per diem payments. An agency is generally paid $18 for each day a child remains in foster care. Officials argue that the fee structure acts as an incentive to keep children in foster care.

Budget cuts forced the city to rethink the fee structure, Gov. George Pataki reduced state childwelfare funding by about 25 percent, confronting Mayor Rudolph Giuliani with a $20 million cut in his foster care budget. The City Council managed to find $8 million in new money. The city also hoped to find $7 million in savings through a new system nf managed care. It is that plan that is now in dispute.

The plan calls for agencies to receive lump-sum payments at the beginning of a fiscal period, giving them more flexibility plus an incentive to close cases faster, before the money runs out. The idea was tried successfully in a small-scale pilot project, but the agencies involved had mnre funds and mnre freedom than the city is now offering.

Judge Ward, along with child care advocates. worries that the agencies, confronted with limited and finite resources, will focus on easier cases that require only minimal follow-up and give short shrift to hard-to-place children. The plan was not intended to deal with basic problems at C.W.A., including inadequate training for caseworkers and sloppy oversight. Mr. Giuliani has promised to address these deficiencies separately.

Judge Ward has ordered another hearing this week to determine whether the plan should be delayed further. The city's basic idea - removing the financial incentive to keep children in foster care longer than necessary - is sound. But the timetable was too quick and the provisions for hardto-place children were too vague. The city would be wise not to challenge the judge and take more time to eliminate defects from the plan.

cans deserve to keep in their money and can spend their money more wisely than politicians, and that the Government exists to serve Americans, not vice versa.

In 1992 Bill Clinton promised to present a five-year balanced budget; in his first State of the Union address, he promised to ahide by Congressional Budget Office projections. Now he hreaks both promises.

Is the Republican budget plan perfect? Of course not. But it does balance the budget, reform welfare, save Medicare for another decade and allow Americans to keep more of the money they earn. Mr. Clinton's alternative accomplishes none of these goals. (Rep.) RON LEWIS Washington, Jan. 4, 1996

Wide Tax-Relief Benefit

Anthony Lewis's recent column about the budget was simply wrong, particularly his discussion of the Congressional tax relief package. The $245 billion tax cut, 80 percent of which goes to people who make less than $100,000, contains a hipartisan provision designed to stimulate et impasse in Washington as "The Budget Scrum" (editorial, Jan. 4), declaring the entire affair to be some game of politics. The irresponsibility stands nut when compared with comments just above it in "The Governor's Rhetorical Gloss," where the same editorial staff rebukes Governor Pataki's stance, our local version of that taken by "the freshmen milltants" in Washington.

It is just possible that the current impasse may, when viewed by historians, mark a time when "longstanding Democratic principles" were defended against a radical, right-wing coup. "Democratic principles" are not mere slogans: they are the bastions against what were, scant paragraphs above, "the pain and problems that lie ahead" in your discussion of New Ynrk.

If President Clinton's tactics reflect a stalling tactic, so be it. It is no less valid now than in World War II, when an American commander responded to demands for surrender by saying "Nuts." The Times admired that stance then; why not now? STEPHEN E. PHILLIPS Brooklyn, Jan. 4, 1996

'Communities of Color': Segregated Settings, but Good Schools

Tn the Editor:

It is not surprising that hlacks and whites in "Neither Separate Nor Equal" (news article, Dec. 28, about Yonkers school integration) are disappointed in school performance nf their children.

It is troubling to whites who must relocate when involuntary racial diversity visits their schools. And it is frustrating to blacks who must bus their children "across the tracks" to schools which are then abandoned by whites. There are at least two problems inherent in this conundrum: Too many blacks still find it difficult to believe that white schools are accepting of innocent black children; and district courts continue to mandate desegregation, not education. Ever since the 1954 Supreme Court decision, the burdensome responsibility of desegregation has been disproportionately placed on hlacks. And blacks accepted this duty. Their

The Times welcomes letters from readers. Letters must include writer's name, address and telephone number. We regret that we cannot acknowledge unpublished letters. Those selected may be shortened for space reasons. Fax letters to (212) 556-3622 or send to Letters to the Editor, The New York Times, 229 West 43d Street, New York, N.Y. 10036.

hopes were placed on interracial harmony and finding the common grounds of interests where at least black and white children could learn together in the same schoolhouse. Fat chancel This situation has not occurred in any appreciable manner for over 40 years. Yonkers's integration failure merely represents the blindness of the court in the school opment of communities of color where social services, decent hous-

The solution lies in the true devel-

ARTHUR OCHS SULZBERGER, Chairman Chief Resentive Officer

LANCE B. PRIMIS, President Chief Operating Officer DAVID L. GORHAM, Senior Vice Presiden Deputy Chief Operating Officer DIANE P BARER, Senior Vice Preside Chief Financial Officer KATHARINE 2 DARROW, Senior Vice Pres LAURA J. CORWIN, Secretary RICHARD G. THOMAS, Transme

ing and real education are effectively delivered, For 14 years I served as principal of a black and hrown segregated school (P.S. 111) in a poverty pocket in a predominantly white school district in the northeast section of the Bronx - an elementary school of about 1,200 children who resided in mostly female-headed households in federally subsidized low-income housing projects. Ninety percent of the children qualified for free school lunches, an indication of the poverty; yet over 92 percent of students in the entire school consistently performed on or above grade level on all citywide and nationally standardized tests in all basic skills areas.

This was, indeed, a traditional school without excess funds and without any "Mickey Mouse" programs. The school outperformed all of the 31 predominantly white schools in this school district; upon my leaving, its citywide rank was 26th out of 631 schools in New York City.

We know how to make schools work. Black and brown children are being educated effectively in schools of color. Truly, the answer ites in the quiet development of these communities, not in publicly sponsored desegregation or integration efforts where excess monies and anxieties are spent. WILLIAM D. WHEELER Bronx, Jan. 3, 1996 desegregation mess.

THE NEW YORK TIMES OP-ED SUNDAY, JANUARY 7, 1996

THE JERUSALEM POST Foreign Affairs

The state of the s

THOMAS L. FRIEDMAN Time for Straight Talk

WASHINGTON Secretary of State Warren Christopher travels to Damascus this weekin another bid to persuade President Hafez al-Assad of Syria to make a dramatic leap forward in peace talks with Israel. Wouldn't it be nice if Mr. Christopher said this:

"Hafez, it's good to see you again. Would you mind if we set our chairs facing each other for once. Talking to you for nine hours with our chairs side by side gives me a terrible pain in the neck.

"Hafez, this is my 15th visit to Damascus. That's a lot of visits. I've only been to China once, Moscow four times, Mexico once and Japan four times. But this will be my last. Be-cause I have just one brief message for you: You are living in a world of illusions if you think that any Israeli government is going to give you the Golan Heights back without you making a sincere, personal and emotional overture to the Israeli people — without you making a psychological breakthrough. You keep refusing to do that. Instead, you get lost in nitpicking details or in sending smoke signals that only a Middle East expert could understand.

"Sometimes, Hafez, I ask myself: 'What planet are you living on?' Is-raelis bave had Anwar Sadat address their Parliament in Jerusalem. They've had King Hussein eulogize their Prime Minister at Mount Herzl military cemetery. Do you really think they are impressed by news reports that your ambassador to America took off his tie when be met with Israeli negotiators in Washington last week? Let's see, King Hussein buried Yitzhak Rabin, Anwar Sadat bugged Golda Meir and your ambassador took off his tie - but wouldn't allow.photographers to take his plcturel C'mon, get serious.

с.

 $|A_{i}|^{2}$

. •-

1.2

• • • •

-1.2 B 1. 19 19 11

.

 $K_{n} \in \mathbb{Z}$

"Hafez, the Israelis control the Golan Heights. You want them back. The only way you can get Israel to give them to you is through a deal that is endorsed by a majority of Israelis. But there is no way that an Israeli majority is going to give up the strategic Golan Heights, to the country that has been its bitterest enemy, unless you engage Tsraelis directly and in a way that signals to your own people that you have it reversibly chosen the path of peace. Do not kid yourself. Israelis feel no moral, strategic or economic reason to leave the Golan Heights. The only thing that can induce them to do so is if you paint for them a vivid and appealing picture of what peaceful relations between Israel and Syria would be like - but that is precisely what you and your negotiators refuse to do. "I know you bave your own legitimate strategic concerns, and they must be addressed. But if you want the Golan back on terms you can live with, you have to make this psychological breakthrough with Israelis first, because the Golan is not just any territory for Israelis. It is the symbol of their geographic vulnerability. Your chal-

By Bell Hooks

on't trust everything the press tells you about how · black · women think. Lots of us went to see "Waiting to Exhale" expecting to enjoy a film about four black women friends coping with life and relationships, yet could not relate to the shallow, adolescent nonsense we saw on the screen. We were not even entertained. I went with a group of friends, all of us professional women, single and married. Mostly, we were upset and disappointed. Not one of us saw a realistic portrayal of our lives.

I'm 43, single and searching for true love. What I saw was not women talking about love or the meaning of mar-Bell Hooks is the addriby of Killing Rage: Ending Racism, "a collection of essays. some women over 30

riage or partnership, but women being ate to get a man by any means necesobsessive, about men, material sucsary, this film is so simplistic and cess and petty competition with other denigrating to black women that we women, especially white women. No should be outraged to be told that it is doubt it helps crossover appeal to set "for us," Or worse yet, that this is our up a stereotypically racist and sexist Million Man March, as Newsweek conflict between white women and maintained. Whether one supported hlack women competing to see who the march or not (and I did not), let's get this straight: we are being told and we are telling ourselves that hlack, men need political action and black women need a movie 1991. And not a political movie, furtherhope it's this image of hlack women Rollywood gives us more of. more, hut one in which the gorgeous Hollywood gives us more of.

actresses spend most of their time chainsmoking themselves to death and drowning their sorrows in alcohol. (In a typical scene, one girlfriend can't muster enough breath to hlow out birthday candles.) Nothing has been more depressing than to hear some hlack women saying that this film is a "realistic portrayal" of their experience. If that's the world of black heterosexual relationships as they know ii. no wonder black men

WEEKLY REVIEW

Obviously, it is difficult for many black women to find black male partners or husbands, though it is hard to believe that women as conventionally feminine, beautiful and just plain dumb as the girlfriends in this film can't gei men. (One character, for example, has an M.B.A. but seems to know nothing about money; another is willing 10 have unsafe sex and celebrate an unplanned pregnancy.) In the real world, women like these bave men standing in line. Apparently, lots of and women are in a serious crisis.

black women, especially younger women, go to "Waiting to Exhale" to bave their worst fears confirmed: that black men are irresponsible and uncaring, and that black about wreaths. She wrote her newspawomen, no matter how attractive, are likely to be alone and unloved. Should we really feel better having the meshairdo for at least 30 days .... I will sage of self-loathing and low self-estry to show more enthusiasm for my teem brought to us by four beautiful

London, the First Lady's anodyne demeanor caused one journalist to mourn that she had become "the First Stepford Wife."

Mrs. Clinton uses rituals of domesticity to make her desire for "system-was to be capped by the book tour; But the timing turns out to be extremely awkward, as revelations about the travel office fiasco and the mysteriend, without putting men down or com- 1 ously disappearing and in pysering peting, with other women and shows . Whitewater files, have once more cast fulfillment in a job well done. Let's doubt on Mys. Clinton's probity and hope it's this image of hlack women put her at the center of what she dismisses to Newsweek as "all the

WASHINGTON This was supposed to be earthmother week

Liberties

MAUREEN DOWD

A11

About

Hillary

The First Lady is going on tour with ber book, "It Takes a Village: And Other Lessons Children Teach Us." "For more than twenty-five years, First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton has made children her passion and her cause," says a Simon & Schuster press release.

Mrs. Clinton is accustomed to stepping behind an apple-pie-and-motherhood scrim. During the '92 campaign, Clinion strategists wrote a secret memo, including advice about how to make Mrs. Clinton seem more affectionate and maternal. It suggested staging an event where "Bill and Chelsea surprise Hillary on Mother's Day" and advised her to talk more about family.

Since the health-care debacle, she has taken to the hearth with a vengeance. She appeared on Martha Stew-

> A tale of two images.

art's Christmas special, chatting per column about New Year's resolutions. ("I will try to keep the same husband's golf game.") On the President's recent trip to lc" changes seem less threatening. Her latest fluffer-nutter make-over

Christopher to Assad: The real message.

lenge is to make Israelis look up at those heights and feel they are no more threatening than the border between Norway and Sweden. Your challenge is to make Israelis look at those heights and say to themselves: 'What is important is not what I see before my eyes, which is Syria on the high ground and Israel in the valley, but rather what I feel coming from Damascus, which is a new sense of reconciliation, integration and acceptance.' "You keep looking to me to pressure Israel. But only you can do that. Only you, by creating a psychological hreakthrough with Israel, can give birth to a real, popular, Israeli movement that will press the Israeli Government for a deal with Syria.

"So, I'll be on my way now, Hafez, and I won't be back. Because I realize that my frequent visits here have only been getting in the way. They have been protecting you from having to make a decision, while giving you international approval and regional influence. Without this peace process, Hafez, you would be as popular and as relevant as Fidel Castro. I've insulated you from that. In the meantime, I've paid only scant attention to Yasir Arafat and King Hussein, who made the really tough decisions for peace and are struggling to keep it alive, but with little help from me. I'm not going to let that happen any longer.

"In the old days Hafez, I would have given you my phone number and told you to call when you were serious. But that wouldn't be appropriate now. Because Hafez, you and the Israelis doo't need a mediator. You need a chauffeur. It's an hour's drive from Damascus to the Israeli border, Hafez. Make that trip, and everything is possible. Don't make that trip, and nothing is possible."

(Wednesday: Mr. Assad's an#### swer.)

Jobs Die So Companies May Live

By James Champy

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. 't may be cold comfort to the 40,000 managers of AT&T who will be laid off or take buyouts this year, but I'd rather be in their shoes than in those of similar managers in France. True, the French Government hacked down last month from restructuring that would bave made the vast stateowned companies more efficient at the cost of layoffs. But this simply assures these companies' further decline and an inevitable increase in the aiready high French unemployment rate.

At least in the United States, laidoff middle managers have a better chance of finding a new job. This prospect in no way reduces the pain and hardship of those AT&T employees who must now seek new careers. But it does mean that they will be moving more quickly to new jobs and there will be fewer than 20 in 10 years. opportunities, rather than denying an mescapable economic fact.

James Champy, the author of "Reengineering Management" and co-author, with Michoel Hammer, of "Reengineering the Corporation," is chairman of CSC Index, a consulting firm.

will win the man in the end. In the original novel, by Terry McMillan, competition of this sort does not have Catfights between women, both real and imaginary, were apparently seen by the screenwriters as more entertaining than the portrayal of an ambitious black woman finding true and lasting love. The fact that one of these screenwriters was Terry McMillan makes this choice all the more disheartening. Did she forget that in the novel she had written a far more complex and progressive vision of female/

. In any case, while we may all know some women over 30 who are despermale relationships?

center stage.

As the experience of France will eventually show, regulation cannot prevent industrial change, just as AT&T's paternalistic culture could not stave off the loss of middle-management jobs that were once considered among the economy's safest.

. In large organizations, middle managers serve the purpose of relaying information up and down - orders down, numbers up. But with the oew information technologies and more efficient forms of work, their purpose dwindles. Industries have incentive to shed "information relayers" and make those who remain do more "value-added work," that is, something customers will actually pay for. Does this sound beartless? Yes. Is it avoidable? Probably not.

Insurance and media companies and banks bave already come to the same conclusions about management layers as AT&T has, Consolidations will continue to eliminate jobs in these industries. The next wave of consolidations is likely to come in the utility industry after deregulation. It is esti-mated that of the 200 electric utilities,

It is argued that all these job losses will hurt the entire economy. But when markets demand that companies restructure, action cannot be delayed. And it is customers, after all, not the companies themselves, who are defining markets and industries. To prevent or discourage companies from undertaking layoffs would be to ask them to be noncompetitive and potentially go out of business. It could mean not just fewer jobs but no jobs. Meanwhile, the popular argument that good management can avert layoffs fails to acknowledge that even growing companies no longer require huge work forces. Robert Allen, the chairman of

AT&T, did not act to cut costs or to wow Wall Street. Nor was his action a simple downsizing that would increase the burden on the remaining people. It reflects changes that position the company for growth in current and new markets. When downsizings are humanely carried out, with the intent of assuring a company's competitiveness, new jobs and a better future are eventually possible.

Companies may try to avoid layoffs as long as possible. But this merely

Exiles in the Promised Land

By Elizabeth Gilbert

grew up in the 1970's. Here's a quick recap: oil was expensive, American citizens were hostages, Detroit was a ghost town. My first political memory was something about President Gerald Ford forgiving Richard Nixon. I was late for gymnastics class because my mother had to wait in a gas line.

I was raised in a society that believed I had just missed out on something pretty good. No fault of mine, but the 1950's had really been much better. When I refer to the 1950's, I mean the catchall term that came to define the period from the end of World War II to the escalation of the war in Vietnam. When my parents were young, America was unchallenged, cars looked great, a wife could raise her children safely, a husband could buy a home on a laborer's wage. All of that was diminishing as I was growing up. It's sad tuck to be born at the end of your society's greatest glories. I grew up knowing that I would never have what my parents had idealism, security, faith, prosperity. I was cheated. I missed it. But my grandparents missed it. too.

Elizabeth Gilbert is a staff writer for Spin magazine.

My maternal grandparents were married in 1933, in rural Minnesota. They were farmers, the children of immigrants. They went on a weekendlong honeymoon to Minneapolis, and when they got back home a drought hit from which they never recovered. There wasn't enough money, and it was terrifying when anyone got sick. My grandmother had seven children. My grandfather took a job on a construction crew, leaving the dairy farm in the hands of his wife and my adolescent mother. My busband's family were coal miners in western Maryland. That's all you need to know about them in order to understand famous affluence. These are not exceptional stories. This is how people lived for a long time before the abundant 1950's. which was a privileged moment and a brief one. The tremendous prosperity depended upon an alignment of favor- for your children. At 83, my grand- for this year.

what stake they had in America's able stars that cannot be repeated. mother still closes every letter by We were the sole victors of a war that destroyed the economies of every other industrial nation. We were exploiting all natural resources as if those resources were endless. Racial and sexual confines insured that we all knew our place, a peculiar comfort that we no longer accept.

America in the 1950's — gone and best forgotten.

It's fine to believe that the 1950's were an easier time for many. I have no reason to doubt that. But why should we inherit the expectations of that period? My grandparents and my husband's grandparents had no contract with America except the contract of all immigrants - the of this nation was a freak of history. It right to hope that things will be better delays the inevitable. In the late 1980's, John Akers of LB.M. tried that strategy. But the company struggled and ended up announcing numerous small layoffs. The percentages of job cuts may end up being about the same for both LB.M. and AT&T. The slower course of change at L.B.M., however, may have cost it and its people more in the long term.

AT&T could not protect its workers if it wanted to.

black "stars"?

Very few hlack women talking about this film acknowledge the one character who reminds us what real sisterhood is all about: the graceful, attractive lawyer hired by Bernie

(Angela Bassett) to represent her against a conniving husband. She is a professional who knows her joh and is able to bond emotionally with her client. Not only does she take a stand for justice (the one glimpse of feminism we see in the film), she achieves that

I.B.M. eventually pulled through. Today, the vast majority of LB.M. employees who left are at other businesses or are self-employed. For them, life is not as secure as it was in the United States a decade ago - or as it supposedly is now in France -but they are making their way. And one other thing is worth noting: 1.B.M. has begun rehiring.

writing, "I can't complain." She

On the other hand, I have a young almost $100,000 a year on Wall Street and feels victimized because his life does not have the pleasant order that his father's youth had during the Eisenhower Administration. He is convinced that something has been

This distorted nostalgia is creating a country of citizens who feel like refugees in their own land. Our regretful fury makes us capable of anything: reflexive xenophobia and cynistripped from him.

means it.

spider webs that are spun."

The confidential memo written by David Watkins abont the travel office gives the maternal image a Joan Crawford twist, portraying the First Lady as a scary "Mommie Dearest." Mr. Watkins said he realized there was a more humane way to handle the situation than firing seven people, sicking the F.B.I. on them, leaking it to the press and pretty much ruining their lives.

He starkly contradicts the story of Mrs. Clinton, who had Administration lawyer Neil Eggleston tell the Gen-eral Accounting Office last year that "Mrs. Clinton did not direct that any action be taken by anyone with regard to the Travel Office. Mrs. Clinton does not know the origin of the decision to remove the White House Travel office employees."

Now comes the Watkins "soulcleansing," as he calls his memo. 'Once this made it onto the First Lady's agenda, Vince Foster became involved, and he and Harry Thomason regularly informed me of her attention to the Travel Office situation - as well as ber insistence that the situation be resolved immediately by replacing the Travel Office staff. ... We both knew there would be hell to pay if ... we failed to take swift and decisive action in conformity with the First Lady's wishes."

An associate of the First . Lady through all this confirms Mr. Watkins's portrail: "She's a good screamer. She can cut someone to ribbons and make them feel like an idiot. It was a lot easier to do what she wanted."

And there's more: 116 pages of copies of documents from the Rose Law Firm - which have been searched for and subpoenaed for two years - have suddenly turned up in the White House residence, showing that Mrs. Clinton had billed for a wide range of legal services on behalf of Madison Guaranty.

Republican acquaintance who makes At her Whitewater press conference in 1994, Mrs. Clinton wore pink and professed ignorance about the Madison account: "It was not an area that I practiced in, it was not an area that I really know anything, to speak of, about"

Mr. Watkins said that he had been trying to be as "vague and protective as possible" with investigators. But apparently he wrote his scalding memo after he grew tired of taking the fall for the First Lady.

cism, even the desire to dismantle a Mrs. Clinton is at the center of a web of fall-takers. People say what she wants them to say, and are rewarded with monstrous legal bills. And the more candid associates keep contradicting her. In the coming weeks, she will need Houdini-like skills to dodge the collision of her images. She will be spreading sunshine in bookstores while in hearing rooms her former colleagues speak under oath about her legal activities. Earth Mother meet Mommie Dearest perfectly good system of government. Such nostalgia ultimately makes us vulnerable to any politician who promises a return to the golden age, and that golden age looks better and better every year. Trust me, nobody remembers it more fondly than the people who missed it entirely. Believing we have been exiled from our entitlements, we will crucify any leader who doesn't bring us back home. Such a society can only embrace a demagogue. Be careful what you wish

WEEKLY REVIEW

FILM

THE JERUSALEM POST

The French Love Triangle Gets a Little Tweaking

By ALAN RIDING

PARIS OSIANE BALASKO enjoys being subversive. In a long career on stage and in movies, she has repeatedly set out to entertain, to make people laugh, to pull the crowds. And to the guardians of French intellectual purily, this is lanlamount to subver-SIOT.

"Success is frowned upon here," she said with a mixture of scorn and disbelief. "If you have a hit, you're meant to apologize. And if it's a comedy, even worse.

Which no doubt explains why the stockily built comedienne seems so pleased with herself. At the age of 45, she has just scored her most subversive coup to date with "French Twist," the lourth movie she has written, directed and acted in. Released as "Gazon Maudit," it has been a huge hit in France tselling four million tickets), has been chosen as France's candidate for the Oscar for the best foreign-language film, and it is a comedy. "French Twist" opens in New York on Friday.

In this case, though, Ms. Balasko has added an extra twist of subversion. She has taken the old French standby of the eternal triangle involving one man and two women and turned it into a lesbian love story. In a land where "feminism" is still a dirty word, she has used humor, senimentality and a sprinkling of gay sex to show how an emotionally starved housewife might prefer another woman to her macho, womanizing husband.

In the film, which captures the bucolic mood of its Provençal setting, Ms. Balasko plays Marijo, a stocky cigar-puffing lesbian with a short haircut who seeks help at a nearby house when her dilapidated van breaks down, Inside, Loli, a pretty young mother of two played by Victoria Abril, is preparing dinner for her real estate agent husband, Laurent, played by Alain Chabat. But as always, it seems, Laurent has a date ("work"), so instead Marijo stays for dinner and things begin to happen.

Marijo is the seductress, but Loli, a former dancer from Spain, soon rediscovers warmth and affection long absent from her marriage and, surprised, she responds. She doesn't want to leave her husband or indeed to throw him out, but she also doesn't want to lose Marijo. In fact, thanks to Marijo, she gains the strength to stand up to her husband. And Laurent, who at first pours abuse on Marijo for being gay, soon realizes that he must now compete for Loli. Ms. Balasko said she was drawn by the subject because, while male homosexuality is often portrayed in movies, "lesbianism for the most part has remained under a spell of silence." Rather than simply showing the physical passion between Marijo and Loli, she suggests the intimacy between them, as when they bathe and (literally) sleep together.

"I also wanted to avoid voveurism." she explained over coffee in her home in the working-class Belle-ville district of Paris. "Under the pretext of showing a lesbian relationship. I didn't want to have two girls rolling around in bed. You can see that in any porno film."

As a happily married mother of a 13-year-old daughter and a 6-yearold adopted son, she laughed at the suggestion that she was somehow advocating lesbianism, "It is not a gay film for a particular audience." she said. "It isn't even an anti-male film, I like men too much to show them in a totally negative light. True, Laurent is a bit like a lot of men who refuse to grow up. But in the end, I show him as an adolescent luming into an adult."

In his first major movie role, then, Mr. Chabat. part of a well-known relevision comedy acr called Les Nuls, goes from serial philanderer to indignant cuckold and, finally, to meek partner.

In contrast, Ms. Abril, who has starred in three recent movies by her Spanish compairiot, Pedro Almodovar, comes over as a highly strung "Stradivarius" (Ms. Balasko's word) of sensuality, wonderfully Latin in both her passion and fury. "I wrote the part for Victoria," the director said, adding that she and Ms. Abril are such good friends that they vacation together each suntmer with their families. Ms. Balasko added, "She had absolutely no inhibition about playing someone who falls in love with another woman."

Ms. Balasko herself had never before played a lesbian. "I have some friends like Marijo, but it took me a while to get inside the character," she said. "I liked playing a woman who is equal to a man, someone with the same power of seduction, someone who is not vulnerable to being seduced by a man and is therefore totally free.'

Josiane Balasko played Gérard Depardieu's mistress in Bertrand Blier's 1989 film "Too Beautiful for You"—Another kind of love triangle.

She paused to light a cigarette. "Anyway, I noticed that men get all the best roles in movies, so," she added with a laugh, "I gave myself the role of a man."

Playing character roles is nothing new for Ms. Balasko. She is probably best remembered in the United States for her role as the frumpy mistress in Bertrand Blier's 1989 film "Too Beautiful for You" ("Trop Belle Pour Toi"), another love-triangle movie, in which Gerard Depardieu prefers her to his stunning wife, played by Carole Bouquet. "Miss Balasko is superb as the pliant but utterly direct Colette," Vincent Canby of The New York Times said of the film. In France, though, she has long been a household name.

Born of a Croatian immigrant father (she shortened her surname from Balaskovic) and a French mother, she attended drama school in Paris. Rather than opting for a career in television soap operas or mainstream theater, she became a founding member of a café-théâtre comedy team called Le Splendid, along with Michel Blanc, Thierry Lhermitte, Dominique Lavanant and Gérard Jugnot. Beginning in 1975, they wrote and performed their own sketches and plays in "off-off" theaters, cafes and warehouses, gradually building up something of an underground following.

By 1980, they had been recruited into movies, starting with Patrice Leconte's "Bronzés" ("The Suntanned"), a spool of the Club Méditerrance. They were later in several films directed by Jean-Marie Polré, among them a wacky Christmas tale called "Le Père Noël Est une Ordure," which became a cult movie and is still widely viewed on video. (It was also the inspiration for Nora Ephron's dreadful comedy last year, Mixed Nuts.")

"I have always believed in Josiane," Mr. Poiré said. "She's very irreverent. I think she likes challenges, including the challenge of being a comedienne, which is not easy. She has an amusing aggressiveness. She's sort of funnily femlnist without being militant. 'French Twist' is her best film to date. It's both a traditional situation comedy and provocative."

in the mid-1980's, the Splendid players went their own ways. Ms.

Balasko, who continued to appear in movies and on stage, also began writing screenplays and, in 1985, directed her first film, a black comedy about three misfits called "Sac de Noeuds" ("Can of Worms"), in which she stars with Isabelle Huppert and Farid Chopel.

"I didn't want to direct," she said. "I wanted to write and to act, to act what I had written. But it wasn't easy to find a director. In France, directors like to write their own movies and pick their stars. So that's how I finished up directing my first two films. I couldn't find a director. After that, I decided, well, f am a director.

In 1987, she made her second film, 'Les Keufs" ("The Cops"), in which she plays a police inspector investigating a prostitution ring. That was followed, in 1991, by "Ma Vie Est un Enfer" ("My Life Is Hell"), a comedy fantasy in which she makes a Faustian bargain with the Devil. But while these films did respectably at the box office, they in no way anticipated the success of "French Twist." The only film that did better in France last year was Mr. Poire's Guardian Angels," another com-

NIGHT LIGHTS BY ERIC ALBERT / EDITED BY WILL SHOR72

Same at March

Yet, Ms. Balasko noted, France's movie elites continue to look down on comedy. "How many of these young directors leaving film school want to make comedies?" she asked. "It's not the royal avenue. They prefer to have their first film seen by 300 people in Paris because they think they'll be noticed. They want to make Art, but we're artisans. For me, art is painting, music, sculpture. There are very very few great directors like Fellini, Bergman and Kurosawa, who are true artists."

For her part, Ms. Balasko seems happy to be an entertainer. And a busy one at that. She is currently appearing in "A Loud Cry for Love," a play that she wrote last summer. (She also directed.) She is writing a screenplay with the director Claude Zidl. She is beginning to think about her next movie. And, as always, she is looking for a humorous role that suits her matronly phy-

"A journalist once said I was the housewife's revenge," she noted. "But it's not just that I come over as the ordinary housewife who wins out in the end."

Yes, even as Marijo. . . . . . .

Volcanoes in Hollywood

end, improbably, in a volcano in Ha-

But most important, in Hollywood,

"It is similar thinking to why ev-if one studio considers making a volcano movie, every studio sudden-ervone wants to remake films," explained Nick Reed, an agent at International Creative Management. "If perceived as being more valuable.

So if someone else has bought a volcano project, then they are perceived as being more valuable. Each writer on "Volcano," has always understood Hollywood's herd mentality. Unfortunately, until now, he has been just slightly behind the curve.

Within days of finishing a script for a

"I'm always right on the pulse of Hollywood in a commercial sense,"

Jerome Armstrong, the screen-studio thinks theirs is better."

something has been done before, it is waii.)

ly wants one.

IE

By JOSH YOUNG

was decades ago that David O. Selznick told a screenwriter, Write whatever you want, as ong as there's a love scene and the girl jumps in the volcano at the end." Over the years, audiences have been given movies like "The Lasi Days of Pompeii" (about the eruption of Vesuvius), "The Devil at 4 O'Clock" (in which leper children are endangered by a volcano) and "Joe Versus the Volcano" (in which Meg Rvan comes very close to fulfilling Selznick's dictumt.

But even the Selznick rule could not explain why four volcano scripts are in various stages of development at major studios. The one farthest along is "Dante's Peak," a movie being produced by Universal Piciures about a volcano that threatens a small town near Seattle. Touchstone Pictures, at the Wali Disney Studio, is proceeding with "Ring of Fire," a futuristic thriller in which most of the action is set inside a volcanic ring. Fox 2000, a division of 20th Century Fox, has bought a Frank Sinatra leads children script called "Volcano," an Irwin from a rolcano in the 1961 film Allen-style disaster story about a "The Devil at 4 O'Clock." volcano erupting in Los Angeles.

And the producers Kathleen Kennedy and Frank Marshall, at Paramount, hired a screenwriter to prepare a script called "Caldera," which centers on a volcanic explosion. The Kennedy-Marshall production company moves to Disney this month, though "Caldera" may stay behind at Paramount.

Needless to say, not all these scripts will become movies. Last year, a production of "Crisis in the Hot Zone" fell apart after another studio began filming a similar movie. called "Outbreak." In years past, there have been dueling Three Musketeers and Robin Hood scripts, with only one film making it into theaters.

Still, how did four screenplays about volcanoes - a phenomenon millions of years older than the motion picture industry - simultaneously become hot projects?

One answer is that audiences like family comedy narrated by a baby, high-quality special effects, and the Mr. Armstrong learned that "Look new digital production companies Who's Talking," based on the identimake it possible to shoot volcano cal premise, was going into producmovies without fricasseeing actors tion; when he had nearly completed and cameras. ("Joe Versus the Vola script about dinosaurs in Africa, cano" was made with the help of Michael Crichton's novel "Jurassic Industrial Light and Magic, George Park" arrived in bookstores. Lucas's special-effects company.)

Another answer is that all of Hollywood took notice when a Para- said Mr. Armstrong, who has yet to mount cameraman crashed into Ki- have a screenplay produced. He lauea Volcano crater in Hawaii in knew about the Mount Pinatubo 1992 while working on the movie eruption in the Philippines in 1991. "Sliver." (At one point the script and, loving apocalyptic disaster called for Sharon Stone, playing a stories, thought about what might New York book editor, to meet her threaten cittes besides earthquakes and floods. "I had this fantasy that nobody else was onto this volcano thing," he sald. He was wrong. Days before Mr. Armstrong and the producer Neal Moritz were to take "Volcano" to the studios, Universal announced that it had signed Roger Donaldson, director of "Species," to make "Dante's Peak." In this film, a volcanologist working in the Cascade Mountains in Washington falls in love with a woman just as a volcano is about to erupt; her 14-year-old daughter is endangered and must be rescued. In Volcano," by contrast, a man working in the office of emergency operations and his 14-year-old daughter have just moved to Los Angeles; the man must rescue hus daughter when the volcano erupts.

The similarities might have stopped the "Volcano" leam. But the producer, Mr. Moritz, worked fast. He called Jon Klane, who runs a literary agency. Mr. Klane picked up a copy of "Volcano," read it that night, met with Mr. Armstrong in the morning and sent the script to potential buyers that afternoon.

Mr. Klane received several inquiries, including one from 'Universal (which was, after all, making "Dan-le's Peak"). Fox 2000, however, made a preemptive bid ($500,000), and now has a script doctor rewrit ing Mr. Armstrong's script.

Paradoxically, Leslie Bohem, the screenwriter on "Dante's Peak," also thought he had been upstaged by a volcano movie. "I was on page 95 the day Disney announced their volcano movie in the trades," he said. "This stuff gets in the air like volcanic ash."

Disney's "Ring of Fire" tells the story of a bounty hunter in Las Vegas in the year 2038; in this film a 10-year-old boy is in danger. Despite the fact that Disney had already announced it had Tony Scott, whose credits include "Crimson Tide," lined up to direct "Ring of Fire," Universal paid Mr. Bohem $1 million for "Danie's Peak." He has just finished rewriting the script.

During all this well-publicized maneuvering. Ms. Kennedy and Mr. Marshall, who were executive producers on "Joe Versus the Volcano," were dreaming up "Caldera." The idea came while Mr. Marshall was working near volcanos during the filming of "Congo," which they also produced.

They say they will have the first draft of a script in a few months. The team may not know what to expect, but the odds are that the story will involve a volcano suddenly erupting near a big city and endangering either a 10-year-old boy or a 14-yearold girl Jumping into the volcano at the end remains a possibility.

9 "Uncle — " (Pa McCartney hit) -" (Paul 15 Boom causers 19 "Absolutely!" 20 Mighty mite 21 1976 De Palma shocker 22 Tennisstroke 23 Flan 24 Royal pastime

Loopy

ACROSS I Lord Byron poem

25 Reservations 26 Recherché 27 Kind of planning 29 Legislators 31 Phoenix suburb 32 Kind of question 33 Plane's right 34 Paged 35 Kenneth Grahame character

38 "I cannot tell -39 Figures out at the beginning? 41 Abounding 44 Sliver 46 Second servings 48 Flynn portrayal 49 Record producer Brian 50 Program since 1965

77 ---- 6

us)

Jack

Shrew" setting

108 Salespeople push it

107 Author Ken

116 52 *---- may look on a king" 120 53 Summer of 1980 question 56 Madrid museum 57 "Yeah, sure" 61 To some degree 112 Thus 113 Magwitch of "Great Expectations" 62 Magazine contents 65 Procrastinator 115 1979 disco hit 67 Warstory 68 It's depicted by parts 116 Kind of rack of today's puzzle 117 Shop's replacement 71 Polynesian longue 118 Mooring sile 72 "Lockslev Hall" poet 119 Bed piece 74 Hope and Crosby. often 75 Mickey's partner 76 Beat tout)

79 Lampoons DOWN B2 Slack-jawed I Half a 1980's TV 83 Most likely duo 85 - deus in nobis (Ihere is God wilhin 2 Get a smile out of 3 Race do-overs S6 Remove Lomond 90 Part of a 1995 5 Breach reunion 6 From ---- Z 92 The-of the land 93 Ancient goddess of 8 Slidesight fertility 9 Familiarize 94 Today's soldier, e.g. 10 Artist Toulouse 96 Bass -11 Form a queue 98 Tom Clancy hero 12 Perry's creator 13 Net supports 00 Noisy gulps 101 Plesiosaurlike reptile, familiarly 15 Brake sound 103 The Taming of the

17 Sink

18 Went 80, say

120 Forward 121 Early English poet laureale 122 Major hit 123 Gang out, in a way 4 How to play "Loch 56 George Michael, for 57 Mideasterner 7 Classroom reward 58 Military decoration 59 Most like a ghost 60 Europe's Gulf of 63 Year in Louis XIV's reign 64 "O Sole -----" 66 Foreign title 14 Parisian possessive 68 Get down, so to 16 Movie for which Lee speak Gram won an Oscar 69 Chant

70 "Over here!"

73 Brainpower

and the state of the failed and the second

		29	·	30		 					31
		33			1		1	1		34
36	37		38		-	1.		39	40		$\mathbf{T}$
44	+	45		46		 	47	-	1	-	1
50		$\vdash$	51		+		52	†—	1.	-
-	+		1-			56		t—	-
$\vdash$			62	63	64			65		-	66
	68	69	-			⊢	70	-	1		71
73	_	-		74		—	 	.	1	75	-
77	+		78				78	80	81	-
82					83	84	_		Į		ŀ
90	-		 	91	 	_		92
_				96			07	32	_
				8			97		96		99
			101					102			103
	108	109								110
112							113		114
117							112
121							122
28	More	then	0701	th	75	Fic	tions	1 117-			05
30	Trave	er's	guid	e		Bal				•	95 97
31	Leave	s in t	he p	R	80	W.1	W.Ig	grp.
34	Word	logv	n Iille			Pet				,	99 01
36	More	than	disd		83	Geo	orge	Cuke	)r	-	02
	Japan				84	Un		d?			04
	Tilling Gentle				86	Win	ndow	's wo	rk		~-
	Mann				87	are Off					05
	News	pape	r's —	_		wo	king	y noi		_	Og
	Had o	nias	Dirar	ion		Psy					09
	Found					Sou				1	10
45 ,	Atlant	tic Ci	ty res	sort,		Qua					12
	with " Item i		-		93	Fina	ancia ire	n pag	3e	I	14
	Down		n.n			-
54 (	Classi	c film	n set	in	17	AN				PRE
55	Delila	h in '	Sam	son		IS H	AN	TII	41	RA	11
-	and D	efilal	7"	for			HA	NK	SW	AN	R

Kind of satellite Perfume dispensers? Classified ad abbr Very much Pasia shape Not very intelligently Open, in a way Talismanic stone French Christian Green light Ingénue, perhaps Honorary law deg. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" girl OUS PUZZLE

À

-

110 Wondrous 111 Bye

67

72

100

107

other Zionists whom I remember for their endless heated discussions oo how to dismember the oppressive British Empire, And, finally, there was the quiet Isaac Bashevis Singer, the unassuming proofreader of Literarische Bletter ("Literary Pages"). And so I went straight to Tel Aviv to meet with the all-powerful secretary of the Histadrut's

troian eacer

Grasos wa

eneo to te

Noto Ne

 $25^{\circ}$

....

- A

.

· • • •

. ...-

1.14

1.0

÷.,

**` 🛌

4

. . . .

Printers' Union. He sent me to Jerusalem, with a letter to hand to the head of the Jerusalem

Press's workers' committee, and advised me to take a room in the Himmelfarb Hotel (today the Gefen), next to the Post.

I was welcomed with open arms. The Jerusalem Press's latest project was a Polish daily, and it urgently needed a linotypist who knew Polish. I was asked to start working immediately.

Within a few mooths, I switched to typesetting The Post. After many years of absence from the printing press, I enjoyed listening to the monoto-oous noise of linotypes saying their daily prayers.

WORLD WAR II had just ended, but our struggle for free im-migration and independence had only begun. The revolt was brew-ing and the Post became a fighting newspaper. The entire staff shared the tremendous editorial effort of making our voice heard from Jerusalem.

At a time when Jews were rotting in displaced persons camps in Europe, illegal immigrant ships were trying to break the British blockade, the IZL and Hagana were sabotaging British installations, the daily appearance of even a frequently censored Jewish newspaper was a national accomplishment. Ted Lurie, who later became the executive editor, was attacked by a few drunken British soldiers outside the Press windows and we came to his rescue. This did not prevent the Post's founder and executive editor, Gershon Agron, from walking home long after midnight. He cootinned to do so mader bombardment during the War of Independence.

The press was usually crowded with foreign journalists, fisbing for the latest news, Important

FEATURES

Alexander Zvielli at work at 'The Jerusalem Post' morgne in 1982.

personalities used to drop in to get the first edition at midnight. I was working as usual on February I, 1948, when a bomb anted by Arabs with the help of the British police - ripped through the building and almost completely destroyed the press. Luckily, I was sitting in the right place and wasn't injured.

Many of my colleagues, how-ever, were less fortunate. The heavy hlast killed, hlinded and wounded, while the fire and the smoke which followed added to the destruction.

But the Post appeared the next day, as if nothing had happened. On the front page it carried an editorial by David Courtney (Elston) that truth is stronger than TNT:

I got married soon after the bombing, but my wife, Dana, and I never even thought of a honeymoon. We joined the other young Jewish residents of Jerusalem on guard duty the day after our wedding. My post was at Schmidt's College, overlooking what is today

Independence Park, and Dana watched the same area from 45 King George, the sixth story of the Halbreich building. During the War of Independence The Post appeared daily, despite the bombardment and the frequent electric breakdowns. Once, on the night of a particularly heavy bombardment, a stenciled edition was issued. During the actual fighting, dis-tribution was most difficult. Once I joined Ya'acov Rabia, our brave and tirelessdriver, on his nightly attempt to carry the Post to Tel Aviv and from there to the rest of the country. He and other Post distributors frequently risked their lives to deliver the paper.

Meanwhile, there were almost no advertisements and the financial losses were staggering.

The editorial room was in shambles, newly laid telephone and electricity wires hung loose "from the ceiling. Shelves cootaining reference books and archives box files had all their fronts burned out.

We were highly fortunate that the heavy rotary press situated below the street level was still working. The Ahava Press was but 100 meters away and they offered to let us use their linotypes at night, so I frequently set up type there and then ran with still hot columns to the main building. Then Ha aretz sent us a brand-new inotype and thus we were able to produce a small four-page newspaper daily, adding another two pages oo Friday. Even so, we were desperately short of equipment. A long line of visitors used to call at the Post daily. The partly burned-out building became once more a meeting point of all those eager for the latest news.

On one occasion, while going to my oew post at Notre Dame monastery, I entered the empty Generali Building, once held by Palestinian Police, and found on the floor a number of discarded maps and files, all stamped top secret. I had no time to examine them more closely, so I took them to Agron to dispose of as he saw fit. He was sitting behind his desk, always eager for any contact, any however scarce information. I never did find out what he did with them.

The first and the second truce followed, then the Burma Road connected the beleaguered city with the rest of the country and life slowly returned to oormal. The sporadic sniping, infiltration and sabotage continued, but we already knew that the worst - the shortages of arms, food and ammunition - was over.

ADDITIONAL MACHINERY started coming in slowly (secondhand linotypes in rather poor condition). The Post had grown in size, but Jerusalem was still a border town and the advertising revenue was negligible. Nevertheless, we were full of hope, we even agreed to a voluntary cut in salary so the Post could hire new immigrants.

The immigrants came directly from outlying ma'abarot (transit camps) and spent their first nights (Aliza Azerbach) sleeping on the press floor waiting for the Jewish Agency to transfer them to the Talpiot ma'abara. The Jerusalem Post Press started, once again to print various books and iournals in foreign languages in addition to the Post.

It took the press many years, however, to reach that degree of efficiency of which it was so proud before the explosioo. And, by that time, the new inventions of cold print and dry offset made the earlier, traditional printing techniques totally obsolete. In 1968, I accompanied Lurie on a visit to the Chicago Printing Exhibition. At the exhibition, we walked miles and miles noting new inventions. The Post finally bought the Goss Offset Printing Press, a giant step towards a larger and better illustrated oewspaper. At Lurie's suggestion, I visited a number of US newspapers to learn more aboot cold-priot photosetting.

Upon my return, Lurie arranged a meeting of all Post workers and I told them about the coming typesetting revolu-

Lack of international organization leads to environmental dumping tion. Most linotype operators just shrugged their shoulders.

"Not in our time," was their almost uniform opinion.

Lurie proved them wrong in no time. Photosetting replaced linotypes over the next few years, but unlike other newspapers, the Post's conversion to cold print and the subsequent computerization went oute smoothly.

By then the Post and the Jernsalem Press (which had been bought by the Post) had outgrown the premises at Hassolel Street and planned to move to a much larger building in Romema. As a press foreman at the time, I am proud that we completed the move on schedule and without problems. After 30 years, the hard work and the heavy responsibility of the daily newspaper production began to wear on me. Therefore, I was quite relieved when in 1975 the executive editor, Ari Rath, suggested that I reorganize the newspaper's archives and create a modern information center.

I found my new job most interesting. The center was, as in my father's press days, an anchor, a meeting place for our own staff and the numerous journalists, students, professors and politicians researching Middle East-ern, Palestinian and Israeli history. Our files covered personalities, subjects, organizations and places in a manner which no directory, guide or encyclopedia could.

I also started writing biographies and obituaries of prominent people, in addition to frequent book reviews and articles of general interest.

Today, Nina Keren-David runs the center, which by taking advantage of CD-ROM and Internet, is one of the most advanced information facilities in the Middle East.

Though I retired in 1985, I continue to take care of the old clipping archives part-time.

Fifty years are a very long time, and looking back I feel that I have been rather fortunate, for I have worked among my own people who have helped me along the way.

Basic Laws enhance human rights creditors to show that the, Amending Law violated their

In the Sureme Court, sitting as a Court of Civil Appeals -; before. the president, Justice Aharon Barak, former president, Meir gar, and justices Doy Levin, unnecessary to decide upon the specific legal basis for this ruling.

LAW REPORT ASHER FELIX LANDAU

suned valid unless the contrary is

In his view a law must be pre-

· . •

Gavriel Bach, Eliezer Goldberg, Eliyahu Mazza, Mishael Cheshin, Yitzhak Zamir and Zevi Tal, and in the matters of the United Mizrahi Bank Ltd., and others, appellants, versus Migdal Cooperative Village and others, respondents C.A. 6821/3, L.A.[C] 1908/94 and 3363/94).

THREE creditors took ac-tioo in District Court to challenge the Agricultural Family Sector Arrangemeots Law of 1986 and the Law amending it in 1993, submitting that they deprived creditors of relief usually available through the courts. The Laws therefore violated section 3 of the Basic Law: The Dignity and Freedom of Man, forbidding violation of a person's property, they said.

The respondents argued that the Arrangements Law complied with sectioo 8 of the same Basic Law, which states, "There shall be no violation of rights under this Basic Law except by a Law befitting the values of the State of Israci, enacted for a proper purpose, and to an extent no greater than required."

Justice Shamgar, in a wideranging analysis, concluded that while the Arrangements Law violates the property rights men-tioned in section 3, it did meet the conditions set out in section 8. Justice Barak, after his own exhaustive analysis, reached the same conclusion.

JUSTICE LEVIN referred to his judgment in the Clal Insurance case (H.C.726, 878/94) dealing with many of the same issues.

He agreed with Justice Barak that the Knesset was empowered to enact constitutional legislation, following what was laid down in the Declaration of Independence. He agreed that the above Basic Law and Basic Law: Freedom of Occupation had enhanced human rights here.

He held it was for the person alleging a violation of the rights accorded in the Dignity and Freedom Basic Law to prove his case. He disagreed, in this context, with a presumption raised by Justice Goldberg that the state had acted according to law.

He was satisfied there had been a violation of creditors' rights to property, but held that the conditions in section 8 of the Basic Law had been fulfilled.

JUSTICE ZAMIR was of the opinion that the constitutional "revolution" already started with the judgment in the Bergman case (H.C.98/69, Selected Supreme Court Jndgments [Eoglish], Vol. VIII, p. 13), in which antion to come to said the court recognized the requirenomic issues. ment of a special number of votes He shared the opinion that a Law is presumed to be valid unfor enacting a law. He also warned against the court dealing with constitutional issues not involving concrete disless the contrary is established, and he held it must also be presumed that the conditions in secpates requiring solution. In his tion 8 have been fulfilled until proved otherwise. view, the Knesset was empowered to bind itself as to the future. He hesitated to rule what JUSTICE BACH wrote that the was a person's "property" under Knesset, as the supreme legislasection 3 of the Basic Law: Digniture in the state, is empowered to ty and Freedom, but he agreed enact special constitutional laws, that the fulfillment of the coudiand so to bind itself, and future tions in section 8 of that Basic Knessets, both in regard to a spe-Law was a question of degree. cial majority of votes, or impos-He agreed with Justice Barak's ing other conditions for amendiog a Basic Law. It was summary, in so far as it was relevant to matters requiring a decision in this judgment.

JUSTICE CHESHIN dealt with the Knesset's power to bind itself with special provisions, tracing developments since the establishment of the state, and challenged the Knesset's powers as accepted by his colleagues.

He disagreed with describing the above Basic Laws as "revolutionary." but he did regard any laws relating to human rights as of particular significance.

He questioned the wisdom of empowering all courts to prononnce on the validity of Knesset legislation, suggesting that such power should be reserved for the Supreme Court sitting as a High Court of Justice.

He agreed that a Knesset Law should prima facie be regarded as valid. In any event, the amended Arrangements Law met the conditions in section 8.

JUSTICE GOLDBERG agreed that the two Basic Laws, both as to their content and their legal status, stand above ordinary legislation.

He also agreed that the term property" in section 3 above includes a person's contractual rights. However, he reiterated the court's reluctance to interfere in economic matters, and counseled a careful approach in testing whether the conditions in section 8 have been fulfilled. In regard to the validity of the amended Arrangements Law, he held a Knesset statute must prima facie be presumed to be valid.

JUSTICE MAZZA agreed with Justice Barak's summary. He also agreed that the Knesset, as the supreme legislature, is empowered to initiate constitutional legislation in addition to its ordinary powers.

he also agreed that "property" includes a debtor's obligations, but he supported Justice Zamir's warning to the court to tread carefully when dealing with eco-

. . . . . . . . .

. . .-

Subject to the above co ments, he agreed with Justice Barak's summary.

rights, and that the conditions in section 8 were not fulfilled.

JUSTICE TAL found it unnecessary to deal with questions of principle relating to the Knesset's powers. He adhered to his opinion in the Clal Insurance case that Basic Laws enjoyed a special status, and were to be a guide in construing ordinary legislation. He agreed with Justice Mazza as to the burden of proof under section 8 of the Basic Law.

IN THE result, the appeal in C.A.1908/94 was dismissed, and those in L.A. (C) 1908 and 3363/ 94 were remitted to the District Court for further bearing. The judgment was delivered on November 11, 1995. This is the second of two parts.

growth in environmental awareness is that there is oo international coordination. Each country enters the new world of environmental protection at its own pace, and this is reflected in the laws they enact.

This has led to an almost disastrous state of confusioo and, even worse, has opened the door to those who are far more concerned with monetary gain than environmental protection. For many such individuals, companies and countries this disparity of awareness and legislation simply opens a door to exploitatioo. The worst form of this exploitation is environmental dumping. The industrialized nations - desperate to rid themselves of toxic waste - are looking for and finding places in the less developed

D'YORA BEN SHAUL world to deposit this dangerous

NE of the greatest prob-lems resulting from the EARTHLY CONCERNS. But Israel too, because of a lack of legislation, is not only a material. International bodies have tried, usually in vain, to deal with this problem.

But dumping is oot just a matter of waste products. There is also a form of economically orchestrated dumping that is far more dangerous. Today, countries around the world, denied a local market for environmentally dangerous products, are actively seeking and finding markets where the legislatioo is less prohibitive.

Pesticide companies in the US, western Europe and Israel still produce materials banned at home but welcome in countries of the Third World.

dumper of pesticides but a dumpee for many other products. While most Israeli companies have virtually eliminated CFCs as a propellant, the country is inundated with European and American products propelled by CFCs and banned in their country of. origin.

Some sort of international agreement must emerge that will oo longer allow even the production, much less the sale, of environmentally harmful agents.

This is not a simple matter. But the simple fact is that without some sort of international consensus there can be no real improvement of the environment. Local gains are all well and good, but does it really help you if your next-door neighbor is polluting the very world in which you live?

BUSINESS & FINANCE

Tadiran, IDF sign $80m. deal

RACHEL NEIMAN

Indigo: Operating

loss will be offset

RACHEL NEIMAN

per share.

of Indigo shares.

of 1996."

and Im

gone.

D ISRAEL DISCOUNT BANK

TADIRAN announced yesterday it has signed a $80 million contract to supply new generation communications equipment to the IDF.

The value of the contract was originally announced in July as $50m, but increased due to the addition of a completely integrated software/bardware package.

Tadiran said the contract would assist in competing for other international contracts.

The contract includes primary communications equipment, support systems and laboratories, a logistics package, and instructional systems.

The new communications systems will replace those developed hy Tadiran for the IDF in the 1960s and will be used in tanks, armored personnel carriers and other vehicles.

Tadiran says the system is low maintenance, has been tested for

INDIGO'S larger than expected fourth quarter operating loss will he offset by the recognition of a $15 million noo-cash deferred

The company anoounced in October it expected over $13 million in operating losses for both the 1995 third and fourtb

Third quarter net losses were $14.55 million, compared with oct losses of $2.9m in the same

At that time, Indigo said restructuring costs would be be-revenue.

quarters.

period in 1994.

fourth quarter.

$42m. from $24.16m.

several thousand hours of prohlem-free operation and has surpassed all quality and reliability requirements.

A new production line for the system has been planned as part of Tadiran's overatt reorganization into market sectors, which is scheduled for this year.

The public issues of hoth Tadiran's communications and batteries divisions are scheduled for this year.

The closed signing ceremony took place tast week at Tadiran's offices and was attended by Chief Communications and Electronics officer Avihu Diskelman; head of purchasing for the Defense Ministry Haim Adar; Tadiran chairman and Koor general manager Benny Gaon; Tadiran general manager Israel Zamir and Tadiran Communications and Systems general manager Benny Meidan.

JUDY SIEGEL, JENNIFER FRIEDLIN and news agencies

phone contract in India

Bezeq wins cellular

IN what appears to be a partial coup. Bezeq has won a lease to build cettular phone infrastructure in India's Gujarat district as part of a consortium in which it holds a 16 perceot stake, company spokesman Ron Mandelbaum said yesterday. Bezeg has transferred $7.66 million 'as a down payment for the lease." which will allow the company to install 350,000 cellular phone lines in the region within 10 years, said Mandelbaum.

The district, on the western coast of India, has 41.2 million residents and only 660,000 phone lines. The Indian-Thai-Israeli consortium has established in India a company called Fascel, which received rights from the ladian government to carry out this work. Fascel intends to invest $108m.

Regarding contracts to supply conventional phone infrastructure, Bezeq is still waiting for an official announcement from the Indian government.

A consortium in which Bezeq is a major member recently won a tender to build phone infrastructure in three districts, but government opposition has caused dein implementation, lavs Mandelbaum said.

The delays underscore the political wrangling that continues to threaten both Bezeq's and other company's bids. India's telephone privatization program faces its higgest test this week as the Supreme Court considers whether to stop the multi-billion dollar symbol of economic reform in its tracks. The court set a hearing for tomorrow to take up a set of petitions challengiog the governmeot's ambitious but embattled program to end the state's telecommunications monopoly.

However, the court is oot expected to issue a ruliog winners in five of the country's 20 tomorrow. Chief Justice A.M. Ahmadi

Only six firms bid for five re-zones.

bungling the program.

izen in 100 has a telephone.

threaten the entire process.

and legal wrangling, which some industry executives say could

Last month the court ordered the government to put a hold on awarding any licenses to firms to operate basic telephone services.

the backbone of the program, until it ruled oo the seven petitions.

beight of an opposition protest which all but paralyzed parlia-meot during its month-loog session io December. Opposition lawmakers accused the government of favoring one firm and After an ioitial teoder last

The court's stay came at the Prime Minister P.V. Narasimha Rao: His cabinet approved privatization plan in 1994. (AP) sidelines.

country where fewer than one cit-But the basic phone program tium could control to three. has been bogged down in political more than all others combined.

issues, including the privatization policy and the absence of a telecommunications regulatory authority. Legal experts said the court would likely side with the lates to charges the government favored HFCL Bezeq and passed up a chance to pocket far more year, the government chose the money in license fees by allowing the coosortinm to choose the three zooes it would cootrol.

hind the Greeo Line and sold in Israel. Among the good discussed were Levi's jeans, compact discs and cassette tapes. Counterfeit CDs and tapes comprise 25% of all CDs and tapes sold in Israel, totaling NIS 100 millioo worth of

Following the Palestinian Authority's elections oext month, the subcommittee will begio discassing, how Palestinian factories acquire unformation for the .pro-. duction of counterfeit goods and the way in which they smuggle these goods into Israel.

"This iovestmeot represents the continuing commitment of In-Quarterly revenues rose to digo's priocipal shareholders to the company and its technology," Landa said. "Furthermore, the company expects to raise additween $3m. and $5m. io the tional funds during the first half trust of which Landa and his fam-

The purchase price was $10.53

The purchase by the Soros group is subject to the expiration or termination of a waiting period. As a result of this purchase, varions entities related to the Landa family will own 72.6% and the Soros group will own 17.9%

ily are the chief beneficiaries.

ders, which decided to stay on the on its way to completion. It cleared Prime Minister P.V. Narasimha Rao's cabinet in 1994 and The foreign companies were got started last year. particularly irritated at the gov-The plan to end the state monopoly has broad support in a

ernment's decision last year to impose a minimum, or reserve, price for the licenses and to limit the number of zones any consor-

The decision was announced after the first round of bidding, triggering charges the government had favored HFCL Bezeg Telecom Ltd, which emerged as the highest bidder in nine regions by offering $25 billion - $15b.

The petitions before the Supreme Court tackle three maio government in these areas.""

the territories. Lubelsky showed Shachor a va-The third, and crucial, issue renety of the most popular counterfeit goods that are produced be-

BUSINESS BRIEFS

MONDAY, JANUARY 8, 1996

Tapad to become Nando's sole french fry provider. Tapud will become fast food chain Nando's sole provider of french fries. Tapud, which also supplies french fries to Burger King and Burger Ranch, said it expects NIS 1 million in annual revenues Rachel Neiman from the deal.

Standard and Poor's to publish guide on local companies: Standard and Poor's will publish a guide on local companies traded on both the Tel Aviv Stock Exchange and abroad. Information will be available both electronically via satellite to 800 banks worldwide and via Internet.

This is the first time S&P has issued a publication on the local market. Those interested in the guide should contact Yair Rochel Neiman Marfish at 03-697-9666.

Most business prefer mortgages at fixed interest rate: A Bank Tefahot survey reveals that 63% of businesses prefer to take out mortgages at a predetermined fixed interest rate when buying office space or other property. Of those businesses surveyed, 12% prefer to take mortgages with interest adjustments (either up or down) every 2.5 years and 11% preferred interest adjustments every five years. Rachel Neiman

Leon Plast to set up factory in Galilee: Plastic bag manufacturer Leon Plast of Haifa will set up a $5 million factory in the Galilee. The company recently acquired a $1m. production line capable of producing one million bags daily.

Rachel Neiman

MKs to tackle problem of counterfeit goods flowing in from areas JENNIFER FRIEDLIN sales each year.

13

· • .

.1

2

• •

÷.,

Germum

sees grow

in '96 ar 2

÷ • .

.

production of counterfeit goods gions and the smuggling of these goods into Israel, a ministry offi-

At a recent meeting, Deputy

Trade and Industry Minister Ma-sha Lubelsky aod Maj.-Gen.

Oren Sbachor discussed the production of counterfeit goods in cial said yesterday.

the Palestinian autonomous re-

AN Industry and Trade Ministry subcommittee will meet next month to discuss ways to curb the that in late December it arranged to place $20m. in common shares with an affiliate of the Soros group and a company owned by a

Last week. Indigo announced

For current information on securities in Israel and the U.S., including Meta predicts $1.9b. turnover high-yielding U.S. government-backed for info technologies market debeatures, call: MEYERSON CONSULTANCY Meta group CO., INC. forecasis a $1.94 hillion turnover Founded 14 A Publicly Truded Company for the country's information NASDAQ Symbol: MHMY technologies market this year. Broken & Dealers in Securities Casterwriters "A fax for you" 30 Montgomery Street ersey City, New Jersey 07302, USA All you want to know about your Corporate & Institutional Inquiries: accounts, on your fax, within 15 minute Jeffrey E. Meyerson, V.P. 15 minutes

1-201-332-3513 Fax: 1-201-332-1263

Eric J. Logan, V.P. Saland Sale Manager -201-332-4801 - 1-800-888-8118 Fax: 1-201-45+1008

d will be and

Although unit shipments will be substantially lower than recently expected, Landa admitted, "we are encouraged by indications of increased utilization of Indigo presses by our current customer base and repeat orders by existing customers."

has said a judgment would be rendered as soon as possible, block earlier this month, passing which legal experts and telecommunications industry officials speculated meant before the end of January.

Before reaching the court, the privatization program was well

Hardware sales in 1996 will

Software imports are expected to reach $200m_ and software ex-

At the end of last year, there were 600,000 personal computers used in the home market. That number is expected to double hy

CLARK

History has shown that in January, the market tends to rise markedly as a result of bargain hunters looking for quality stocks on sale. The "January Effect" is just one of the fluctuations that can catch an investor by surprise.

profit from market volatility.

A well-planned portfolio, though, can help an investor

Begin this year by talking to CommStock's experienced,

U.S.-licensed professionals about strategies for safe, profitable investing. For a portfolio analysis, call Douglas Goldstein, Director of our Securities Division, at (02) 244963.

reach S722m. and software sales

$371m., Meta reported.

the end of the year.

ports $232m.

gions which were on the auction up the chance to buy licenses for eight other zones.

Industry officials said the parliamentary outcry and uncertainty coooccted to the Supreme Court decision discouraged bid-

THE Industry and Trade Ministry is investigating Pelephone

Communications for allegedly publishing misleading advertisements, Deputy Industry and

Trade Minister Masha Lubelsky

Pelephone violated advertising laws by failing to include VAT in the prices advertised in newspapers and billhoards promoting said yesterday.

Malk into Wall Stree.

U.S. STOCK AND COMMODITY BROKERS

Tel: 02-247-765 Fax 02-235-759 - 25 Keren Hayesod St., Jerusalem

Call TODAY to find out about our STOCK PICK of the week!

Discount Commissions 🗆 Free Portfolio Analysis

If the court rules against the government in this area, it could force the program to start over again, lawyers said.

However, Bezeq officials are optimistic the government's response will continue to be positive.

Ministry probes Pelephone for misleading advertising JENNIFER FRIEDLIN

their Andiovox cellular phone, Lublesky said.

Company spokeswoman Avelet Gradman said Pelephone's advertising campaign did not break any laws.

"We have no idea what the ministry is talking about," said Gradman. "Our advertisements say that the prices do not include VAT and they are published according to the law."

According to Lubelsky, laws regarding advertising for goods and services require advertisers to print prices in shekel amounts and to include all taxes imposed on the goods in the stated price.

Pelephone has been asked to halt the questionable advertisements immediately.

PRIME Correct Mutual Fund for Foreign Reside	r .
Date;	4.1.96
Purchase Price;	108.59
edemption Price:	107.14
sumi pia xeo mat
, historia de la secon
(מטרה) TARGET Mutual Fund for Foreign Resider
	4.1.96
Dete:
Dete: Purchase Price:	146.41
	1

Patch (forely Currency (deposit for; U.S. dolar ($250,000)	gn curren	and all marked	rotes) (S	1 13/23
U.S. dollar ($250.000)					12 MONTHS
			nths 750	8 MONTHS 4.825	12 MONTHS
Pound starting (£100.000)			500	4.500	4,625
German mark (DM 200, Swine tranc (SF 200,00	000	23	250	2.125	2.375
Swins franc (SF 200,00 Yen (10 million yen)	4	0.3	250 .	1.250	0.375
	ry higher or	lower than in	dicated sco	anding to dep	osit)
		gn Exchan
500	CHECKS	AND	- C
	TRANSF	ERS	BANKN		Rep.
Currency basket	Buy 3.5312	Sell 3.5882	Buy	Seli	Rates 3.5614
Currency basket U.S. dofler	3.1060	3.1561	3.05	3.20	3.1330
German mark Pound sterling	2_1490 4.8128	2.1837 4.8905	2.11	2.22	2.1062
Franch tranc	0.6276	0.6378	4.73	n65	4.8563 11.6330
Japanese yen (100) Dutch Sorin	2.9567	8.0044	2.90	3.05	2.9822
Swies franc	1.9186 2.6644	1,9498 2,7074	1.88	1.93	1.9350
Swediet Irona	0.4685	0.4761	0.46	0.49	0.4725
Norweglan krone Danish krone	0.4876	0.4935	0.47	0.51	0.4915
Finnish mitck	0.7122	0.7237	0.69	0.58	0.5601 0.7178
Canadian dollar	2.2671	2.3240	2.24	2.36	2.3072
Australian dollar S. Almoan rand	2.3035	2.3407	2.26 0.77	2.38	2.3226
Beigien tranc (10) Austrien schliting (10)	1.0458	1.0627	1.02	1.08	1.0538
Hallen Tra (10)	3.0548	3,1041 1,9961	3.00 1.93	3.15	3.0797
Italian ira (1000) Jordanian dinar			4.27	2.03	1.9810 4.4301
Egyptian pound ECU	3.9773	10415	0.88	0.96	0.9712
irish punt Spanish pereta (100)	4,9596	4.0415	4.87	5.11	4.0063 5.0034
Spanish peesta (100)	2.5512	2.5834	2.50	2.63	2.5705
* Thee	a rates vary	according to i	bank -	Bank of lerae	4
		OURCE: BAN
•
				 	n Corp. Ltd.
	Tend	or 90/0		•	. ·
	icito	er 89/9	0/001/	υ.
TELEPHON	ie wir	ES - Lo	na ter	m agre	ement
The following ge		- Ales
I S ARR IN MARKING THE PARTY OF A	niciai CO
The current age	THE OWNER AND ADDRESS		ipply:
The supply agree	ment will	be for one	apply: 9 year, wi		on to
The supply agree extend for an add	itional 3	be for one	ipply: year, wi		on to
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions	ktional 3 y	be for one years.	year, wi	th the opti
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance	ktional 3 y With all I	be for one years. aws. and it	year, wi	th the opti	an af
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books	ktional 3 ; ; ; with all 1 ; registra	be for one years. aws, and it tion as a n	year, wi	th the opti the keepir	ng of
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of	ittonal 3 y with all 1 s, registra the nece	be for one years. aws, and it tion as a n ssary ficen	year, wi	th the opti the keepir	ng of
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spec	itional 3 y with all 1 , registra the nece ifications.	be for one years. aws, and i tion as a n ssary licen	year, wi ncluding egistered ises, and	th the opti the keepir I trader, th complian	ng of e ce with
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spec b. The provision	itional 3 y with all 1 i, registra the nece ifications. 21 of a gu	be for one years. aws, and i tion as a n ssary licen	year, wi ncluding egistered ises, and	th the opti the keepir trader, th complian	ng of e ce with
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard speo b. The provisic goods offered	itional 3 y with all l , registra the nece ifications. X1 of a gu in the bid	be for one years. aws, and it tion as a n ssary ficen interaction, to	year, wi ncluding egistered ises, and ensure led in the	th the opti the keepir trader, th complian the provis	ng of e ce with ilon of the
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spec b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do	with all 1 with all 1 s, registra the nece ifications. on of a gu in the bid cuments	be for one years. aws, and i tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr arantee, tr arantee, tr	year, wi ncluding egistered ises, and pensure led in the	th the opti the keepir I trader, th compilan the provis tender fo	ng of e ce with lion of the rm.
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spec b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do Section. Tender	Nitional 3 y with all 1 s, registra the nece ifications. Xn of a gu in the bid curnents ars and O	be for one years. aws, and it tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr - as detail can be obi riders Den	year, wi ncluding egistered ises, and pensure led in the ained fro t 15 Pe	th the opti the keepin I trader, th compilan the provis the provis the provis the provis	ng of e ce with ilon of the rm, ring
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spec b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tende Jerusaiem (Rd	itional 3 ; with all 1 , registra the nece ifications. X1 of a gu in the bid curnents ers and C born 609),	be for one years. aws, and it tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr - as detail can be obi riders Den	year, wi ncluding egistered ises, and pensure led in the ained fro t 15 Pe	th the opti the keepin I trader, th compilan the provis the provis the provis the provis	ng of e ce with ilon of the rm, ring
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard speco b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tende Jorusaiem (FIC 9 a.m 12 nor	ktional 3 y with all I s, registra the nece ifications. on 6 a gu in the bid curnents ars and 6 om 609), on.	be for one years. aws, and it tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr arantee, tr arantee, tr arantee, tr can be obt rders Dep Tel, 02-39	year, wi egistered ses, and ensure led in the bained fro t, 15 Re 95614/5,	th the opti the keepin I trader, th complian the provis tender fo m the Buy hov Hazvi Sunday -	ng of e with ce with lion of the rm, ring Thursday,
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compilance account books possession of standard spece b. The provision goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tender Jorusaiem (Fic 9 a.m 12 nor The document	with all I with all I s, registra the nece ifications. on of a gu in the bid curnents oom 609), on. is will be a	be for one years. aws, and it tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr - as detai can be obt inders Dep Tel. 02-35 sumplied a	year, wi ncluding egistered ises, and ensure led in the bained fro t, 15 Re 95614/5,	th the opti the keepin trader, th complian the provis tender for m the Buy hov Hazvi Sunday -	ng of e with ce with lon of the rm. ring Thursday,
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spec b. The provisik goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tende Jerusaiem (Ro 9 a.m 12 no The document receipt, showing	with all I with all I s, registra the nece ifications. on of a gu in the bid curnents oom 609), on. is will be a	be for one years. aws, and it tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr - as detai can be obt inders Dep Tel. 02-35 sumplied a	year, wi ncluding egistered ises, and ensure led in the bained fro t, 15 Re 95614/5,	th the opti the keepin trader, th complian the provis tender for m the Buy hov Hazvi Sunday -	ng of e with ce with lon of the rm. ring Thursday,
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compilance account books possession of standard spece b. The provisik goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tende Jerusaiem (Fid 9 a.m 12 no The document receipt, showin follows:	itional 3 y with all I s, registra the nece iffications. on of a gu in the bid curnents ars and O com 609), on. is will be a ng that pa	be for one years. aws, and it tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr - as detai can be obt inders Dep Tel. 02-39 supplied, a supplied, a	year, wi ncluding egistered led in the bained fro t, 15 Re 25614/5, NGS500 h	th the opti- the keepin I trader, th complian the provis tender for m the Buy hov Hazvi Sunday - ubmission as been m	ng of e with lon of the rm. ring Thursday, of a nade, as
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spec b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tende Jerusaiem (RC 9 a.m 12 nor The document receipt, showin follows: in iarael: A de	ktional 3 y with all I s, registra the nece iffications. On of a gu in the bid curnents ars and O com 609), on. is will be a ng that pa posit into	be for one years. aws, and it tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr - as detai can be obt inders Dep Tel. 02-39 supplied, a supplied, a	year, wi ncluding egistered led in the bained fro t, 15 Re 25614/5, NGS500 h	th the opti- the keepin I trader, th complian the provis tender for m the Buy hov Hazvi Sunday - ubmission as been m	ng of e with lon of the rm. ring Thursday, of a nade, as
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spece b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tende Jerusalem (Ro 9 a.m 12 non The document receipt, showin follows: in israel: A de No. 5-311757.	itional 3 y with all I s, registra the nece ifications. on of a gu in the bid curnents ars and C oom 609), on. is will be a ng that pa posit into	be for one years. aws, and i tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr - as detai can be obt rders Dep Tel. 02-35 supplied, a supplied, a supplied, a	year, wi egisterec led in the bained fro t, 15 Re 35614/5, NIS500 h ccount a	th the opti- the keepir I trader, the compilan the provise tender for m the Buy hov Hazvi Sunday - ubmission as been m t the Post	ng of e with lon of the rm. ring Thursday, of a nade, as al Bank,
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spec b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tender Jorusaiem (RC 9 a.m 12 nor The document receipt, showin follows: in larael: A de No. 5-311757. Abroad: A dar	ittional 3 y with all I s, registra the nece ifications. on of a gu in the bid curnents ars and O oom 609), on. is will be a ng that pa posit into	be for one years. aws, and i tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr - as detai can be obli- rders Dep Tel, 02-39 supplied, a supplied, a Bezeg's a Bezeg's a	year, wi ncluding egisterec ises, and pensure led in the bained fro t, 15 Re 25614/5, ugainst su NIS500 h ccount a	th the opti- the keepir I trader, th compilan the provision the provisio	ng of e with lon of the rm. ring Thursday, of a made, as al Bank,
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spec b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tender Jorusaiem (RC 9 a.m 12 nor The document receipt, showin follows: in larael: A de No. 5-311757. Abroad: A dar	ittional 3 y with all I s, registra the nece tifications. on of a gu in the bid curnents ars and O oom 609), on. is will be a ng that pa posit into	be for one years. aws, and i tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr - as detai can be obli- rders Dep Tel, 02-39 supplied, a supplied, a Bezeg's a Bezeg's a	year, wi ncluding egisterec ises, and pensure led in the bained fro t, 15 Re 25614/5, ugainst su NIS500 h ccount a	th the opti- the keepir I trader, th compilan the provision the provisio	ng of e with lon of the rm. ring Thursday, of a made, as al Bank,
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spece b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tende Jerusalem (Fic 9 a.m 12 non The document receipt, showit follows: in israel: A dep central branch	itional 3 y with all I s, registra the nece ifications. on of a gu in the bid curnents ars and O oom 609), on. is will be a posit into of Bank	be for one years. aws, and i tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr - as detai can be obt rders Dep Tel. 02-39 supplied, a supplied, a supplied, a Bezeq's a Leurni Leis	year, wi ncluding egisterec led in the bained fro t, 15 Re 35614/5, ugainst so NIS500 h ccount at reael. No	th the opti- the keepir I trader, the compilan the provise tender foo m the Buy hov Hazvi Sunday - ubmission as been m t the Post the Jerus	ng of e with lon of the rm. ring Thursday, of a made, as al Bank,
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spec b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tende Jerusalem (RC 9 a.m 12 nor The document receipt, showin follows: in larael: A de No. 5-311757. Abroad: A der central branch The tender-do	ittional 3 y with all I s, registra the nece thications. on of a gu in the bid curnents ars and O oom 609), on. is will be a posit into of Bank i curnents i	be for one years. aws, and i tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr - as detai can be obli- inders Dep Tel. 02-39 supplied, a supplied, a supplied, a Bezeq's a Leumi Leis fee in poon	year, wi ncluding egisterec ises, and pensure led in the bained fro t, 15 Re 25614/5, igainst su NIS500 h ccount at wael, nd	th the opti- the keepin I trader, the compilian the provise tender foo tender	ng of e with lon of the rm. ring Thursday, of a nade, as al Bank, alem 7633/64.
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spec b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tender Jerusaiem (RC 9 a.m 12 nor The document receipt, showin follows: In larael: A de No. 5-311757. Abroad: A dep central branch The tender-do The receipt on	itional 3 y with all I s, registra the nece the nece the nece in the bid curnents ors and O oom 609), on. is will be a posit into of Bank i curnents i av be aub	be for one years. aws, and i tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tu - as detai can be obli- rders Dep Tel. 02-39 supplied, a tyment of I Bezeq's a Leurni Leis fes in non-	year, wi ncluding egistered ses, and pensure led in the tained fro t, 15 Re 25614/5, ugainst se NIS500 h ccount at wael, No refundat	th the opti- the keepin I trader, the compilian the provision the provision the provision the Buy hov Hazvi Sunday - Johnission as been in the Post the Jerus 12-901-9 ble,	ng of e with lon of the rm. ring Thursday, of a nade, as al Bank, alem 7633/64.
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spec b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tende Jerusaiem (RC 9 a.m 12 nor The document receipt, showin follows: In lerael: A de No. 5-311757. Abroad: A dep central branch The tender-do The receipt ma supplier, inclu	with all I with all I s, registra the nece the n	be for one years. aws, and i tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr - as detai can be obli- inders Dep Tel. 02-39 supplied, a tyment of i Bezeq's a Leurni Leis fee in non- mitted, tog adistered ti	year, wi ncluding egistered ses, and pensure led in the bained fro t, 15 Re 25614/5, igainst se NIS500 h ccount at wael, No returd at gether wit rader's o	th the opti- the keepin I trader, the compilian the provision the provision the provision the provision the Buy hov Hazvi Sunday - Jomission as been m t the Post the Jerus 12-901-9 ke, the details of	ng of e with lon of the rm. ring Thursday, of a nade, as al Bank, alem 7633/64.
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spec b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tende Jerusalem (RC 9 a.m 12 nor The document receipt, showin follows: in lerael: A de No. 5-311757. Abroad: A deg central branch The tender do The receipt ma supplier, includ 2-378113. Rec	titional 3 y with all I s, registra the nece tifications. on of a gu in the bid curnents ars and O oom 609), on. is will be a posit into of Bank i curnents posit into of Bank i curnents ay be aub ling his re relat of the	be for one years. aws, and i tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr - as detai can be obli- inders Dep Tel. 02-39 supplied, a supplied, a gezeq's a Bezeq's a Leumi Leis fee in non- mitted, tog ogistered to e fax trans	year, wi ncluding egisterectises, and pensure led in the bained fro t, 15 Re 25614/5, gainst su NIS500 h ccount at wael, No refundat gether win rader's n mulssion	th the opti- the keepin I trader, the compilian the provision the provision the provision the provision the Buy hov Hazvi Sunday - Jomission as been m t the Post the Jerus 12-901-9 ke, the details of	ng of e with lon of the rm. ring Thursday, of a nade, as al Bank, alem 7633/64.
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spec b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tender Jerusalem (RC 9 a.m 12 nor The document receipt, showin follows: in larael: A de No. 5-311757. Abroad: A dep central branch The tender-do The receipt ma supplier, inclut 2-378113. Rec confirmed, by	itional 3 y with all I s, registra the nece the	be for one years. aws, and i tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr - as detai can be obli- rders Dep Tel. 02-39 supplied, a tyment of I Bezeq's a Leumi Leis fee in non- mitted, tog ggistered to e fax trans	year, wi ncluding egistered ses, and e ensure led in the bained fro t, 15 Re- bained fro t, 1	th the opti- the keepin I trader, the compilan the provision the provisi	ng of e with lon of the rm. ring Thursday, of a nade, as al Bank, alem 7633/64. of the Fax. 972-
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spec b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tende Jerusalem (RC 9 a.m 12 nor The document receipt, showin follows: in larael: A de No. 5-311757. Abroad: A dep central branch The tender-do The receipt ma supplier, includ 2-378113. Rec confirmed, by 3. Bids must be i	itional 3 y with all I s, registra the nece the	be for one years. aws, and i tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr - as detai can be obli- rders Dep Tel. 02-39 supplied, a yment of I Bezeq's a Leurni Leis fee in non- mitted, tog egistered to e fax trans fas box v	year, wi ncluding egistered ses, and pensure led in the bained fro t, 15 Re- bained fro t, 15	th the opti- the keepin I trader, the compilan the provision the provisi	ng of e with lon of the rm. ring Thursday, of a nade, as al Bank, alem 7633/64. of the Fax. 972-
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spece b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tender Jerusaiem (RC 9 a.m 12 nor The document receipt, showin follows: In lerael: A de No. 5-311757. Abroad: A dep central branch The tender-do The receipt mus supplier, includ 2-378113. Rec confirmed, by 3. Bids must be i	ktional 3 y with all I s, registra the nece ifications. And fa gui in the bid curnents ars and O bom 609), on. is will be a posit into of Bank i curnents i ay be aub ding his re- calling for t later the	be for one years. aws, and it tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, to - as detai can be oble rders Dep Tel. 02-35 supplied, a tyment of I Bezeq's a Leurni Leis fee in non- mitted, tog gistered to 2-2-3956, y n 6 pm o	year, wi ncluding egistered ises, and e ensure led in the ained fro t, 15 Re. 95614/5, igainst st NIS500 h ccount ai rael, No. refundat jether with rader's n mission i 4/5. vhich is a	th the opti- the keepin I trader, the compilan the provision the provisi	ng of e ce with lon of the m. ing Thursday, of a nade, as al Bank, alem 7633/64. of the Fax. 972-
The supply agree extend for an add 1. Pre-conditions a. Compliance account books possession of standard spece b. The provisk goods offered 2. The tender do Section, Tender Jerusalem (RC 9 a.m 12 nor The document receipt, showin follows: in larael: A de No. 5-311757. Abroad: A dep central branch The tender-do The receipt ma supplier, inclut 2-376113. Rec confirmed, by	itional 3 y with all I s, registra the nece the nece the acce in the bid curnents ars and O oom 609), on. is will be a posit into of Bank i curnents ay be aub ling his re related the calling 97 in the tend t later tha g is given	be for one years. aws, and i tion as a n ssary ficen arantee, tr - as detai can be obli- rders Dep Tel. 02-39 supplied, a tyment of I Bezeq's a Leumi Leis fee in non- mitted, tog egistered th 2-2-39561 Jers box, v n 6 p.m. o to accept	year, wi ncluding egistered ses, and pensure led in the trained fro t, 15 Re 25614/5, gainst se NIS500 h ccount at wael, No. refundat jether win rader's n mission t 4/5.	th the opti- the keepin I trader, the compilan the provision the provisi	ng of e ce with lon of the m. ing Thursday, of a nade, as al Bank, alem 7633/64. of the Fax. 972-

order all the goods from one supplier. Bids submitted by fax or by telegram will not be considered.

Foreign Reside	ints
Date;	4.1.96
Purchase Price:	108.59
Redemption Price:	107.14
leumi pia xro uxe	• •
nas bei neus general al and al an	un - a cardan
(הושטי) TARGET Mutual Fund for Foreign Resider	r
Dete:	4.1.96
Purchase Price:	146.41

17un / 07

Is the January Effect Affecting You?

RACHEL NEIMAN

CommStock Trading Ltd. Jerusalem: City Tower, 34 Ben Yehuda, Tel. 02-244-963; Fax. 02-244-876 Ramai Gan: Beit Silver, 7 Ahba Hillel, Tel. 03-575-8826/27

Retail Customer Inquiries:

alem Post ICan

fortuations are and the rm

Seed Set at day to the re that

144 144 144

12.7 St. 710

the second secon

ner Addition (1996)

and there is te. AN ALL THE VER

* US dollar ... NIS 3.1330 ----%

The Jerusalem Post

Sterling ..... NIS 4.8563 ----%

Mark ...... NIS 2.1662 ----%

Comex

gold rallies

COMMODITIES

ROUNDUP

COMEX gold rallied early on Friday, supported by the US bad-get impaase and government shutdown, but profit taking prevented prices from reaching the key $400.00 per ounce level, leaving the February contract to close

$1.10 higher at $396.50 an ounce.

Comex silver also experienced a rally on Friday morning and managed to hold on to most of its gains, causing a sharphy higher close on the March contract of $5.55 an ounce, up 14.0 cents.

slide, Comex copper closed with higher gains on Friday, with the 117.05 cents per pound.

In a correction of its recent

Monday, January 8, 1996 Key Representative Rates

-----

Change

BUSINESS & FINANCE

'UK arms firms plotted against Saudi dissident to protect deal'

LONDON (Reuter) - Britain's pendent revealed that Britain's biggest arms companies stood accused over the weekend of working with government ministers and spy agencies to silence a Saudi dissident whose activities risked undermining huge defense deals with Riyadh.

The claims by the Guardian newspaper, based on a leaked report by the chief executive of defense firm Vickers, followed Britain's deciaion to deport opposition leader Mohammed Masari to protect trade with Saudi Arabia.

Vickers is bidding for a tank contract with Riyadh as part of the multi-billion pounds al-Yamamah deal signed in the mid-1980s.

In a separate report, the Indenewly-appointed ambassador to Saudi Arabia, Andrew Green, is a non-executive director of Vickers.

Masari, 49, has waged a relentless campaign against Saudi Arabia, arriving in Britain through Yemen last year. He has accused the Sandi royal family of corruption and called for a peaceful transition to Islamic rule. Vickers acknowledged this week that it had warned the Britiah government of the threat posed to its contracts by Saudi anger over Masari'a activities. The Guardian document reveals that Britain passed to Saudi Arabia secret intelligence on Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein last year to calm Saudi anger over Masari. The three-page internal memo written by Vickers chief executive Sir Colin Chandler also refers to "direct Sandi intervention" against the activist and attempts to "stifle him personally." Vickers has declined to comment on the leak.

The memo described a discussion between Chandler and British Aerospace chief executive Dick Evans, who reported anxiety in the CIA about the impact. of Masari'a campaign.

British Aerospace had also been studying ways of trying to stop Masari sending his material into Saudi Arabia through the world-wide Internet computer system.

In another passage, Chandler writes: "Direct Saudi intervention against him [Masari] could be difficult ... because he is the son of a leading cleric in the kingdom."

Masari has been given 10 days to appeal against the British deportation order. The Caribbean island of Dominica has agreed to accept him, but Masari has no connections there. Former British armed forces minister Sir Archie Hamilton defended the government's decision, saying it was right to put national interests first.

"My understanding of n is the Saudis were making it quite clear that there would be no order for these tanks so long as he [Masari] remained in London," he said.

Shares fall on inflation fears

TEL AVIV STOCK MARKET

prices 15 percent.

While the budget reduction and price hikes were designed to reduce the halance-of-payments deficit, they raised concern that inflation will increase.

"The Finance Ministry's plan wasn't taken so well by investors," said Itzik Winish, manager of Tel Aviv investment firm Capital Fnture Markets. "There weren't real budget cuts."

"The fuel price hike could bring about inflation," Winish said. "It will be hard for [Bank of Israel Governor Jacob] Frenkel to lower interest rates."

Other top issues with declines included Koor Industries Lid., which fell 2.75%; Israel Chemicals Ltd., which fell 2%, and Bezeg dropped 0.75%, although it announced it had won a lease to supply cellular phone service in Gujarat, India.

Losses were offset by gains in oil companies, which soared after Israel National Oil Co. said it had found an oil stream at a pace of 30-40 barrels per hour in one of its wells. The company said it was continuing to carry out checks at the well. (Bloomberg)

difficulty in receiving approval from the US Food and Drug Administration, traders said. The Maof Index fell 0.96 percent to 220.76, and the Two-Sided lndex dropped 0.71% to Of 1,011 issues trading across Bank Hapoalim, which fell 1%. the exchange, some six shares

rose for every five that fell. Some NIS 104.5 million worth of shares traded, NIS 30.4m. below last Thursday's level and NIS 8.4m. below last week's average trading level.

gains amid concern that increasing inflation, boosted by tax increases, will prevent the Bank of Israel from reducing interest

Pharmaceuticals fell three percent, following a drop in Teva's

American Depositary Receipts

Investors were concerned that

Teva's multiple sclerosis treatment Copaxone may enconnter traded in New York.

Leading the declines, Teva

Share prices fell as the cabinet voted to cut NIS 1.3 billion from its fiscal 1996 bndget of NIS 172.8b, and the Finance

Intel Corp. revealed over the overstated test results for some of its processors.

213.65.

property and other issues.

daring 1995.

lion) in the sector over the 1996-2000 plan period, the Economic Information Daily said. This would double its share of total industri-

investment to 4% from 2% in the 1991-95

The Santa Clara, Californiabased chipmaker, the world's bigd the error on the beta compiler it uses in an industrystandard test that compares the relative performances of computer chips. Accordingly, results for Pentinm processors with performance speeds of 100 MHz and higher that were reported from September 1, 1995, onward, and Pentium Pro processors introduced on November 1, 1995, were about 10 percent higher than they should have been. "We are embarrassed and truly sorry for this overaight," the company said in a statement. In 1994, an academic discovered that the Pentium chip could go awry on certain high-speed math calculations. Even though the defect potentially affected a tiny fraction of users, Intel was slow to own up to the problem and found itself embroiled in a public relations nightmare. Intel spokesman Howard High said the company was accordingly taking a different tack this time. "Rather than hiding it or saying it's not important, we basical-

Intel finds bug in chip performance gauge LOS ANGELES (Reuter) - Re- ly share that information ont pubviving memories of 1994's embarrassing defect in its Pentium chip, licly and if we take a shot in the stomach, we take a shot in the stomach." he said in an interweekend that a computer bug . view. "It's better than having someone discover it and say, 'Oh, gee, Intel's pulling a fast one here."" He said the latest problem did not affect the chips themselves. because they also underwent a battery of other tests that were not defective. He said the company is currently investigating whether customers had bonght chips solely on the basis of the defective test. The error arose in the SPE-Cint92 suite of tests devised by SPEC, a cooperative computer industry group that develops benchmarks for measuring true processor performance. This test is being phased out in favor of the more modern SPECint95. Each chipmaker installs its own "compiler" that shows its chips in the best light to adjust for the fact that different processors have different coding. Intel'a results aroused auspiciona among other chipmakers. who came out with different results for the Pentium, forcing Intel to conduct a review of its procedures during which the bug was discovered, High said. He said no one would lose their jobs as a result of the error, and the company would learn from the experience and move on.

China's automobile industry not hurt from reduction in import duties

Government to cut tariffs to average of 23% from April 1

March contract up 3.25 cents at BEIJING (Reuter) - China's tariff cuts on imported cars will not hart domestic car manufacturers, which will remain protected from foreign competition, official media said vesterday.

Beijing has promised to cut import tariffs on 4,000 items from April 1 this year to an average of 23 percent.

It has not yet given a complete list of the items nor said officially if the import tariffs on vehicles will be lowered.

"Reliable sources said the cuts are likely to be made on cars but will not be so big as to trigger floods of imports to squeeze out domestic products," the China Daily said.

Last week Beijing said it had scrapped the need for import permits and quotas on motor vehicle chassis equipped with engines as of December 31, 1995.

longer required included air-conditioners without cooling units, vehicle bodies, except for sedan cars, axles and differentials, it said. Current import tariffs on cars are more than 100% and thousands of cars are smuggled in,

 43.00
 5.4
 Property, Building

 191.00
 & Agriculture

 643
 1.1
 Name
 Price Xchy

 7500
 6.4
 builtipo
 440
 0.3

 364 1.5
 iscolary 450
 -1.3

 364.0 1.5
 iscolary 450
 -1.3

 360.0 0.4
 wethon 7215
 1.5

 360.0 0.4
 Associat
 1200
 1.6

 7092
 -1.0
 Associat
 1200
 1.6

 71092
 1.0 Associat
 1200
 1.6

 71092
 1.0 Associat
 1216
 1.0

 71092
 1.0 Associat
 1216
 1.0

 71092
 1.0 Associat
 1216
 1.0

 71093
 1.0 Associat
 1210
 1.0

 7100
 1.0 Associat
 1210
 1.0

 7101
 1.0 Associat
 1210
 1.0

 71010
 1.0

AytCi Antpyci Antpyci Antpyci Antpyci Antpol Antpol Antpol Collection Collect

248,490 in the same 1994 period, customs figures show.

Imports fell because of a tight credit policy and a slump in domestic prices, the China Daily said.

Prices would continue to fall in 1996 as Chinese automakers plan to boost output, and local governments are expected to jack up taxes and fees on vehicles to raise money for infrastructure projects and alleviate worsening traffic congestion, it said.

Volkswagen's joint venture in Shanghai, China's largest producer of passenger cars, plans to make 220,000 vehicles in 1996, up from 160.000 in 1995, it said.

Foreign carmakers who want to increase their share of a fast growing market are waiting eagerly to learn if their products are among the 4,000 and, if so, how big the cuts will be.

Economists said the cuts would not be enough to make it more economic for foreign makers to abandon plans to produce in China and rely instead on exports from their own home countries.

In the first 11 months of 1995, China had 3018 In all 1995, China produced 1.5 million legal imports of 137,544 vehicles, down from ac Helicles, np. from 1,402 million in 1994, the

PARALLEL LIST

PARALLEL LIST Trade & Services Name Pias Score adda 1425 3.3 a

Property, Buil Name Price Addrif 31 stonibulz 8511 grander 810 grander 80 grander 80

1768 238 23 559 23 7500 14 1785 10,0 4053 5,0 10453 5,0 10453 6,0 10453 6,0 10453 6,0 10450 6,1 829 -21 829 -21 71,50 -27

Viewin 71.50 Oli Exploration Name Pice % Adac 10.10 Amer 2.00 DROEEX 824 Naphin 21.50

Economic Information Daily said.

China's vehicle industry cannot compete with foreign producers because of low quality, backward technology, scattered production, heavy reliance on imports for components and poor design capability, the newspaper said. All this means that, even when China has entered the World Trade Organization (WTO), its "kindergarten" vehicle industry will continue to need protection, it said. China wanted to enter the WTO when it was set up in January 1995. But it was unable to join because of objections from WTO members over lack of market access, inadequate protection of intellectual

Negotiations on its WTO entry continued

China wants to turn its auto industry into one of the pillars of the national economy. It plans to invest 279.7 billion yuan ($33.7 bil-

plan period. The biggest share of the cash would go into making passenger cars.

Ministry decided to raise fuel

7.755

Arg 11

10.10

27.15

1.1.

1 ·

М

uldren

177

The general feeling is that the market has not yet bottomed out, The sectors as LME stocks hit record one-n i strikter. year highs and are expected to continue rising. Bullish export commitment reports on Friday morning, as well 1:.... as continued dry weather in the corn-growing areas, boosted Chot corn prices in volatile 1997.0 and the strengt trading. 1.1

However, reports of rain in South America finally pressured the market to close lower with the March contract down 21/2 cents at $3.661/2 per bushel. Fund liquidation pushed Cbot

March wheat futures to close 61/4 cents a bushel lower at $4.931/2 on Friday.

The market failed to gain support from a report that Egypt had purchased 650,000 tonnes of soft red winter wheat because sale. prices were low and discouraging ... ...Soybean futures ended lower on reports of expected rainfall in president South America - mainly in Brazil. and Argentina.

Items for which import permits were no

Comme Banks Nanw Indowek Indow

ex. (*15 selii Naane Adamia Carmel Carmel CorneCa Fratike Indepte Inde

Financial

 Tracker
 Pite series

 Insurance
 Pite series

 Insurance
 Pite series

 Ayatan
 2021

 Ayatan
 2021

 Ayatan
 2021

 Ayatan
 2021

 Banch
 2021

 Ayatan
 2021

 Banch
 2021

 Hatar
 406

 Banch
 2021

 Hatar
 406

 Hatar
 406

 Hatar
 406

 Hatar
 407

 Hatar
 408

 Hatar
 407

 Hatar
 408

 Hatar
 407

 Hatar 1022

 Howsh
 2032 Phowsh

 2233

 Phowsh
 2235

 Solar 7238

 Phowsh
 2235

 Solar 7238

 Phowsh
 2203

 Battrist
 810

 Battrist
 810

 Battrist
 810

 Ba

Yona industrials Norme astogunk T inco yetoclast Acteor Acteor

16 Price Startig 175.50 29 494 -0.4 595 1.5 504 -1.8 131.50 0.8 246 -3.1 500 378 -0.5 248 -8.2

1.

-3.1 10.0

Oil Exploration Name Price %

Price %ctug 600

 Prios X-drg

 Prios X-drg

 Bi0
 1.2

 ST 14000

 1992
 45518

 2008
 2008

 2008
 2008

 2008
 2008

 2005
 2006

 2005
 2005

 2005
 2005

 2005
 2005

 1212
 -1.5

 1213
 144.00

 2010 3205

 2020
 1.1

 12005
 2.00

 1217
 214

 2005
 2.00

 12005
 2.00

 12177
 2005

 12000
 0.4

 2005
 2.01

 1117 204

 2055
 1.1

 2050
 0.4

 2051
 1.10

 2

Price Sichg. 20004 - 1.7 183.00

145882 -1.2 498 -0.8 147.00

Prize %chg 1021 519 -7.3

 Montgage
 Banks

 & Fitsance
 Name

 Name
 Price %chg

 Adenica
 360452

 Carmel 444

 CorroC3
 253

 FruitM0
 43172
 0.7

 IndepMB
 60288
 1

 Jemc
 153.50
 0.4

 JemcRRF
 153.53
 -1.9

 LeumalkFR
 60251
 -1.5

 Michty
 7176
 7763

 Toteback
 163568
 163568

Mortgage Banks

Demand strengthened as cxport commitments jumped higher than expected, but failed to turn the market around.

January sovbeans ended 34 cents a bushel lower at $7.44%. March was down five at $7.53% per bushel.

Speculative bnying boosted Nyce cotton prices on Friday, and the most active March contract closed up 0.28 cents at 83.63 cents a pound. May closed 0.10 cents higher at 82.90 cents a pound.

Fund and commission house buying pushed Csce world sugar prices to a nine-month high on the close on Friday.

Traders noted that the market remained fundamentally strong, with continued supply tightness in the first quarter of 1996.

The March contract closed up 0.17 cents to 11.89 cents a pound. Csce arabica coffee futures closed lower on Friday in a choppy trading session, sources said.

Traders downplayed reports of bad weather in Latin America, which has helped to lift prices in

Germany

sees growth

in '96 at 2%

BONN (Reuter) - German Economics Minister Guenter Rexrodt said yesterday he expected the German economy to expand

in 1996 at a relatively narrow rate

Rexroct said in an interview with German Radio he did not foresee the economy brimming over during 1996 after the econorecent days. The March contract ended 1.60 cents per pound lower at 96.25. Courtesy of Michael Zwebner, CommStock Trading Ltd.

lS 15h .

ERE : Level

POST Level

2

my grew more hesitantly than expected last year. "It will be at about 2%," Rexrodt said in the radio interview of expected growth for 1996.

of about two percent.

Rexposit's comments came after Germany's Bild newspaper reported during the weekend that German real economic growth in 1996 was expected to be at about 2% and the average number of unemployed workers would stay at abouted.5 million.

The mass-circulation daily, citing government estimates to be presented in a report in late January, said inflation was expected to remain stable at almost 2%.

TEL AVIV STOCKS Multi-sided trading

Atris ( Atris ( Again Again Again

Formula Fredinti-Fredinti-Fredinti-Fredinti-Hapoela Hapoela Hapoel

Martin Madii Mahadri Mahadri Mahadri

Nice1 Oolf .... Omat Osen Pazoile

Pericles. Pericles.

Perché Piryon Polget Rogest Secom SelaPut State State Supersi Tambou

Two-sided trading

- 3787 - 3787 - 511 - 511 - 390554 - 343213 - 5569 - 2780 - 913 - 13867 - 1783 - 13867 - 1783 - 13867 - 1783 - 13867 - 1783 - 13867 - 13867 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 2780 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 2780 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 2780 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 2780 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 2780 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2780 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2638 - 1965 - 2635 - 2765 - 2765 - 2776

. 2293 . 1718

2636 ... 326 ... 65.5 13147 ... 294 ... 7037

137965 . 190.5

SOURCE: 3 ISRAEL DISCOUNT BANK

2022222222

-4.0 -2.5

1.2

-22 -1.0 455000 1.0 124500 1.0 124500 1.0 124500 1.0 3040 -2.0 728000 -0.2 23400 -0.2 23400 -0.2 23400 -0.2 23400 -0.2 23400 -0.2 23400 -0.2 23400 -1.2 25000 -1.2 25000 -1.2 25000 -1.2 25000 -1.2 25000

AFTERNOON MORNING Volume Shares 4050 % Volume Price Change Shares Price Change -3.0 6378 9.8 578 9.8 577 0.5 65 -0.3 7763 9.7 10808 0.5 20105 0.3 4069 -0.3 2541 4.5 14610 50063 21505 21505 21505 21505 21505 21505 3072 28882 2.3 4483 34154 1.3 2650 -0.7 28019 -1 3500 -0.5 2365 849 1993 2555 1559 27466 3.2 20458 22355 1559 27466 3.2 20458 2355 1559 27466 3.2 20458 2355 1559 27466 3.2 20458 2355 1559 27466 3.2 20458 2355 1559 27466 3.2 20458 3.2 587 3.3 580 -0.3 3578 3.3 578 3.3 578 3.3 578 3.3 578 3.3 578 3.3 578 3.3 578 3.3 578 3.3 578 3.3 578 3.3 578 3.3 588 3.3 578 207252752228952 7000 210 80 1750 4200 7000 330 16000 235200 7000 2400 90000 32750 30000 7200 50000 21600 2800 52800 12 2.5 -0.7 1.0 1.2 -22 -0.2 800 -0.7 -2.7 -0.2 11700 5440 4500 18200 25200 300 33600 500 165 4800

0.8

-12

-20 1.5 25

THE PEOPLE YOU CAN DAUK TO.

-1.2 1821 5076 0.5 16759 -0.8 2010 -1.9 75534 5874 1.9 61438 10.1

(Continued from Page 1) "those who don't like it can go and drink the water of the Dead Sea."

The feeling for Ayyash was strong in among the elders in Dura. "Ayyash vented all our frustrations accumulated over 28 years of occupation and humiliation," one turbaned kadi said. Meanwhile, the investigation into the explosion that killed Ayyash on Friday was at "an advanced stage," said PA Attorney-General Khalid al-Kidrah.

While the General Security Service is considered ultimately responsible, others pointed to the owner of the building in which Ayyash was killed.

Kamal Hamad, a wealthy businessman and contractor who knew Ayyash was living in his nephew Osama's apartment and had supplied the mobile phone he used, phoned his sister on Friday afternoon and surprised her by saying, "I am on my way to the US and not coming back to Gaza." He also asked after Osama's health.

Osama, who shared the second-floor apartment in Beit Lahiya with Ayyash, was released yesterday after an investigation by the Palestinian Police. Two of his brothers, Ikrimeh and Salameh, are still being held but are later it exploded.

LIQUIDATION

also expected to be released. There were reports that others are being held, but none is considered a serious suspect.

Osama, who studied with "The Engineer" at Bir Zeit University more than 10 years ago, revealed that his uncle had been suspected of collaboration. However, for lack of hard evidence, the Fatah Hawks let him pay them off.

Osama said that he had told Hamad his friend Ayyash was coming to live with him five months ago. Hamad offered Osama a job and a mobile phone, which Ayyash never used. However, after Hamas organizers of suicide bombings were arrested . in Nablus a few months ago, Ayyash threw out his own mobile phone, fearing the number was known to Israeli intelligence.

Hamad frequently took the phone from Osama for a day or two.

On the day of the explosion, he told Osama to keep the phone open, as he was expecting a call, and he asked him to take a message for him. Ayyash was also expecting a call from his father, ! but on a regular phone that went dead.

The call from Ayyash'a father came in on the mobile phone. Osama took it, and then handed . the phone to Ayyash. Seconds in jerusten por

SPORTS

The Jerusalem Post Monday, January 8, 1996

Sanders comes through for Dallas

1RVING (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys finally got their $35 mil-lion worth out of Deion Sanders and danced right into their fourth straight NFC championship

Sanders, despite his $250,000 per quarter salary, had little impact until yesterday, when he took a reverse 21 yards for a touchdown that broke a 3-3 tie at 4:35 of the second quarter. The Cowhoys went oo to heat the Philadelphia Eagles 30-11 and will try for their third Super Bowl trip in four years when they play Green Bay at home next Sunday.

FAST MOVES - Newcastle's Peter Beardsley slides to intercept the ball from Chelsea's Eddie (AP) Randall Cunningham.

> left in the half and the Eagles kicked three field goals and Troy Aikman hit Michael Irvin with a quarter.

1967 "Ice Bowl" game at Lam-

For the Eagles, 14-point underdogs, it was the end to an amazing year under coach of the year Ray Rhodes, who guided Philadelphia to a 10-6 regular season and a 58-37 rout of Detroit in the wild card round. The win served as sweet vindication for Dallas coach Barry Switzer, who was criticized from coast-to-coast for his abortive fourth-and-1 call from his own 29

Eagles. Switzer didn't have any tough calls this time except for fourth down at the Eagles, 1 and he called for the field goal. Dailas is 13-4 in Switzer's second season.

OuDo. Yesterday's results: Cheisen 1, Newcastie 1; Derby 2, Leeds 4;

English FA Cap fourth round draw: Follam er Skrewsbury v Liverpool; Chariton v Brentford; Inswich er Bischburn v Waisell; Bolton v Leeds; Queen's Park Rangers v Chebra or Newtrastle;

It was his 14th NFL touchdown and the first time in his sevenyear career he scored on a run from the line of scrimmage. It was the kind of play owner Jerry Jones dreamed about when he gave Sanders a $13 million bonus to leave the 49ers.

ENG

THE

х.

1. - .

. •

12.7

. • •

14

D

÷., . . .

$ 274

.....

· · · ·

CD.;-1 inte

.

1. A. .

100 B. 10

CLASS

NUS

For the day, Sanders ran for a touchdown, caught a pass, and intercepted a pass.

The second-qoarter touchdown came after the clubs traded field goals, a 24-yarder by Boniol, aod a 26-yarder by Gary Anderson.

Dallas made it 17-3 oo a 79yard drive in which Aikman completed a 37-yard pass to Kevin Williams and a 26-yarder to Daryl Johnstoo. Smith then scored from a yard out.

Peete, who had the flu to start with, was knocked woozy in a second-quarter collision with safety Darreo Woodson. Cuoningham missed practice all week because he was in Las Vegas, where he wife had a son.

Peete, who led the Eagles to a 20-17 win over Dallas on December 10 after trailing 17-6 at halftime, never returned to the game.

Brett Favre moved Green Bay within a victory of their first Super Bowl 1967 Saturday, throwing for touchdowns and leading Green Bay to a victory.

Favre completed 21 of 28 passes for 299 yards, including 15 of 17 for 222 yards in the first half as the Packers took a 21-3 lead over host San Francisco. Favre was in such incredible form, he completed a 28-yard pass to Keith Jackson after slipping down as he was dropping back. But Favre was aided by near-perfect defensive schemes devised by a coaching staff headed by former 49ers offensive coordinator Mike Holmgren.

The Packers last played in the NFL. title game when the legendary Vince Lombardi was their coach and titles were as routine as they have been for the 49ers in the last 15 years.

The Packers (13-5) won the way the 49ers (11-6) have done so often, producing a quick score on a humover -Craig Newsome's 31-yard fumble re-num - and running off to a 21-0 lead in the first 19 minutes.

The 49ers hardly looked like the machine they've so often been. Their best play in the first half, a Denter Carter kickoff return that would have statted them at the Packers 34, was negated by an iRegal block by Anino ny Peterson.

Divisional playoffs

(Saturday) Pittsburgh 40, Bultalo 21 Green Bay 27, San Francisco 17

Katzurin's club the victory over the visiting southerners.

Mac. TA suffers

State Cup loss

to Rishon, 104-91

RICHARD ZAACKS

MACCABI Tel Aviv's recent woes continued last night as they were thrashed 104-91 hy Maccabi Rishon Lezion in State Cup quarter finals play last night.

10

The loss means Maccabi will have to overcome the 13-point deficit at Yad Eliahn in the next round of play scheduled for Febллагу 21.

Bnei Herzliya recovered from their Korac Cup problems thanks to a three-point huzzer-beater by John Hudson to beat visiting Hapoel Eilat 90-89. Second divisioo Maccahi Ra'anana surprised Hapoel Jerusalem 78-77 and Hapoel Galil Elyon heat Maccahi Netanya 77-64 in other quarterfinal action.

Maccabi Rishon Lezion 104 Maccabi Tel Aviv 91

Even though cnach Ralph Klein's club had the halftime lead of 50-48, the outcome was never in doubt in the second half as Maccabi Rishon dominated from then on.

Maccabi once again experienced a defensive collapse as Klein's attempt to go to a smaller line-up in the second half fizzled. Tom Chambers scored 15 and Doron Jamchee 21 for Maccabi, while Radisav Curcic had 22, but Maccabi was again unable to stop an offensive onsla

James Gulley, who had 21 poiots, dominated inside and Oded Katash and Nadav Henefeld were never in the game in the second half. Brian Oliver led for Rishon with 31 points, while Alexander Nicolax scored 18 off the bench.

Buci Herzliya 90, Hapoel Eilat 89 Eilai's disappointing season got even sadder when John Hudson hit his clock-beating shot to give Muli to 43-41 at halftime. Eilat led throughout the entire second half and with 4:50 to go was up 79-73. However, Hudson and Katz cut Eilat's lead to 87-86 with 45 sec-onds remaining. Hudson tied it 87-all with 10 seconds left before Ari Rosenberg was fouled on a coasi-iocoast lay-up with four seconds left. Rosenberg made both free throws, before Hudson's last shot won it.

Katz led Herzliya with 27 points and Ardinti had 25. For Eilat, J.J. Eubanks scored 19 and Rosenberg 17.

Mac. Ra'anana 78 Hap. Jerusalem 77 Paul Thompson – who helped beat Jerusalem in similar fashion last season while with Bnei Herzliya - scored the winning basket in the final sec-onds to give second division Ra'anana the win

Ra'anana started strong, opening with a lead of 13-6 after six minutes, but Jerusalem pulled ahead to make it 35-30 at halftime.

In the second half, ltzhik Cohen (19) and Moshe Agami caught fire and paved he way for a Ra'anana win. Norris Coleman led visiting Jerusa-lem with 22, and it is doubtful the one-point margin will hold up in

Hapoel Galil Elyon 77 Maccabi Netanya 64

Galil enjoyed an easy win over its second division opponent, in a game that couldn't even qualify as practice. Galil now looks sure of a place in the semifinals.

Andrew Kennedy led with 20, and Gur Shelef had 15. For Netanya, David Wilton had 25.

CLEVELAND (AP) - With Sha- 27 points, and Andernee quille O'Neal sidelined by a sore Hardaway scored 23. thigh, Orlando's seven-game winning streak ended Saturday night as the Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Magic 105-94.

Chris Mills scored 23 points and Bohby Phills 20 for Cleveland, which has won nine of its last 11 home games against Orlando.

The Magic were missing two starters. O'Neal, who suited up but did not play, was nursing a

The Magic trailed 55-51 at halftime and kept it close until midway through the fourth quarter, when Dan Majerle scored the last eight points of a 10-0 Cleveland run that put the Cavs ahead 95-80 with 6:15 to play. Orlando got no closer than 10

SATURDAY'S RESULTS:

after that.

LONDON (Reuter) - A dramatic equalizer from Les Ferdinand after three minutes of injury time earned Premier League leader Newcastle a 1-1 draw with Chelsea in the third round of the English FA Cup yesterday.

Newton vesterday.

With Chelsea seconds away from its second 1-0 home triumph of the season against Newcastle, Ferdinand took advantage of a poor clearance from Chelsea goalkeeper Dmitry Kharin aod fired through his legs from an angle to force the replay.

Uotil that moment, Chelsea seemed certain to make a 35th-minute goal from former Manchester Uoited striker Mark Hoghes stand up despite a withering late onslaught from Newcastle.

Cup holder Eventon also faces a replay after being held to a 2-2 home draw hy Second Divisioo Stockport, which twice came from behind to draw level.

Leeds United fell behind 2-0 against First Division leader Derby County early in the second half but rammed home four goals for a 4-2 away triumph. Gary McAllister scored in the last minute of regulation time to put Leeds in front and Ghanaian striker Tony Yeboah added another in injury time.

Southampton of the Premier League, with Matthew Le Tissier back from a calf injury, beat First Division Portsmouth 3-0 in another third round match.

With the seconds ticking away in injury time, Kharin needed only to kick the ball way upfield to leave Chelsea safe, But he opfed instead for a short pass out to a learn mate.

It was intercepted by Belgian Philippe Albert who blocked the ball forward to Ferdinand and the big striker made no mistake to fire in the 23rd goal of his first season with Newcestle since his transfer from Newcastle will be favored in the replay for it has won all 11 of its Premier League matches at its St. James' Park home this season. Victory would earn it another visit to London to play QPR, Ferdinand's former club, in the fourth > round. Chelses's lead was no more than it deserved after it dominated the early exchanges.

In the 35th minute, little England midfielder Dennis Wise wriggled free of his marker to hoist a long ball to Terry Phelan oo the left wing. Phelan had plenty of space and time to hit a superb cross which Hughes headed home.

Chelsea had chances to increase its lead but it seemed to have weathered a late onslaught by the visitors until Kharin's indiscreet clearance was cruel-

Stockport, which for much of the second half had

Alan Armstrong equalized in the 31st minute before Gary Ablett gave Eventoo the lead again a minute before the interval.

from a brave diving header from Ian Helliwell. Stockport had several good chances to get, the : winner but if will fancy the replay on its hame ground.

Everton Z, Sto ciport 2; Southampton 3, Portsuo

game

ا کې

The Eagles, who split regularseason games with the Cowboys, lost their spark early in the second quarter after quarterback Rodney Peste was knocked out of the game with a concussion. He was replaced hy an ineffective

Emmitt Smith made it 17-3 with a 1-yard TD run with 3:42 never recovered. Chris Boniol 9-yard TD pass io the fourth

The Cowhoys have defeated the Packers six consecutive times, including two playoff games. The Packers beat Dallas 21-17 in that beau Field

in a December 10 loss to the Sanders finally made a dramatic play for the Cowboys - and it came on offense. He got the ball from Aikman on a flanker roverse but discovered end Mike Mamula waiting. Sanders, the fastest player in the NFL at 4.1 in the 40, quickly changed directions and got a block from Irvin and scored standing up. Sanders then gave the chilled fans a hot renditioo of

Late Ferdinand equalizer

saves Newcastle in FA Cup

ly punished by Ferdinand. Eventoo was giveo the fright of its life by gallant > Evertoo fighting a desperate rearguard action. Everton, without hamstring victim Duncan Ferguson, took the lead in the seventh minute through top scorer Graham Stuart.

The second equalizer came in the 61st minute strained left quadriceps muscle; Nick Andersoo sat out hecause of a sprained right toe. Dennis Scott led Orlando with

Charlotte 50, Affanto 90 Cleveland 105, Orlando 94 Detroit 90, Washington 82 Chicago 113, Milwankae 84 Houston 99, Indiana 87 Miami 88, Denver 36 Sacramento 115, Golden State 106

Sheffer scores 15 in UConn's 73-52 victory over Miami

HARTFORD (AP) - Ray Alleo take control for good. aod Doroo Sheffer shook off sluggish starts and No. 7 Copoecticut used hig runs in each half to overcome Miami 73-52 in a physical matchup Saturday night.

Allen, who was hitting the front iron and even launched an uncharacteristic airball on a 3point attempt in the first half, led the Huskies with 19 points to move up to No. 10 on the school's scoring list.

Sheffer, who followed Allen's airball with one of his own from the arc early in the first half, added 15 points and Kirk King had 11. Steven Edwards led Miami with 13 points and Steve Rich added 10.

The Huskies (12-1, 4-0 Big East), who found themselves trailing three times in the first 13 minutes against Miami (8-4, 2-2), used a 12-0 run late in the first half to come from behind and

UCooo won its 11 straight heading into today's showdown with eighth-ranked Villanova, which kept pace with UCoon atop the Big East standings by beating No. 24 Boston College. CONNECTICUT 73, MIAMI 52

CONNECTICUT 73, MIAMI 52 MIAMI (8-4) Fraser 2-5 0-0 4, Edwards 4-8 4-4 13, Rich 5-7 0-010, Norris 1-5 0-02, Clark 3-7 2-29, Pearson 7-1 0-02, Frazier 0-6 0-00, Roga 0-0 0-00, James 4-100-18, McCor-mick 0-0 2-22, Davis 0-1 0-00, Donovan 0-1 0-20, Barker 0-0 2-22, Waggoner 0-0 0-00, Totals 20-51 9-13 52. CONNECTICUT (12-1)

0-0 0. Totais 20-51 9-13 52. CONNECTICUT (12-1) King 4-10 3-3 11, Johnson 2-3 0-1 4, Knight 2-6 0-0 4, Sheffer 4-18 4-4 15, Allen 7-19 2-2 19, Hayward 0-1 0-0 0, More 1-3 2-2 4, Jones 3-4 3-3 9, Inyatidin 1-1 0-0 2, Carson 1-1 0-0 3, Klaiber 1-2 0-0 2. Totais 28-66 14-15 73. Haintime – Connecticut 32, Miami 27, 3-Print carals – Miami 3-13 /Echeants 2-3

Halftime - Connecticut 32, Miami 27, 3-Point goals - Miami 3-13 (Edwards 2-3, Clark 1-3, Norris 0-2, Frazer 0-5), Con-necticut 7-17 (Allen 3-6, Sheffer 3-9, Car-son 1-1, Jones 0-1). Fouled out - None. Rebounds - Miami 33 (James, Rich 6), Connecticut 42 (Kright, King 10). Assists - Miami 9 (Clark 3), Connecticut 15 (Allen 5), Total fouls - Miami 15, Connecticut 16. A - 18,294.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Sherf leaves Limoges

Zvi Sherf walked out as coach of the France's Limoges basketball team on Saturday night, apparently over a management dispute.

"Because of problems between Sherf and management, the sides have decided to go their separate ways," an official club announcement said.

Limoges, second in the French league with a 14-2 record, defeated Bnei Herzliya 91-83 in European Cup play Wednesday to go 4-2 in the final pool.

Sherf, who is also Israel's national team coach, has returned home and is currently taking a break. As Israel's top coach he will not have to wait long before considering a string of joh offers which will undoubtedly come his way.

"I will definitely coach again, either here or abroad," Sherf told ETV's Erev Hadash news program yesterday.

Post Sports Staff

AP

Faulk surgery successful

The Indianapolis Colts announced Saturday that running back Marshall Faulk underwent successful arthroscopic surgery Friday as doctors removed two loose particles from his left knee.

SCOREBOARD

NHL - Saturday's results: Boston 5, Hartford 2; N.Y. Islanders 5, Ottaws 4; Baffalo 7, Montreal 6; New Jersey 3, Washington 1; Toronto 5, Colorado 2; Detroit 3, Chicago 6; Calgary 2, Florida 0; Si. Louis 3, Pittsburgh 2; Vancouver 9, Tampa Bay 2; Los Angeles 7, Son Jen Queen's Park Rangers.

2

It ruised a superh performance from Chelsea which for most of the match was the better team, its players repeatedly exposing chinks in the Newcastle defense.

City: Middleshrough v Weitford or Winholdon; Reading v Manchester City: Middleshrough v Weitford or Winholdon; Reading v Manches-ter United or Sonderland; Stoke or Nottingtam Forest v Millwall or Oxford; Sonthanspton v Crewe; Swindon v Barneley or Oklians; Everion or Stockport v Crystal Palace or Port Vale; West Hans v Gelandy: Assemal or Sheffield United v Anton Villa: Hereford or (yesercay) Dallas 30, Philadelphin 11 Indianapolis at Kansas City Conference championship (Sunday, Jan. 14) Pitsburgh vs. K. City-Indian layers repeatedly exposing chinks lefense.	in the Newcashe Grinsby; Arsenal o Tottenhun v Birnis	r Sheffield United v Aaton Villa; Hereford or ngham or Wolverhampton.	one of his old time prances.	Pittsburgh vs. K. City-Indianapolis winner Green Bay at Dallas

CLASSIFIEDS	OPPORTUNITY!! BNE! B'TEIRA St., 125 sq.m., + options, first floor, flexible, immediate. $270,000. Tel. 02-784185.		SITUATIONS VACANT	SITUATIONS VACANT Sharon Area
RATES	RANOT, 3 ROOMS, nicest area, 1st floor, view, special 02-864217, NS.	SALES	GENERAL	HOUSEHOLD HELP
PRICES ARE AS FOLLOWS · AI rates notuce VAT: Single Waskday · NIS 99.45 for 10 words minimum), each additionel word NIS 9.64 FRIDAY AND HOLIDAY EVE · NIS	SHA'ARAI HESSED, REHAVIA, comer house, 4 floors + air-conditioning, magnifi- cent, $1,250,000. Tel. 02-384-314.	CAESAREA: LUXURIOUS HOUSE, pool, desirable neighborhood, amazing	SHAI GREENBURG SALON seeks professional hairdressar. Tel. 03-522-	FINNISH/ISRAELI FAMILY SEEKS matapalet for two children, alternoons, good salary. Tel. 03-5405769.
52.10 10 words (minimum), each addi- onai word NIS 15.21.	WHERE TO STAY	sea view. Tel. 06-383261, 050-231725.	3979.	SAVIYON- FILIPINO COUPLE, or man, for household help, live-in,
ONDAY, WEDNESDAY and FRI- AY (package) - NIS 234.00 for 11 words inimum], eech additional word - NIS	rate. Up to 5 guests welcome. Fac: 972-2- $11385. Phone 972-2-810870.	GREEN HERZLIYA: COTTAGE, 5, basement, 300 sq.m. lot, $485,000, quiet. Tel. 09-507826.	HOUSEHOLD HELP	Tel 03-5345621
3.40. TEEK RATE (8 insentions) - NIS 315.90 r 10 words (minimum), each additional	DWELLINGS Tel Aviv	HERZLIVA PITUACHIL FOR QUICK	bestil The biggest and oldest agency in Israel. For the bighest quality live-in joha	TEACHERS
ord - NIS 31.59. DUR FRIDAYS (package) - NIS 19.50 for 10 words (minimum), each ad-	HOLIDAY RENTALS	DECISION!! In Galei Tchelet st., house + dunam. $1,800,000. Tel 09-540894, 050-231725.	phone Au Pair International. 03-6190423.	English teacher P/T. Starts February. Tet. 09-962-613.
ional word · NIS 40.95. ONTHLY (24 Insertions) · NIS 643.50 · 10 words (minimum), each additional	BEAUTIFUL APTS/SUITES BET- WEEN Gan He'r and the beach, tourists/	KFAR YONA: 6, 600/360, beautiful, im-	AU PAIR, LIVE-IN, light housework, im- mediate. Tel. 03-842-1423, Dana.	SITUATIONS WANTED
rd - NIS 64.35.	businessmen, short/long term. Tel. 03- 696-9092, 050-358-872.	proved, excellent location, $420,000. Tel. 052-534484, 09-587380.	AMERICAN FAMILY seeks South Afri- can au par live-in, central Tel Aviv, $750 + 200 NIS Immediate bonue. 03-8201195,	HOUSEHOLD HELP
ADLINES offices: rusalem - weekdays: 12 noon the day fore publication; for Friday and Sunday:	RENTALS	SALS	200 NIS Immediate bonue. 03-6201195, 052-452002.	BABYSITTING- AU-PAIRS-HOURLY CLEANING, JOSEFINA'S AGENCY. No
p.m. on Thursday. I Aviv and Halfa weekoays: 12 ion, 2 days before publication; for Finday Id Sunday: 4 p.m. Thursday in Tel Aviv	NORTH, 3, LUXURIOUS, fully fur- nished, Tel. 03-523-7918, 03-6990150. RAMAT AVLY GIMMEL, luxurious	HERZLIYA FOR SALE: New corner duplex garden spartment, besement, 3 bedrooms, $400,000. LITAM REAL E8- TATE 16J, 09-583-611.	EXPERIENCED, LIVE-IN, NON- SMOKER, household + children, Hebrew + recommendations. Tel. 03-534-0101, Dane, evenings.	Commissions. 02-532-4175.
DWELLINGS	apartments, & houses for rent. ADI'S PROPERTIES. Tel. 03-6418396.	REALTY	EXPERIENCED NETAPELET FOR	FOR SALE
General	EXCLUSIVE! ARNON, 4, large, reno- vated and quist. $1100. KAV-HAYAM. Tel. 03-523-9988.	Sharon Area	baby & child, 6 days. Tel. 03-896-4001, Etc. NS.	FOR SALE: BRONZE statues, oil paint- ings, silver articles and art pieces. Tal. 03-
RENTALS HOHAM - NEW HOUSE, 7 ROOMS, fice, separate entrance, outstanding	EZOREI-HEN, 3, MODERN, fully fur- nished, doorman, country dub. YAEL RE- ALTOR (Maldan). Tel. 03-842-8253.	RENTALS HERZLIYA PITUAH, Gelat Tichelet, 350 so.m. built, new, very high building	IMMEOIATEIII $700 + ROOM AND board for experienced metapolet in Tel Aviv. Tel. 03-524-2085.	PURCHASE SALES
WHERE TO STAY	SALES	350 sq.m. built, new, very high builtang standard, swimming pool, "KAV HAYAM" Tal. 03-5239988.	MMEDIATE JOBS AVAILABLE, friendliest families, best conditions, the	COLOR T.V. 20". Remote control. NIS 700. 16" foot fan. NIS 175. Both periect
N PLACES LTD. affordable home d & breekdast, self-catering aps. coun- wide, choice locations. Tel./Fax 09-	JAFFA, 2 + balcony, near port, Imme- diate, 4th floor (without), $150,000. Tel. 03-683-1061.	BUSINESS OFFERS	Hime Tel. 03-9659997.	PURCHASE SALES
78204, P.O.B . 577, Herzitya.	EXCLUSIVEL EXCELLENT FOR In- vestment! 2 apartments, divided. Reno-	SALE	ENGLISH/SPANISH SPEAKER, $750 + pocket money, for childcare and house- work. Tel. 03-5105740, 050-516964.	APPLIANCES
ERUSALEN LODGES LTD. * Short mmentals "Bed and breakfast * P.O.Box 33, Jenusalem 91044. Tal. 02-611745, pc 02-612541.	vated, furrished completely. KAV HAVAM. Tel. 03-523-5988. EXCLUSIVE! GAN HATRI 257 sq. m.	WORKING ADVERTISING AGENCY for safe,graphics, printing production + goodwill 02-378542.	IMMEDIATEII HOUSEKEEPER, LIVE-IN/OUT, reliable, recommenda- tiona, excellent conditions, Tel, 05-	Tudiror, findge trocuer, $860, A.E.G. washing riteritime §
DWELLINGS	EXCLUSIVEI GAN HA'IRI 257 sq. m., high, well planed. KAV-HAYAM, Tel. 03- 523-9988. EXCLUTIVEI OPERA TOWERI 2 high,	General SERVICES	6889668/9. LIVE - IN WOMEN. Good Conditions. Tel.	Separate drver, $750, Bosch distrivuisher, $650; Beitroom suite
RENTALS	breathtaking view of sea. KAV-HAYAM. Tel. 03-523-5988.	HEALING. RHEUMA THERAPY, treat- ment for pain, articitis, impotence. Tel	050-300-775.	S500. (raidening equipment, S900 Brother fex "370", S900.
HAVIA 2, TALBIEH 3, also shortern. HAVIA 2, TALBIEH 3, also shortern. HAVIA REALTY. Tel. 02-665822	RAMAT-AVIV GIMMEL, EXCEP- TIONAL, 4. 160 sq. m. incl. furniture, $700,000, YAEL REALTOR. (Maidan). Tel,	LESSONS	OFFICE STAFF	Tel. 09-505612. PERSONALS
RYAT WOLFSON, 4, spacious, long m, untumished, Tel. 02-660-682, 050-	03-642-6253. DWELLINGS	STUDY CENTER" PRIVATE Habrew	Rein typist (Word 6) tull-time. Tel. 03-576- 9968.	General
m, unturnished. Tel. 02-660-682, 050- -440.	Sharon Area	lessons + other languages. University psy- chumeric preparations. Tel. 050-201460 + Need teachers for English and Mathe- matics+	SITUATIONS VACANT	PERSONALS
V REHAVIA: SUPERB 3 rooms, lux- ous, parking, pool, long term, T.A.C. Tel. 831-764.	RENTALS		Dan Region	WOMAN, 35, WITH strong control, seeks serious relationship, prepared to live abroad 972-3-9678745
ERMAN COLONY- (ITALIAN CO- NY) Lucyry 2-5 rooms, turnished/un-	KFAR YONA, 5 room duplex, modem kitchen, cupboards, immediate, Tel. 08- 945-4578.	SITUATIONS VACANT General	HOUSEHOLD BNELBRAK, FOR housework,	VEHICLES Jerusalem
Alshed. Long term possible. "Israbuid" Q2-686571.	FOR RENT HERZLIVA PITUAH, 4 bed- room house, separate dining room, big	GENERAL	energetic and izat, with experience, three times weakly,+ references Tel 03-6183860,	VEHICLES
RYAT WOLFSON, 4, large. partly nished, spectacular view, parking. No ents. 02-6512539 NS.	living room, prime location. MORAN REAL ESTATE, Tel. 09-572-758.	NICE FEMININE VOICEST Languages: Scandinavian, English, French for inter- national party line. Tel. 03-5622422 Maria.	SITUATIONS VACANT	ARIE PALOGE - QUALITY CARS:
SALES	HERZLIVA SET, BRAND new, pent- house, 5, A/C, closets, underground park- ing, fablicus view, $1800. Anglo-Saxon, 09-582256.	SITUATIONS VACANT	Southern Coast	VEHICLES
ALIAN COLONY- Hildesheimer Hats- a Street, liccury apartments, 4-5, bakoo- is, basement, garden, parking. Tel. 02-	ROOMS IN MAXIM HOTEL for rent ( monthly Netanya - David Hamelech 8. Tel.	FULL TIME NETAPELET, Boht house-	HOUSEHOLD HELP	Dan Region MAZDA 626, 6 DOOR, 1994, 20,000
17886, 02-688571.	10076175, Neteriya - David Refinseur 2. (er. 09-621-052.	C2-618-297.	LIVE-IN HELP WANTED. family in mostav, private living. Tel. 08-797-057.	Kin, Excellent condition. NIS 95,000 Incl. taxee. Tel: 03-523-5112 or 09-574-885.

. .

.

. .

.

12

Oncem

ID Sig

19 A 🎽

2

5....

aking lation

The Jerusalem Post Monday, January 8, 1996

ENGLISH

THEATER

HELEN KAYE

CHASING the Moment won

both the UK Time Out and the Edinburgh Festival Best

Fringe Play. It tells the story of a group of jazz musicians who are together only on stage. It stars Jack Shophord. He wrote tho play, plus he and the other actor musicians will jam all during intermission. Go for it! Tonight at the Wix auditorium in Rehovot at 8:30

CLASSICAL

MUSIC

MICHAEL AJZENSTADT

YOUNG music lovers can taste a little bit of unfamiliar

Bizet today as the Israel

Philharmonic Orchestra presents a youth concert under

In today's program mezzo

soprano Susanna Poretsky, back home for e short visit after e season with the

the baton of Arie Vardi.

m Tel Aviv.

them talk.

D-m.

CRITIC'S CHOICE

WHAT'S ON

TELEVISION

E CHANNEL 1

and a second second

6:30 News 6:45 Exercise Hour 7:00 Good Morning Israel

EDUCATIONAL TY

8:00 Jewish Mysticism 8:30 Reading comprehension 8:45 Nature 9:10 Music 9:25 Young children's pro-grams 10:00 On Second Thoughts – Friendship 10:30 Science and tech-nology 10:50 English 11:10 History 11:40 English 12:05 Geography 12:25 Society 12:45 Ecology 13:00 Construction – Abridge over troubled waters 13:30 Cartoons 14:00 Peter Pan 14:20 Cartoons 15:00 Autoto

CHANNEL 1

15:30 Land Without Time - enimated series based on Richard Scary's books 15:55 Goggle Eyes 16:20 Service Not Included - drama 17:00 A New Evening 17:35 Zaptot to Hosting – with young artists and per-formers 18:15 News in English ARABIC PROGRAMS 18:30 Sport magazine 19:00 News in Aral

HEBREW PROGRAMS 19:30 Every Evening with Merav Michaeli 20:00 News 20:45 Popolitica 22:00 Sanderson - comedy 23:00 Backtrack - with Ehud Manor 23:30 News magazine 00:00 Verse of the Day

E CHANNEL 2

13:00 Musical Sparks (rpt) 14:00 Bay City – Australian children's drama 14:30 Tick Tack 15:00 Pinocchio – with Hebrew dubbing 15:30 Dreams with Uzi Hilman 16:00 The Bold and the Beautiful 17:00 News magazine with Rafi Reshef 17:30 A Matter of Time 18:00 Santa Barbara 19:00 Baywatch 20:00 News 20:30 It's e Deat – game show 21:05 Zehu Zeh 21:40 Dan Shilon live 23:15 Sirens – police drama series 00:00 News police drama series 00:00 News 00:05 Sirens (continued) 00:20 Machos - dating game 00:45 Starsky and Hutch 01:35 Israeli songs 02:00 Poem of the Day

JORDAN TV

14:05 Shelly Duvall's Bedtime

Notices in this feature are charged at NIS28.08 per line, includin VAT. Insertion every day of the month costs NIS520.65 per line, Including VAT, per month.

JERUSALEM Conducted Tours

in the hope that it will be a suitable donor of bone-marrow (rpt) 21:00 Another Country (1984) – Drama based on the lives of Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean who spied for the USSR during the '50s. The film is set in the 1930s in a British boarding obbol and follows the superiord set in the 1930s in a British boarding school and follows the experiences of two boys, one a homosexual, the other a Marxist. Starring Rupert Everett and Colin Firth (88 mins) 22:30 Deliver Them from Evil (1992) – drama based on a true story about a father of eight who holds a mater-nity ward at gunpoint because he is approve with the clocker who performed HEBREW UNIVERSITY. Tours of the Mount Scopus campus, in English, daily Sun-Thur, 11 a.m. from Bronfman Reception Centre, Sherman Administration Bidg. Buses 4a, 9, 23, 26, 28. For info, call HADASSAH. Visit the Hadassah installations, Chagall Windows. Tel. 02-416333, 02-776271.

TEL AVIV TEL AVIV MUSEUM OF ART. Eight

In November - Gliksberg, Gross, Rsisman, Shelesnyak, Almog, Berest, Gal, DavidVan Dyck and his

AgePeter Brandes Isaac - Paintings, Prints, Cerartic Sculptures Yaacov Dorchin - Blocked WellThe Museum

PAVILION FOR CONTEMPORARY ART. New Art In Tel Aviv Collections.

Hours: Weekdays 10:00 a.m.-6 p.m.

Tue., 10 a.m.-10 p.m. Fri., Sat. 10:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m. Art Education Center, closed for renovations, Tel.

WIZO. To visit our projects call Tel Aviv 6923819; Jerusalem 256060;

WHAT'S ON IN HAIFA, dial 04-

6919155/6/7.

Haifa 388817.

EMERGENCY

374253.

lections. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Stories - cartoon 14:30 Richie Rich cantoon 15:00 Playabout 15:15 Bustin' Loose - comedy 15:40 Animals of the Mediterranean - documentary 16:00 | Love Lucy 16:30 Sky Trackers 17:00 French Programs 19:30 News Headlines 19:35 McHale's Navy – corredy 20:00 Invention 20:25 The Bold and the Resulting 21:10 Star Task. The the Beautiful 21:10 Star Trek - The Next Generation 22:00 News in English 22:25 Anna - drama 23:10 Taurus Rising - drama series 24:00 Ellen - comedy

MIDDLE EAST TV

14:00 Tho 700 Club 14:55 Ham 16:30 Moomins 16:55 Heathcliff 17:20 Inspector Gadget 17:45 Superbook 18:10 Snowy River 19:10 Magnum P.1. 20:00 World News Tonight (Arabic) 20:30 CNN Headline News 21:00 The Bill Costy Charles Costy 14:00 Tho 700 Club 14:55 Film Show 21:30 Diagnosis Murder 22:20 A Quest 23:10 700 Club 00:00 Special Program

CABLE

8:00 Falcon Crest 9:00 One Life to Live 9:45 The Young and the Restless 10:30 Bob 10:55 Cato Americain 11:25 Celeste 12:10 Neighbors 12:35 Perry Mason 13:30 Starting at 1:30 14:05 The Commish 14:55 Falcon Crest 15:45 ENG 16:40 Neighbors 17:10 Antonella 18:00 Ono Life to Live 18:45 The Young and The Restless 19:30 Local broadcast 20:00 Celeste 20:50 Hanging with Mr. Cooper 21:15 The

Hanging with Mr. Cooper 21:15 The Nanny 21:40 Mad About You 22:05 Frasier 22:30 Muddling Through 22:55 The Office 23:20 Mad About You 23:50 Sisters 00:40 St. Elsewhere 1:30 Knots Landing

10:30 Baby Snatcher (1992) (rpt) 12:05 It's a Wonderful Life (1946) -

Frank Capra'e romantic Christmas drama starring James Stewart (pt) 14:15 Whose Lino Is It Anyway? 14:40 When He's Not a Stranger

(1990) (rpt) 16:15 Porry Mason: Scandalous Scoundrel (1988) (rpt) 17:55 Storie ds Ragazzio (1991) -

town-mouse-country-mouse comedy about a middle-class men from

MOVIE CHANNEL (4)

FAMILY CHANNEL (3)

Surprise Garden 13:35 Alvin and the Chipmunks 14:05 Dream Team 14:30 Super Dave 15:10 Silver Hawks 15:40 Family Ties 16:15 Covington Cross 17:10 Loony Toons 17:20 Saud by the Bell 19:00 Horse 17:30 Saved by the Bell 18:00 Hugo 18:35 White Fang 19:00 The Magical World of Dinosaurs 19:30 Three's Company 20:00 Married with Children 20:30 Family Ties 20:55 The Brady Bunch 21:25 Cheers

SECOND SHOWING (6)

22:00 Le Petit Prince A Dit (1992) touching French drama about a young couple whose lives are changed when they discover their gifted daughter has a tumor. (100 mins) 23:45 Islands in the Stream (1977) - Drama based on tho Herningway story set on e tropical island where a reclusive sculptor rekindles his relationship with his three sons. Starring Georgo C. Scott, David Hemmings, Brad Savags and Julius W. Harris. (104 mins)

E DISCOVERY (8)

e:00 Open University: Management, Merkoting and Economics 12:00 Survival 12:30 Palsoworld 13:00 Beyond 2000 14:00 Open University 16:00 Survival 16:30 Paleoworld 17:00 Beyond 2000 16:00 Open University 20:00 Most Act 21:00 University 20:00 Moa's Ark 21:00 Sadhus: Indle's Holy Men 22:00 United States of Television 22:45 Moa's Ark 23:45 Open University

ITV 3 (33)

17:00 Cartoons 17:30 The Halwani 17:00 Cartoons 17:30 The Halvani Gato – Egyptian series 16:30 Panorama with Zaidan Atshe 19:00 News in Arabic 19:30 Songs We Loved 20:00 Mabat News 20:45 Adrift – a honeymooning couple pick up two med hitchhikers who make their holiday a living hell 22:15 Tho Sexual Imperative 00:00 Closedown

ETV 2 (23)

15:30 Hey Dad 16:00 Mathematics – enrichment 17:00 At the Bottom of the Sea With Delphi 17:30 Time Out 16:00 The Herodian Kingdom, Between East and West 16:30 Family Relations 19:00 Basic Arabic 19:30 Before Induction – program about army service 20:00 A New Evening (with Russian subtitlos) 20:30 The Agatha Christie Hour 21:30 Korea – The Unknown War – A new six-Part sprice about the A new, six-part series about the police action that got lost between World War II and Vietnam 22:30 Jerusalem In Art 23:30 Time Out

SUPER CHANNEL

6:00 The McLaughlin Group 6:30 Strictly Business 7:00 ITN World News 7:15 NBC News 7:30 Steals and Deals 8:00 The Today Show 10:00 Super Shop 11:00 European Money Wheel 15:30 The Squawk Box 17:00 US Money Wheel 16:30 FT Business Tonight 19:00 ITN News 19:30 Frost's Century 20:30 The Selina Scott Show 21:30 Frontal 22:30 ITN News 23:00 Supersport 00:00 Best of the Tonight Show 1:00 Late Night with Conan O'Brien

STAR PLUS

6:00 Beverly Hillbillies 6:30 Look and Cook 7:00 Video Fashion Monthly 7:30 Gabrielle 6:30 Santa Barbara Mystery: Happy Families 18:30 The Bold and the Beautiful 19:00 Santa Barbara 20:00 Hard Copy 20:30 Hearts Africe 21:00 Grace Under Fire 21:30 Barnaby Jones 22:30 Enlertainment Tonight 23:00 Oprah Winfrey 00:00 Hard Copy 00:30 Home and Away 1:00 The Suflivans

11

CHANNEL 5

الا يحصر والدين الفاضي الرواد المام المتصوف والمصوف المراجع

6:00 - 8:00 Bodies in motion 16:00 Bodies in motion 16:30 US college basketball: Connecticut vs West Virginia 18:00 NFL 20:00 Premier Leagua soccer: Chelsea vs Newcastle 20:30 National league basketball: Maccabi Rishon vs Maccabi TA 21:30 Action Zone adventure sport magazine 22:00 Premier League soccer roundup 23:00 US college basketball

EUROSPORT

9:30 Granada-Dakar raily 10:00 Alpine skiing 11:30 Ski jumping 12:30 Granada-Dakar raily 13:00 Supercross from Germany 14:00 Best of boxing 1995 15:00 Challenge games 18:00 Tractor towing 17:00 games to:up tractor towing 17:00 International motorsport magazine 18:00 Adventure sport 19:00 Truck racing 20:00 Boxing 21:00 Speed world 22:30 Granada-Dakar rally 23:00 Pro-wrestling 00:00 Eurogoals 1:00 Body-building 2:00 Granada-Dakar rally Dakar raliv

E PRIME SPORTS

6:00 Rugby 7:30 Power boats 8:00 Live cricket 11:15 Asian sports show 11:45 Live cricket 15:00 Baseball 15:30 Water sports magazine 16:00 NFL playoffs 19:00 Cricket 20:00 Squash 20:30 NFL 00:30 Baseball 1:00 WWF 2:00 Cricket

BBC WORLD

Nows on the hour 6:00 BBC Newsday 6:25 The Money Programmo 10:05 The Money Programme 11:25 Food and Drink 14:05 Assignment 15:15 World Business Roport 16:25 This Multi-Media Business 17:15 The Money Programmo 18:25 Time Out The Clothes Show 19:25 Tomorrow's World 22:05 The Money Programme 23:25 Holidey 00:00 BBC World News and Business Report

VOICE OF MUSIC

6:06 Morning Concert 9:05 Prokofiev: Winter Bonfire; works by Prokotiev: Winter Bonfire; works by Takemitsu; contemporary works; Richard Rodiney Bennett: Concerto for Stan Getz; Barber: Adagio for strings; Paul Creston; Symphony no 5 12:00 Light Classical – Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammsrstein II: sxcerpts from Showboat 13:00 Violinist Shlomo Mintz – Shostakovich; Sonata for violin and piano op 134 (with Victoria Postnikiova); Prokofiev; Sonata no 2 In D for violin and piano op 94 (with In D for violin and piano op 94 (with Marina Bonderenko) 14:06 Encore 15:00 Cycle of Works – Beethoven's piano sonatas 16:00 Early music 17:00 Etnahta – live broadcast from Henry Crown Auditorium, Jarusalem, ... Irad Carmi (flute), Eitan Globerson (plano), Iris Globerson (harpsichord). Works by Bert Levy, Bach, Kuhlau, Melvya Bragg's infamous interview with the late British play-gotten to know someone. Recent visitors havo included one-time rock anarchist Pete Townshend, looking like a country vicar; tough-cookie choreographer Twyla Tharp; surprisingly warm, unaffected jewelry years on the usual grounds of too much explicit sex and violence. The season will include Pennies From Heaven, Lipstick On Your Collar and The Singing Detective, which, together, paint a vivid, controver-sial picture of the British way of life.

TELEVISION

RUTH KERN

The Selina Scott Show can be seen daily on NBC designer/businesswoman Paloma Picasso; and gratefully undead chanteuse Marianne Faithfull.

CRYPTIC CROSSWORD

25 Gun destroys nest (4)

26 Fil place it at random as it isn't quite round (10)

ACROSS

- 1 Nearly exact summary (6) 5 Tough guy's shell? (4,4)
- 9 Spent frugally or saved
- 10 Full of energy, but no good making a come-back (4)
- 11 Something needed in the
- preparation for war (8) 12 Time for another? (6)
- 13 Vegetable feast! (4)
- 15 In concert to catch the girl (8)
- 18 Leading lady has bitter exchange, nothing more in the words of the opera (8)
- 19 Phone, it shows if one is
- engaged (4) 21 Smear some of this mud
- generally in (6)
- 23 Turn e girl has on a hoisting device (8)

R.

27 Somo choral highbrow music, a large that Zee initially made with ex-cessive sentimentality (8) 28 Redhead getting on showing violent anger (6) DOWN 2 Fast car, one hidden by Rolls-Royce (5) 3 It can be put on the back of a lorry once train is in motion (9) 4 Be in a state of suppressed anger and keep just below boiling point (6)

10

15

X

puzzling (9) running water (9) the enemy (6) 22 Material that's dug up (5) 24 Bird takes in one country youth (5)

SOLUTIONS

Messages Advince of D A II II SLADDASM ASCENT A N III II S A INCEREMENT MEAVE C E G A IA BAIN MARDEST UII E G S Y DRESSES RUIO O III E A III COPEA RECESTIVE A C A F P II S A TURDIN LAUGHTER E A N C H E S RELISM SENTENCE

Yesterday's Quick Solution ACROSS: 1 Shore, 4 Thing, 10 Handled, 11 Barur, 12 Pasta, 13 Remnant, 16 Seer, 17 Steer, 19 Never, 22 Seed, 25 Toddler, 27 Usage, 29 Odour, 39 Oration, 31 Usher, 32 Venne. DOWN: 2 Hints, 2 Release, 5 Harem. 6 Narrata, 7 Shapa, 6 Adore, 9 Broth, 14 Erns, 18 Erss, 18 Tedious, 20 Educate, 21 Stoop, 23 Error, 24 Verne, 28 Large, 28 Adleu.

P	TP	TP	QUICK CROSSWORD
12 17 18			ACROSS 1 Earthen pot (5) 4 Weapon (7) 8 Noisily (7) 9 Metal pin (5) 10 Royal house (5) 11 Big shops (7) 13 Large number (4) 15 Restart (6) 17 Hatter (anag) (6) 20 Greyiah (4) 22 Victory (7) 24 Psalmist (5) 26 Impish (6) 27 Small anchor (7)	DOWN 1 Custodian (7) 2 Not married (5) 3 Witty remark (7) 4 Chaos (6) 5 Discard (5) 6 Upside down (7) 7 Additional (5) 12 Legend (4) 14 Harvest (4) 16 Harden (7) 18 Outlet from water main (7) 19 Small fish (7) 21 Japanese military governor (6) 22 Sound of a bird (5)
29		1	28 Strain (7). 29 Less wild (5)	23 Welsh strait (5) 25 Snake poison (5)

5 Dance porformed with uncertainty? (10,5) 6 Plan again to put Desmond in control (8) 7 Complaint of the colonel in charge (5) 8 Number of item in sports programme thet had been witnessed outside (9) '14 Right mark endlassly placed under riddle is

16 Sensational article about 17 Light ale three drunk (8) 20 He aims not to be seen by

PHARMACIES

PHARMACIES Jerusalem: Centor Pharm, Har Nahotzvim, 869744; Balsam, Salah e-Din, 272315; Shuafat, Shuafat Road, 810108; Dar Aldawa, Herod's Gate, 22058. Tel Aviv: Lev Ha'r, 69 Ahed Ha'am, 560-3662; Kupat Holim Calif, 7-9 Amsterdam, 523-2383. Till 3 a.m. Tuesday: Ben-Yehuda, 142 Ben-Yehuda, 522-3535. Till midhinith: Suraniharm Barmet Aviv, 400 Yehuda, 142 Ben-Yehuda, 522-3535. Till midnight: Superpharm Ramat Aviv, 40 Einstein, 641-3730. Ra'anana-Kfar Sava: Silvia, 182 Weizmann, Kfar Sava: Silvia, 182 Weizmann, Kfar Sava, 959642. Netanya: Hadarim Mail, 2 Hakadar, Industriel Zone, 628436. Knayot erese: Haman, 4 einstei Modi'in, Kirva: Motzlin, 870-7770/3. Halfa: Magen David, 13 Geula, 882-5205. Herzilya: Clal Pharm. Beit Markazim, 6 Maskit (cnr. Sderot Hagalim), Herzilya Pituah, 558472, 558407. Open 9 a.m. to midnight. midnight. Upper Nazareth: Ctal Pharm, Lev Hair Mail, 570468. Open 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. DUTY HOSPITALS Jerusalem: Hadassah Ein Kerem (inter-nal, surgery, orthopedics, ophthalmology); Misgav Ladach (obstetrios); Bilour Holm (pediatrics, ENT). Tel Aviv: Tel Aviv Medical Center (pedics), Ichilov (internal, surgery). Netanya: Laniado. POLICE 100 FIRE 102 FIRST AID 101

Magan David Adom in emergencies dial 101 (Hebrew) or 911 (English) in most parts of the country. In addition: addition: Ashdod" 551333 Ashdoin 551332 Bearshebet 274757 Beit Shemesh 622133 Den Region" 5793333 Ellor" 352444 Halite" 8512223 Len selaem 527133 Kiar Sava* 902222 Nehariya* 812333 Kiar Sava" 902222 Nehariya" 812333 Netarya" 604444 Peteh Tava" 831111 Pehovot" 451333 Rishor" 9642333 Safed 320333 Tel Avi* 5460111 Tibertas" 792444 m* 523133

* Mobile Intensive Care Unit (MICU) ser-vice in the area, around the clock. Medical help for tourists (in English) 177-Medical help for tourists (in English) 177-022-9110 The Netional Polson Control Center at Rambarn Hospital 04-8528205, for emer-gency calls 24 hours a day, for information in case of poisoning, Eran – Emotional First Aid. Jerusalem 610303, Tel Aviv 5461111 (chidren/youth 6961113), Haifa 8572222/3, Beersheba 291128, Netanya 625110, Kanmiel 9968410, Kiar Sava 974555, Hadere 346789.

346789. Wizo hotlines for bettered women 02-Wizo notknes for battered women 02-6514111, 03-5461133 (also in Russian), 07-378310, 02-550506 (also in Amharic), Rape Crisis Center (24 hours), Tel Aviv 5234819, 5449191 (men), Jarusalem 255558, Halfa 8660111, Elist 31977. Hadassah Medical Organization -Israel Cancer Association telephone support service 02-247676.

angry with the doctor who performed a hysterectorry on his wife. 00:05 Privates on Parade (1983) – John Cleese antertains the troops in Singapore (rpt) 1:55 I Posed for Playboy (1991) – how three women's lives were radically changed (rot) CHILDREN (6)

6:30 Cartoons 8:00 Surprise Garden 8:35 The Magical World of Dinosaurs 9:05 White Fang 9:40 Silver Hawks 10:10 Punky Brewster 10:45 Los and Clark 11:40 Loony Toons 12:00 Saved by the Bell 12:30 Hugo 13:00

Rold au i the B 10:00 Oprah Winfrey 11:00 Romington Steele 12:00 Look and Cook 12:30 Videofashion Nows 13:00 Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles 13:30 Small Wonder 14:00 Tho Black Stallion 14:30 Batman 15:00 Home and Away 15:30 Entertainment Tonight 16:00 M*A*S*H 16:30 Inspector Morse

Krenek, Reinecks, C.P.E. Bach, Frank Mantin 19:00 Rainbow of Sounds 20:05 Outstanding Recitals in Jerusalem - live broadcast from Henry Crown Auditorium. Peter -Schrsier (tenor), Watter Olbertz (piano), Schubert: Schwaner-gesang; Schumann: Liederkreis op -39 23:00 Just Jazz

CINEMA

JERUSALEN CINEMATHEQUE Don Jaun de Marco 5

CINEMATHEQUE Don Jaun de Marco 5 * Every Morning of the World 6:45 * Mississipi Burning 7 * Dennis Potter Retrospective 0 * Zazie dans le Metro 5:30 G.G. Gil. Jerusalem Mall (Malha) * 7:86448 American President © Chueless © Basketball Olaries © Something To Talk About © Sorcerer 3 © The Haunted Soul of a Woman Artist 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 * Golden Eye 4:30, 7:15, 10 * Species 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 JERUSALEM THEATER Land and Freedom 7 * A Man of No Importance 9:30 RAV CHEM 1- 7* 79:2799 Credit Card Reservations* 79:4477 Rav-Mecher Building, 19 Ha'oman SL, Talpiot The Usual Suspects 5, 7:30, 9:45 * Seven 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 * Desperado 5, 7:30, 9:45 * Dangerous Minds 5, 7:30, 9:45 * The Postman © in the Bleak Midwinter 5, 7:30, 9:45 * The Postman © in the Bleak Midwinter 5, 7:30, 9:45 * The Aviv

TEL AVIV CINEMATHEQUE Est, Drink, Man, Woman 5, 7:30, 10 + Blade Runner 5 + Dangerous Liaisons 9:30 DIZENGOFF Basketball Diaries > C A Man of No Basentulai Districts → A main of NO importance 11 a.m., 1, 3, 5:15, 7:45, 10 + Priest 11 a.m., 3, 7:45 + Fresh 1, 5, 10 DRIVE IN Assessins 10 + Sex Film 12 midnight GAN HATR to 5279215 Priscilla 2:30, 5, 7:30, 9:45 GAT Dan gerous Minds 2:30, 5, 7:30, 9:45 GAT Dan gerous Minds 2:30, 5, 7:30, 9:45 GAT Dan gerous 230, 5, 730, 9:45 GAT Dan gerous Minds 2:30, 5, 730, 9:45 GAT Dan gerous Minds 2:30, 5, 730, 9:45 GORDON The Young Poisoner's Handbook 8, 10  $\pm$ Citizen Kane 6 HAKOLNOA Carrington 5, 7:15, 9:45 G.G. HOD 14  $\pm$  5228090 Hod Passage, 101 Dizengoff St. American President  $\bullet$  Clueless  $\bullet$ Something To Talk About 2, 5, 7:30, 10  $\pm$  Species 2, 5, 7:30, 10 LEV 1-4  $\pm$ 5285288 Farinelli 12 noon, 2, 5, 7:30, 6:45  $\pm$  The Bridges of Madison County 11:30 a.m., 4:30, 9:45  $\pm$  0f Land & Freedom 2, 7:30,  $\pm$  Georgia 12 noon, 2:15, 5:15, 7:45, 10 G.G. PETER American President  $\bullet$  The Haunted Soul  $\bullet$  Passaver Fever 5, 7:30, 10  $\pm$ Underground 6:30, 9:30  $\pm$  Clueless 5, 7:30, 10 RAV- CHEM $\pm$  5282288 Dizengoff Center Seven 4:45, 7:15, 9:45  $\pm$  Santa Clause 5, 7:30,  $\pm$  Lovesick on Nana Street  $\bullet$  The Naul Suspects 5, 7:30, 9:45  $\pm$  The Usual Suspects 5, 7:30, 9:45  $\pm$  The Usual Suspects 5, 7:30, 9:45  $\pm$  Don Juan de Marco 5, 7:30, 9:45 (G. SHAHAF 1-2 Underground 8 G.G. TAYELET 1-3  $\pm$  5177952 2 Yona Hanavi St. Golden Eye  $\bullet$  Passover Faver  $\bullet$  Something to Talk About 7:15, 10 G.G. TEL AVIV  $\pm$  5281181 65 Pinsker St. Golden Eye 7:15, 10  $\pm$  American President  $\bullet$  Something to Talk About 7:15, 10 The State  $\bullet$  Something to Talk About 7:15, 10 The State  $\bullet$  Something to Talk About 7:15, 10 Talk About 7:15, 10  $\pm$  American St. Golden Eye 7:15, 10 ± American President © Sorcerer 3 5, 7:30, 10 TEL AVIV MUSEUM ± 6961297 27 Shau Hamelekh Boulevard: Once Were Were 5 8 10 Warriors 5, 8, 10 HAIFA

HAIFA HAIFA CINEMA CAFÉ AMAMI ± 325755 Underground 6:30, ★ The Bridges of Madison County 7:15, 9:30 ATZIMON 1-5 ± 673003 Sorcere 3 ● Something To Talk About ● Species 4:30, 7, 9:30 ★ Golden Eyre 4:15, 6:45, 9:15 ★ Assassins 4:15, 7, 9:15 CINEMA CAFE MORIAH ± 242477 The Heunted Sout 7:15, 9:30 ORLY The Postman 7, 9:15 PANOR AMA 1-3 ± 382020 Clueless 4:30, 7, 9:15 at American President 4:30, 7, 9:15 at American President 4:30, 7, 9:15 the Usual Suspects 4:45, 7, 9:15 the Usual Suspects 4:45, 7, 9:15 the Usual Suspects 4:45, 7, 9:15 RAV-MOR 1-7 to 8416864/8 The Usual Suspects ● Dangerous Minds 4:45, 7, 9:15 ★ Desperado 7, 9:15 ★ The Pestman 4:45, 7, 9:15 ★ Seven 4:30, 7, 9:15 ★ The Net 4:45, 7, 9:15 ★ An Indian In The Cupboard 5 ★ Mortal Combet 4:45 RAV-OR 1-3 to 246553 Desperado © Dengerous Minds 4:45, 7,

9:15 * Lovesick On Nana Street 7, 9:15 * Senta Clause 4:45 + Sente STAR = 950904 Golden Eye 7, 9:30 * Species 9:30 * A Walk in the Clouds 7:15 * Mortal Combat 7:15, 9:30 ASHDOD

ASHDOD G.G. Gill. Something To Talk About 7:30, 10 ± Seven 4:45, 7:15, 10 ± The Net 10 ± Goody The Movie weekdays 5 ± Sorcerer 3 5, 7:30, 10 ± Golden Eye 4:30, 7:15, 10 ± Santa Clause 5, 7:30 G.G. ORI 1- 3± 711223 Dangerous Minds • American President • Clueless 5, 7:30, 10 ASHKELON G.G. Gill American President •

ASINCLOW G.G. GL American President • Something To Talk About • Sorcerer 3 • Clueless 5, 7:30, 10 * Golden Eye 4:30, 7:15, 10 RAV CHEN # 711223 The Usual Suspects 8:45 * Seven 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 * Santa Clause weekdays 5 * Lovesick on Nana Street © Dangerous Minds 5, 7:30, 9:45 * Mortal Combat 5, 7:30 * Le Colonel Charbert

7:30, 9:45 A

BAT YAM RAV CHEN ± 5531077 The Usual Suspecta 5, 7:30, 9:45 ± Seven 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 ± Golden Eye 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 ± American President 5, 7:30, 9:45 ± Clueless 5, 7:30, 9:45 ± Something To Telk About 9:45 ± American President 5, 7:30, 9:45 ± Mortal Combat 5, 7:30 Δ BEERSHEBA G.G. Gill, American President • Something To Talk About • Clueless 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 ± Golden Eye 4:30, 7:15, 10 RAV-NEGEV 1-4 ± 235278 Seven 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 ± The Usual Suspects 7:30, 9:45 ± Desperado 7:30, 9:45 ± Mortal Combat 5 ± Dangerous Minds 5, 7:30, 9:45 ± Senta Clause 5 Δ DIMONA HECHAL HATARBAUT Mortal Combat 8

HECHAL HATARBAUT Mortal Combat 8 EILAT

KOLNOA EILAT American President

KOLNOA EILAT American President 7:30, 10 * Species 7:30, 10 * Carrington 7:15, 9:45 HADERA LEV 1-4 Golden Eye 7:15, 9:45 * Santa Clausse@Goofy The Movie weekdays 5 * American President 5, 7:15, 9:45 * Dengerous Minds 5, 7:15, 9:45 * Seven 7:15, 9:45 HERZLIYA

COLONY CINEMA 1-2 (MANOARIN) + 6902666 The Postman@Smoke 6, 8, 10 STAR+ 589068 Highlander 3 The Sorcerer 7:30, 9:45 * Clueless 7:30 * Golden Eye 9:45 * American President 7:30, 9:45 DANIEL HOTEL A Man of No Importance 7:30, 9:30

CINEMA 13 # 887277 Golden Eye@Seven@A Welk in the Clouds 7,

9:30 KFAR SAVA G.G. GIL American President 5, 7:30, 10 + Clueless@Something To Talk About@Dangerous Minds 5, 7:30, 10 + Seven 4:30, 7:15, 10 + Mortal Combat 5 California First 4:0, 7:15, 10 + Priest * Golden Eye 4:30, 7:15, 10 * Priest

7:30, 10 KIRYAT BIALIK

KIRYAT BIALIK G.G. KIRYON 1-9 ± 779168 American President@Golden Eye@Clueless 4:45, 7, 9:30 + Species@A Walk In The Clouds • Something to Talk About 7,9:30 + Main Of The House@The Golden Mail Gang@Pagemaster O>An Indian in the Cupboard 4:45 + The Net 7, 9:30 + Basketball Diaries 7, 9:30 + Pocahontas (Hebrew dialogue) 4:45 4:45 KIRYAT ONO

KIRYAI UNO MATNAS Water World 8:30 KIRYAT SHEMONA G.G. GR. American President 4:30, 7, 9:30 * Lovesick on Nana Street 4:30, 7, 9:30 * Something to Talk About 7, 9:30 * Senta Clause 4:30 LOD

STAR Something To Talk About 9:45 *

Species 7:15 * Golden Eye 7:15, 9:45; Tue. 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 * Mortal Combat

NAHARIYA HECHAL HATARBUT Lovesick on : Nana Street 7, 9:15 NESS ZIONA

RESS ZIONA G.G. Gill 1-4 # 404729 American President@Clueless 5, 7:30, 10 * Something to Talk About 5, 7:30, 10 *

Something to Talk About 5, 7:30, 10 * Golden Eye 4:30, 7:15, 10 NETANYA G.G. Gill 1-5 # 628452 American President@Cluelese@Sorcerer@Somet hing To Ta Ik About 5, 7:30, 10 * Golden Eye 4:30, 7:15, 10 RAV CHEN Seven 4:45, 7 :15, 9:45 * Desperado 7:30, 9:45 * The Postman 5, 7:30 * Dangerous Minds 5, 7:30, 9:45 * The Usual Suspects 9:45 * Santa Clause 5 OR AKIVA RAV CHEN Seven@Smoke@Dangerous

Minds 7, 9:30 OR YEHUDA

GIL G.G. GIL President@Clueless@Sorcerer 5, 7:30, 10 * Golden Eye 10 * Mortal Combat G.G. American

 10
 5.7:30

 PETAH TIKVA
 G.G.

 G.G.
 HECHAL
 American

 President@Desigerous Minds
 5.7:30,

 10
 ★ Seven 4:45, 7:15, 10
 G.G. RAM 1-,

 3
 # 9340818
 Golden Eye 4:30, 7:15, 10

 ★ Something To Talk About@Clueless
 7:20, 10

* Something To Talk About@Cluetess 5,7:30, 10 RA'ANANA CIN-MOFET Passover Fever 8:30 PARK ' American President@Dangerous Move 5,7:30, 10 * Cluetess 5, 7:30 * Seven 5,7:30 RAV-GAN 1-4 g 8197121 Dangerous Minds@American President 5 7:20 RAV-GAN 1-4 ± 8197121 Dangerous Minds@American President 5, 7:30, 9:45 ± The Usual Suspects 7:30, 9:45 ± Santa Clause 5 ± Lovesick on Nana Street 9:45 ± Smoke 7:30 ± Mortal Combat 5 RAV-OASIS 1-3 ± 6730687 Seven@Golden Eye 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 ± Something To Talk About 5, 7:30, 9:45 RAMAT HASHARON KOKHAV # 5491979 Est, Drink, Man, Woman 7:30, 9:30 REHOVOT CHEN 14 ± 362864 Dangerous Minds 7:30, 9:45 * American President 7:15, 9:45 * The Usual Suspects@Seven 7:15, 9:45 RISHON LEZION RISHON LEZION GAL 1-5 # 9619669 Seven@The Usual Suspects 5, 7:30, 10 * Species 10 * Dangerous Minds 5, 7:30, 10 * Golden Eye 4:30, 7:15, 10 * Mortal Combat 5, 7:30 HAZAHAV Something To Taik About 5, 7:30, 10 * American President 5, 7:30, 10 * Clustess 5, 7:30, 10 RAV CHEN # 9570503 Seven 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 * The Usual Suspects

7:30, 10 RAV CHEN ★ 9570503 Seven 4:45, 7:15, 9:45 ★ The Usual Suspects 7:30, 9:45 ★ Deperado 7:30, 9:45 ★ Dangerous Minds 5, 7:30, 9:45 ★ Mortal Combat@Gooty The Movie 5 ★ Santa Clause@An Indian In the Cupboard 5 STAR 1-4 ★ 9519885-7 27 Lishinsky St. The Sorcerer 7:45, 10 ★ Passover Fever 7:30 ★ A Walk in the Clouds 10 ★ The Net 7:30, 10 ★ The Pagemaster (Hebrew diatone) 7:30, 10 (Hebrew dialogue) 7:30, 10 UPPER NAZARETH G.G GIL Lovesick on Nana Street 9:30 * Mortal Combat 4:30, 7 * Something ★ Mortal Combat 4:30, 7 ★ Something to Talk About © Clueless © Golden Eye 4:30, 7 , 9:30 ★ Dengerous Minda@American President 4:45, 7, 9:30 ★ 6pecies 9:30 ★ Senta Clause 4:45 7

YEHUD

RAV-CHEN Savvonim Sevan 7:15, 9:45

· •

319 125

ns | }

23

GENERAL ASSISTANCE

NEWS

US offers Jordan 16 F-16 jets

ON LEVY and news agencies

US Defense Secretary Williao Perry offered Jordan a military package yesterday including 16 F-16 fighter-bombers.

12

Perry, speaking after a meeting with King Hussein, said the aircraft included 12 F-16A models aod four F-16B models. All would be upgraded to current standards

Perry said he was making good oo a promise made in King Hus-sein during talks in September in Washiogion. The aircraft package includes spare parts, training and support.

'The nffer has been made, and it has been accepted with deep appreciatino,' said King Hussein

Perry described Jordan as one of Washington's nldest allies in the region and said the military cooperatioo wnuld make their relationship eveo closer.

Perry arrived in Amman from Saudi Arahia as part of a Middle East tour, during which he has reiterated Washington's willingness to confront Iranian or Iraqi threats to US allies.

Bilateral and reginnal strategic cooperation are to be the main topics no Perry's agenda when he arrives here today fnr several hnurs to meet with Prime Minister and Defense Minister Shimnn Peres and military officials. Officials will be particularly interested in his impressions from his visit tn Jordan.

Issues relating to security arrangements nn the Golan Heights and Israeli defense requests are nnt expected in be raised.

Perry will be greeted at Beo-Gurioo Airport hy Defense Ministry Director-General David lvry, whn will escort him th Jerusalem.

After a full military ceremnoy,

NEWS IN BRIEF Customer scares off bank robbers A man armed with a pistol foiled the attempted armed rohbery of a Postal Bank in Gedera yesterday. Two masked meo had beeo rohbing the bank, with one of them pointing a gun at a teller, when a customer armed with a pistol walked in and asked them what they thought they were doing. They fled. About 50 minutes later, the Postal Bank in Gan Yavne was held up, with NIS 5,800 taken, apparently hy the same pair.

Perry and Peres will meet oneon-one. They will later be joined hy lvry, Chief of General Staff Lt-Geo. Amnno Lipkin-Shahak. the head of the Planning Branch, and nther nfficials. After this wnrkiog meetiog, Perry will meet President Ezer Weizman befnre leaving the country.

Earlier yesterday, in Riyadh, Perry called the Persian Gulf regioo a "vital national security interest," and said the US would continue its close military watch over Iraq to deter another Gulf War.

"It's always better to deter war than have to fight noe," Perry said. "And that's nur nbjective here."

Perry visited the air base in Riyadh, fram which US warplanes fly up to 125 sorties a day over southern Iraq.

Air Fnrce Maj.-Gen. Carl Franklin, commander of a joint military task force in the region, said Iraqi President Saddam Hussein remains a danger despite his defeat in the 1991 war. "We see Saddam as a threat today, and we see that threat far the foresceable future," Franklio tald reporters traveling with Perry.

The US warplanes that patrol the skies over southern Iraq seek nut potential targets, such as antiaircraft missile batteries, that whuld be among the first to be attacked in wartime.

Later, Perry went to the Saudi national guard training center, which was the scene of the November 13 bomhing that killed seven penple, iocluding five Americans. Perry said that while the still-uosolved erime represected a tragic loss, it would have no impact on US policy in the Persian Gulf.

three judges, headed by Judge Amnon Strashnov, Tel Aviv Distriet Court Jodge Judge Menahem flan ruled yesterday. Usually three judges preside only in murder or attempted mur-

DROR Adani and Haggai Amir will be tried in front of a panel of der trials, but judges have the authority to rule that such panels hear cases involving offenses considered sufficiently serious. Adani and Amir are charged with conspiring to marder prime minister Yitzhak Rabin, conspir-

Three remanded

for conspiring against Shahal

RAINE MARCUS

ing to murder Arabs and to damage property, and illegal possessinn of arms and ammunitioo. Adani is also accused of plotting to kill terrorists released from prisnn as part of the Oslo accords.

Assassin Yigal Amir appeared in court together with his brother Haggai and Adani yesterday. He again hlew kisses to his family and smiled while he was on sitting on the defendants' bench. Only

RAINE MARCUS

Dror Adani (knit skullcap), Haggai Amir (center), and Yigal Amir at yesterday's hearing in Tel Aviv District Court (Yossi Zeliger/IPPA)

Dror Adani, Haggai Amir to be his sister and father were present in court. Amir quipped that he had thought of killing Rabin by boohy-trapping his cellular phone

Following his interjections, Ilan ordered him removed from the courtroom, while a hearing was held on a request to remand the nther two defendants' ootil the completion of legal proceedings against them. His lawyer, tried before panel of three judges and said that both he and his client wished to hear proceedings, but Ilan refused to allow Amir to remain.

Monday, January 8, 1996

Prosecutor Penina Guy had requested that both Adami and Haggai Amir be remanded until the end of proceedings, arguing that if they were released, Prime. Minister Shimon Peres's life might be endangered. Yigal Amir. has already been remanded until trial. Ilan postponed his decisioo until Wednesday.

Winning cards. In vesterday's Mifal Hapayis daily Chance card draw, the lucky cards were the eight of spades, ten of hearts, jack of diamonds, and queen of clubs.

the organizers said.

BATSHEVA TSUR

ganizations in Russia will gather They will also put an emphasis io Moscow tomorrow for the oo Jewish identity. In Moscow,

MARTIN GILBERT ATLASES

The Jerusalem Post

ISRAEL'S No. 1

WEATHER

7 ....

72 c.

12

Sec. 2. 1

2.

2 . . . .

7.5

-EE

ñ.....

Barah. Vr

bold taiks in

MRES Realist

to Elan in the

INT STATE

100 m 201 ....

UE

M. Taga ta

STO FORMER

Call and 5

Your M

SHEILA'S

Call 02-41

410252 4

Total States

At bewith M.

Cie Tar al

Ros c

2.52

ATTER STATE

Notes Car Pro-

Mar of States

tions because 1 a. . .

Q. . .

2...

-

 $\epsilon^{2}$

1. S. S.

¥.*.....

C. . .

1.5

BAC and The One Tree Theatre Company present:

Hefetz before Shamgar Commission

Police Inspector-General Assaf Hefetz was questioned yesterday hy the Shamgar Commission and the lawyers for the seveo GSS and police officials issued warning letters hy the commission. The hearing lasted over six hnurs, farcing the postpooement of the testimony of Internal Security Minister Bill Hutman Moshe Shahal.

Local geologist: Find natural gas

"Instead of spending billions of dollars on importing natural gas from Qatar, we would be better off spending several tens of millions nf dollars on lnoking for the same gas here," geologist Dr. Baruch Drin said here yesterday. Drin maintains that while Israel may not be rich in nil deposits, it does have a large Itim potential for natural gas.

WIZO campaign to target domestic violence

WIZO yesterday launched its 1996 fund-raising campaign, which aims to raise NIS 5.5 million to finance programs to combat domestic violence. In 1995, 3,000 women called the organizatino's hot lines for battered women, according th WIZO Israel chairman Helena Glaser. Of the 6,120 women who applied to WIZO's legal advice bureaus last year, over a thousand were cases of domestic violence. Jerusalem Post Staff

Rains boost Kinneret level by 10 cm.

OCCUPATION: NAZI HUNTER

The renewed interest in the efforts to prosecute the perpetrators of the Holocaust was sparked by revelations that Allied countries such as USA, UK,

Canada and Australia had afforded a postwar haven to thousands of Nazi collaborators. Efraim Zuroff, director of the Israel Office of the Simon Wiesenthal Center and coordinator of the Center's research on Nazi war revived in the seventies, how it was carried out in the eighties and whether it can continue in the nineties.

criminals, discusses in his book how Nazi-hunting was

The Continuing Search for Perpetrators of the Holocaust

Deputy director of the Lake Kinneret Authority Shlomo Bahaloul said the recent rains had boosted the level of the lake by 10 centimeters. "If January and February are rainy, we can expect a gradual and moderate rise in the level of the Kinneret. If what we hear is true and another rainy weekend is expected, theo we nuly need another munth and a half of serious rain before the level returns to normal," he said.

FOUR followers of Uzi Meshu lam, suspected of conspiring to commit a crime against Internal Security Minister Moshe Shahal, were arrested yesterday. Three nf them allegedly prowled around Shahal's Haifa home in the early hours of Friday morning. After they were spotted, they managed to flee by car and on foot.

One of the four, a minor, was released after qoestinning. The others - Moshe Ezer, 42, of Rishon Lezion; Avinoam Marhov, 30, nf Rosh Ha'ayin; and Ilan Anaki, 22, of Moshav Bnei Ayish - were remanded by Kfar Sava Magistrate's Conrt for seven days.

The three deoied prawling around Shahal's home and posting fliers against him. It is still not clear how they succeeded in peaetrating security around Shahal's house, but security arrangements have since been beefed up. Since the imprisonment of Me-shulam and 11 followers, police have been concerned about reactioos from his hoodreds nf supporters. Pulice iotelligence snurces have repeatedly said that there have been warnings of threats on the lives of senior police officers.

02-241282 Far: 02-211212

founding meeting of the Russian Jewish Coogress.

LEADERS of all the Jewish or-

They will be joined by Ministers Yossi Beilin and Rabbi Yehnda Amital. Chief Rabbi Eliahn Bakshi-Doroo, and 1,000 nther guests from abroad, including US congressmen, representatives of the Jewish Agency and the Joint Distribution Committee, and influential Jews from 30 countries. The enngress, called hy the chief rabbis nf Russia and Moscow, is intended to serve as an nmbrella organizatinn that will provide educational, social, cultural, and welfare services for the Russian Jewish community.

During the three days of deliberations, plans will be made for the building of religious and educatinnal institutions. Means of jniotly combatting aotisemitism aod settiog up a fundraisiog mechanism will also be discussed,

ARTIN GH BERT

THE DENT

OF JEWISH

HISTORY

trade, culture and societal status. Sidenoics accounts each map. Softcover, Dent.

which has some 300,000 Jews, only 1,500 are registered in Jewish day schools and there are growing fears nf assimilation. "Israel has an historic obliga-tioo to participate in the rebuilding of the Jewish community in Russia, which has remained one nf the largest in the world," Amital said yesterday. He said that strnng ties to Judaism wnuld eventually lead tn enntinued aliya.

In a separate development, the cabinet yesterday set up a ministerial steering committee to oversee Israel-Diaspora relations. Headed by Amital, the committee will include Beilin, Foreign Minister Ehod Barak, Absnrption Minister Yair Tzaban, Tourism Minister Uzi Baram, Arts Minister Shulamit Aloni, and Re-liginus Affairs Minister Shimon Shetreet.

THE DENT

OF THE ARAB-ISRAELI

CONFLICT

ATLA

Winner of "Time-Out" award; best Fringe production 1995 - 17

Tel-Aviv, Susanne Dellal Center - Wed., 17.1.96, 8:30 p.m.; Thur., 18.1, 8:30 p.m.; Fri., 19.1, 2 p.m., 10:00 p.m.; Sot., 20.1, 8:30 p.m. Sales - Susame Dellat: (03) 5105656, Hadron: (03) 5279955; 5279997, Ia'an: (03) 5247373, Castel: (03) 6044725; Hasharon: (03) 5400551-2 Jerusalem, Jerusalem Theatre, Rebocca Crown Auditorium - Thur., 11, 1.96, 8:30 p.m., Sat., 13.1.96, 8:30 p.m. Sales - Jerusalem Theatre; [02]610011, Binia: [02]234061, Kelaim; [02]256869

Haifa, Haifa Theatre, Maadaa He-Theatran Ho-Hadash - Man, 15.1.96, 8:30 p.m. Salas - Haifa Theatre: (04) 620870, Garber: (04)384777

Klur Salaba, Heikhal Hatarbat Hoirani - Jues, 16.1.96; B30 p.m. Sales - Heikhal Hatarbat (199479230, Hasharon: (03) 5400551-2

Rehovot, Wix Asditorium - Moni., 8,1,96, 8,30 p.m. Sales - Wax Auditorium: (08)343352, Lotus: (08)364979, 467890

Kamiel, Heidhal Hatarbut Heirani - Sun., 7,1,96, 9:00 p.m. Sales - Heidhal Hatarbut: (04)9987951, Sherate David Nehariya: (04)9920330

Those with Diners Club conds can have a pair of ticlets for the prior of one with 400 points. Namber of places limited, due to limited stepply. Discourt of NIS 20 with the parchase of two ticlets. Special after sold at: Tel-Astv: [03]5105656,5279955 Jerussian: {02450011, Haito: [04]620670, 384777. KlarSabba & Rehovat: [03]5279955, Kariniel: {04}9987951

620670, 384777,	Kiar-Sabba & Rehova	t. (03)5279955, Kormie	L (04)9987951
			POS

 $\{ y_{i}, y_{i} \}$

14

Foreword by Rabbl Marvin Hier. Published by KTAV. Hardcover, 374 pp.	2 series month
JP Price NIS 139 incl. VAT, p.&h. in Israel
To: Books, The Jerusalem Post, POB 81, Jerusal Please send me a copy of Occupation: Nazi Hun	em 91000 nter. Enclosed is my

Itim

To: Books, The Jerusalem Post, POB 81, Jerusalem 91000 Please send me a copy of Occupation: Nazl Hunter. Enclosed is my check payable to The Jerusalem Post, or credit card details
	ISRACARD

CC No	Εφ
Name	Address
City	CodeID No
Tei.(day)	Signature

S

From 2000 BCE to the present day, 132 maps trace the world-wide migrations of the Jews from ancient Mesopotamia to modern larael. Depicts not only the movement of the Jews but century as well as showing moves towards peace through negotiation and agreed boundaries. Maps are accompanied by powerful and compeling quotations from those involved on both sides. Software Dent also their achievements, trials, tribulations, political structures cover. Dent.

JP Price NIS 56.00 ca. JP Special NIS 105.00 for both

To: Books, The Jerusalem Post, POS 81, Jerusalem 91000 Tel. 02-241282 Please send me Martin Gilbert's: [] Atlas of Jewish History ] Atlas of the Arab-Israeli Conflict Enclosed is my check for NIS 56.00 cs. or NIS 105.00 for both, payable to The Jerusalem Post, Credit card orders accepted by phone 02-241282.

Name		•					•
Address	•	_
City	- `			•			•
Code		·	•
Tia			:	• .	•	i .	